GERMANY LAGS BEHIND PACE OF EARLIER DRIVES

Thrust Into Russia Meets Obstacles.

Germany's campaign against soviet Russia entered the 16th day at dawn yesterday, and despite the contradictory claims of rival headquarters, military experts considered it safe to say that the soviet was proving the hardest nut to crack that Hitler's armies have yet encountered.

In 16 days the Nazis have made great progress. but, compared with their successes in Poland and in the combined campaign in the west against Holland, Belgium, and France, they still are far from their goal.

After 18 days Poland had fallen, altho Warsaw and the garrison on the Hela peninsula near Danzig held out for another week. In the west, Holland was crushed on the 5th day of the campaign, Belgium on the 19th day, and the campaign was concluded with the capitulation of France on the 38th day. The direct campaign against France was finished in 12 days.

Comparisons in the West.

After 16 days in Poland, the Nazis were but two days from complete victory.

After 16 days in the west, they had knocked out Holland, made further Belgian resistance futile, encircled Belgian forces and the élite mechanized divisions of the French and British armies in the Flanders pocket, driven to the channel ports, and created the break-thru at Sedan which made all this possible and left France so vulnerable it could be cut down at leisure.

After 16 days in Russia, despite incontrovertible successes, the Germans are just coming up against their real problems. They have swallowed a large amount of territory, but most of it is in the buffer states Stalin had seized since September, 1939. They have overrun Lithuania and Latvia, as well as Russian Poland, but they have not yet cleaned the Reds out of Estonia and Bessarabia, and their advances in the Karelian isthmus over territory the Russians took from Finland, have been slight.

Center Thrust in Russia.

The main drive thru former Poland is the only one that has carried any appreciable distance beyond the old Russian frontier of 1939. At the point of deepest Nazi penetration, to Orsha on the Dnieper river, the Germans are only 150 miles into the soviet union. And their advance has just brought them up with the Stalin line, the main series of Russian defenses.

At the same stage in the Polish campaign, resistance was scattered and demoralized. At a similar point in the western campaign, the seeds of disintegration were already sprouting.

Poland had no integrated defense line. The main Maginot line still stood in France, but it was a meaningless symbol as soon as it had been flanked by the Germans when they pierced the northwest extension [little Maginot line] between Sedan and the sea.

Stalin Line Built in Depth.

The Stalin line, a series of pillboxes, gun emplacements, fortified works, and underground fortresses, extending 1,100 miles along Russia's old frontier from the Black sea to the Gulf of Finland, is said to average 25 miles in depth, and to be 75 miles in depth at some points. The Germans have yet to break thru or flank it.

The German high command so far has claimed the capture of almost 300,000 prisoners, the infliction of at least that many casualties, the destruction of 7,000 planes and about 5,800 tanks, and the capture of 2,330 field and anti-aircraft guns.

Russia has termed these claims "a manifest lie and boastful humbug." In a communique a week ago, the Reds said Russia had lost 900 tanks to 2,500 for Germany, 840 planes to 1,500 for Germany, and 15,000 prisoners to 30,000 for Germany.

Admit "Obstinate" Resistance.

Yesterday a soviet official asserted that German gains had been made at the tremendous price of 1,000,000 men killed and wounded. While both the German and Russian claims may be considered inflated, it should be remembered that the Nazis themselves have testified that Russian resistance has been "obstinate" and, in some cases, "fanatical." The crackup in morale that made Germany's path

DRIVES SUCCEED, CLAIM OF BOTH NAZIS AND REDS

Dispatches from Berlin and Moscow again presented conflicting stories of the war between Germany and Russia yesterday.

The Red army, according to the soviet spokesmen, fought off drives by German and Finnish armies which threatened Leningrad. The soviet communique said fighting raged along the battle line as far south as the Ukraine. The Reds claimed they pushed back the Nazis at several points.

Berlin unofficial sources said the Germans had penetrated the Stalin line, but the Nazi high command did not mention the soviet main defense line. It merely stated that the drive was progressing "according to plan."

Details of the battles, with maps, will be found on page 5.

WHY AMERICANS ARE NOT STAMPEDED INTO WAR BY HIGH-SOUNDING WAR SLOGANS

They remember the noble utterances of President Wilson before congress, April 2, 1917, just before he got us into war.

—and then they remember what he said in St. Louis, Sept. 5, 1919, after the war was over, and how different it was!

They remember how generously America responded to the frantic appeals of the allies. Men, money and ships—ships and more ships.

—and they remember the shameful ingratitude of the allies after America had got thru saving their lives.

They remember how thrilled they were by the noble slogans of the war mongers: "Make the world safe for democracy" and "The war to end war."

—and then they remember how the Versailles peace conference forgot the noble slogans and made a peace that bred dictatorships all over the world.

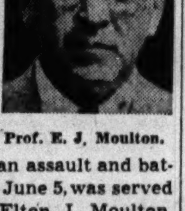
N. U. Professor in Fist Fight? Evanston Agog

Evanston residents were agog last night over the mysterious back yard quarrel reported to have taken place between a socially prominent Evanstonian and a nationally known Northwestern university mathematics professor and author.



Prof. E. J. Moulton.

The upper bracket mêlée was revealed when an assault and battery warrant, issued June 5, was served last night on Dr. Elton J. Moulton, 53 years old, of 1114 Colfax street, Evanston, the mathematics professor.

Several Versions of Quarrel.

The complainant was Robert A. Sellery of 1113 Grant street, a salesman whose back yard faces Prof. Moulton's back yard.

Sellery had nothing to say about the affair. Moulton, who was released on his own recognizance by Municipal Judge Harry H. Porter, said, "I'm going to bed and I don't care to discuss it."

Neighbors, however, gave what they said was a probable cause of the fight. The Moulton and Sellery garages almost face each other across the width of a narrow alley. According to the neighbors Sellery once drove into Prof. Moulton's back yard in backing out of his garage and another time parked his car in a way to block the professor's garage.

Erects Board Fence.

Not long afterward, the neighbors said, the professor erected a board and post fence across the back yard, making it difficult for Sellery to back out.

The results of the fight were not recorded in police reports, but Sellery, considerably younger than Prof. Moulton, was said to have suffered a black eye. His mother, Mrs. Harry Acheson Sellery of Ravinia, said she understood he was struck with his glasses on.

The professor, who was dean of the Northwestern university graduate school from 1931 to 1933, and who is the author of three books and numerous papers on mathematics, was told to appear before Judge Porter July 22.

LIFE INSURANCE GAINS IN BRITAIN DESPITE WAR AND BOMBINGS

New York, July 7 (AP).—Despite bombings and the war, British life insurance in 1940 showed increased assets, premium income, and payments to policyholders, the Institute of Life Insurance reported today.

Payments to policyholders and beneficiaries totaled 19 per cent more than in pre-war 1938 and 2 per cent more than in 1939, the institute found in a study of companies representing 60 per cent of the British business.

Payments for death benefits to the families of policyholders increased 12.4 per cent over 1939, and 20 per cent over 1938. "A substantial portion of this increase was the result of other than war conditions," said the institute.

NEED U. S. TROOPS TO WIN WAR, SAYS BRITISH GENERAL

CAIRO, Egypt, July 7 (AP).—Gen. Sir Claude Auchinleck, new commander-in-chief of British forces in the middle east, today said United States man power was needed if the war is to be won properly—"on Germany's own soil."

"And it must be won properly, not half-won," he told correspondents. "I've always thought the war must be won in Europe, in Germany, on Germany's own soil," he replied to queries.

"They must be beaten in the way Napoleon was beaten. Therefore, I see as much need for American man-power in this war as in the last. In 12, 14, or 24 months this need will certainly arise. How we are to get into the Germans' country is another matter, but ways and means will present themselves."

The new commander, who exchanged posts with Gen. Sir Archibald P. Wavell last week, was former commander-in-chief in India.

35 U. S. Air Observers on Duty at 1 RAF Station

LONDON, July 7 (AP).—Thirty-five United States air observers are located at a single British RAF station, reliable sources said today. This was declared to be the largest contingent of the observers anywhere in Britain, altho there is at least one at each RAF post.

Girls in Shorts Give Pause to Soldier Boys

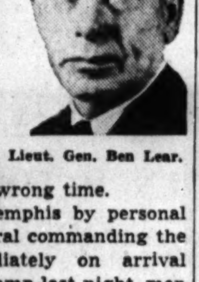
Memphis, Tenn., July 7 (AP).—Twelve hundred weary soldiers slept at municipal airport here tonight, with the tentative prospect of a hot walk at least part of the 150 miles back to Camp Robinson, Ark., tomorrow—punishment for saluting a group of shorts clad girl golfers too gayly and at the wrong time.



Lieut. Gen. Ben Lear.

Returned to Memphis by personal order of the general commanding the 2d army immediately on arrival at the Arkansas camp last night, men of a provisional battalion of the 110th motor transport, 35th division, told this tale:

Returning in a gay mood by truck convoy from cleanup duties at Camp Forrest, Tenn., after recent maneuvers, the mixed group from virtually every unit in the division cut loose with catcalls, yells, and whistles as they passed a bevy of pretty girls on a golf course here yesterday.

Shout at Golfing General.

One of them yelled "fore" at a stern faced man in mufti who was playing the course, and when this man stopped the transport to remonstrate with the officers, another shouted "Hey, buddy, don't you want a caddy?"

Calling the action "a very severe breach of discipline," the stern faced golfer—Lieut. Gen. Ben Lear himself—ordered the convoy to continue to Camp Robinson, refuel, return here and pass thru Memphis in more orderly fashion.

Await Punitive Measures.

The troops, from Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska, and Arkansas, were provisioned for 48 hours tonight and fully expected as a punitive measure, a long hike somewhere along the road back to camp tomorrow. The battalion's officers and noncommissioned officers went on the carpet before Gen. Lear today, but the orders he gave them were "off the record."

ISLAND IS TAKEN OVER BY NAVY, CONGRESS TOLD

Prelude to Shooting War, Critics Fear.

Force 'Very Large'

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask., July 7 (AP).—Prime Minister Mackenzie King said tonight the American naval force in Iceland is very large and that Canadian troops sent out some time ago to reenforce that island all have been withdrawn to England. He said he had known for a week about the United States plan to enter Iceland and called it "the most significant move yet." The prime minister said that the Canadians had built roads and established bases in Iceland which now would be used by the United States.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

(Maps on back page.)

Washington, D. C., July 7.—President Roosevelt announced in a message to congress this afternoon that American naval forces have occupied Iceland to supplement and eventually to replace British forces there. He also pledged the use of the American navy to assure safe shipping lanes not only to Iceland, but also to "all other strategic outposts" in the Atlantic ocean.

Hermann Jonasson, Premier of Iceland.

Congressional noninterventionists and many members of congress who have supported the administration's foreign policy interpreted the move as a long step toward active, shooting participation in the European war.

Speculate on Size of Force.

The strength of the naval forces sent to Iceland was kept secret. There was speculation that marines made up the forces, but the navy department refused to amplify the President's statement.

A message to Mr. Roosevelt from Prime Minister Hermann Jonasson of Iceland—the message was a prelude to the dispatch of American forces—used the word "troops" in reference to American assumption of defense of the island. This term could include armed forces of any character, the army as well as the navy and the marines.

Officials likewise refused to state the strength of the British forces now in Iceland. Sailors on ships which put in there last winter estimated there were 80,000 British there, but the figure never was confirmed.

Announced as Accomplished Fact.

The President announced his action as an accomplished fact, for the information and not for the consent or approval of congress. He proceeded precisely as he did last summer in exchanging 50 naval destroyers for air and naval bases in the British western hemisphere possessions—by an exchange of notes.

He informed congress that on July 1 he had received a letter from

Atlantic Patrol Plane Lost at Sea; 7 Aboard

Washington, D. C., July 7 (AP).—The navy department announced today that a plane of the northeastern Atlantic patrol has been missing since July 3 with two officers and five enlisted men aboard.

Robert H. McKown.
[A. P. Wirephoto.]

The plane, a PBY-5, was piloted by Ensigns Robert H. McKown and Joseph C. Haskell of the naval reserve.

[The PBY-5 is an amphibian patrol bomber with retractable tricycle landing gear and powered with two 1,200 horse power engines.]

Contact with the plane was last established the afternoon of July 3, the navy said, while the craft was on a routine patrol flight off the northeastern coast of the United States.

Extensive Search Told.

Since that time, it was added, extensive naval search has been conducted both by surface vessels and aircraft of the Atlantic fleet, and this search "is still being continued."

The approximate location of the missing patrol ship and the base from which it was operating were not disclosed.

Ensign McKown's home was given as Atlanta, Ga., and that of Ensign Haskell as Charleston, S. C.

Enlisted men aboard were named as follows:

Wyman Richard Van Liere, 28 years old, aviation machinist's mate, first class, a naval aviation pilot, whose wife, Mrs. Marjorie Hamilton Van Liere, lives at Phoenix, Ariz.

Milwaukeean in List.

Lynton Melmus England, 32, aviation machinist's mate, first class, whose wife, Mrs. Julia England, lives at Long Beach, Cal.

Claude Andrew Ashley, 34, radioman, first class, whose wife, Mrs. Violet Mae Ashley, lives at Lillington, N. C.

Lynn Elliott Dunlap, 20, radioman, third class, whose mother, Mrs. Naomi Anna Dunlap, lives at Mountain, Wis.

Anthony Henry Gasafy, 28, aviation machinist's mate, third class, whose father, Henry Gasafy, lives at Milwaukee, Wis. Young Gasafy became 28 years old on the day the plane disappeared.

REVEALS SON'S LETTER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., July 7. — Henry Gasafy, father of Anthony Henry Gasafy, one of the seven flyers reported lost aboard the navy patrol bomber PBY-5, tonight disclosed the text of a letter he received recently from his son.

The letter, which was written from the Argentia Naval base in Newfoundland and dated June 6, 1941, told some of young Gasafy's experiences in the naval flying service and the conditions under which the naval flyers operate.

Flight from Greenland Told.

The text of the letter follows in part:

"Dear father,

"I am just back from Greenland today, another one of those places I'll never want to go back to. I can't tell you much about the place in a letter. We were there since May 27 and had no mail and no touch with the world, except by radio.

"It took 15 hours to fly back to Newfoundland and it still is as cold as when we left. Expect we will come back here after a trip to the United States. The temperature is 20 below zero at times and fur boots are not much help.

"Planes Take a Beating."

"Some of the squadron will be here until late in the fall. I expect to be back after a month in the United States to get new planes. The planes we have are only five months old, but we are getting new ones for the special work we do here.

"The planes surely take a beating out here. I am surprised how they stand up and we have not had any accidents so far."

The letter also congratulated the father on his 50th birthday.

The elder Gasafy, a World war veteran of the 85th division who served 13 months overseas in France and in the army of occupation, recently bought a home here. His son was an only child.

Soviet Decrees Jail Terms for Spreading False Tales

MOSCOW, July 7 (AP).—The soviet supreme council decreed 2 to 5 years' imprisonment today for dissemination of false rumors likely to alarm the populace.

BRITISH BELIEVE AMERICA WILL GUARD ATLANTIC

See English Relieved of Heavy Duty.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 7.—America's action in occupying Iceland created great satisfaction in British government circles tonight.

"This is big news and welcome news," a foreign office spokesman said in commenting on President Roosevelt's announcement that naval forces have landed there.

Iceland is well within the blockade zone proclaimed by Germany and the landing of American forces in the center of the crucial battle of the Atlantic is taken as proving that the United States is going to get supplies to Great Britain by patroling the seas to Iceland, thus allowing the British fleet to concentrate elsewhere.

Reduces Escort Ships' Tasks.

The task of the British escort ships, it was said, will be cut down by two-thirds and Adolf Hitler's attempt to blockade the British Isles is dealt a serious blow.

The action is accepted as revealing that Mr. Roosevelt's real policy is to get the United States to take charge of the whole convoy system up to American outposts in European waters. These outposts now have reached a point from where American long distance bombers could raid Germany or German occupied territory and return to their base.

Some observers here declared the occupation of Iceland may be the "incident" which American spokesmen and the late British ambassador, Lord Lothian, said would be necessary to bring the United States into active participation in the war.

A Relief for Britain.

Official sources said that it is "regarded as a practical manifestation of American realization of the German threat to democracies generally and of their [German] desire to obtain world domination."

The President's action was further welcomed here as it "relieves the British of heavy responsibilities at a time when they need as many available men as possible for eventual developments on the continent."

It was officially pointed out that the commitments made by Britain when it landed troops in Iceland, such as safeguarding the sovereignty and independence of the island, automatically end when the British forces are evacuated. British troops will be withdrawn from Iceland "gradually."

Papers Play Up News.

London newspapers carried the story of America's action on their front pages, some publishing maps and articles explaining the strategic importance of the island in the battle of the Atlantic.

The Daily Express political correspondent said: "The primary task of the American forces will be the defense of Iceland but this may also involve policing the seas and air in the vicinity."

"The Atlantic ocean last night became an Anglo-American lake," said the Daily Express, newspaper of Lord Beaverbrook, minister of supply.

Stress America's Duty.

The paper proclaimed Mr. Roosevelt's move "is for Britain as big news as Russia's successful resistance to Germany's military onslaught." It pointed out that from "Iceland around to Trinidad and British Guiana American forces are disposed to prevent a pincers movement in the western hemisphere. And that gives America the right—and obligation—to patrol all the waters up to and beyond the 15th degree of longitude which runs thru the western point of Iceland."

The Daily Mail, under the heading, "Roosevelt Moves In," said: "In effect the President has extended his country's frontiers across 4,000 miles of ocean. He has established a startling and courageous precedent in the history of the United States. In Britain we can breathe more freely. There are other Atlantic islands equally dangerous to America—the Azores and the Cape Verde Islands. There also is Dakar [in Africa].

VOTES AGAINST WAR REACH 4-1 IN TRIBUNE POLL

Each New Count Swells Demand for Peace.

BY PERCY WOOD.

Sentiment for peace reached a high point of more than 4 to 1 yesterday in the daily percentage in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE's war poll, and the cumulative percentage—the average for all days—was almost at 4 to 1.

This overwhelming desire to remain at peace was manifested in the day's returns by 2,935 voters in the 50 Chicago wards, more than 81 per cent of whom replied "No" to the question: "Shall the United States Enter the War to Help Britain Defeat Hitler?"

The first day's results, published last Thursday, recorded anti-war sentiment at 3 to 1. This has grown as each mail bag of ballots has been opened and its contents tabulated.

14,090 Ballots Received.

Last night a total of 14,090 ballots had been received, with these results:

Yes [for war]: 2,948, or 20.92 per cent.

No [against war]: 11,034, or 78.31 per cent.

Spoiled or unmarked ballots totaled 108, or .77 of 1 per cent.

Yesterday's returns in THE TRIBUNE's poll were tallied as:

Yes [for war]: 540, or 18.40 per cent.

No [against war]: 2,379, or 81.06 per cent.

Spoiled ballots totaled 16, or .54 of 1 per cent.

Some light may be shed on the returns by the following descriptions of the leading three wards in each group—those most opposed to entering the war and those least opposed to getting into it.

The interventionist group includes the 24th ward, the only one casting a majority in favor of war. Nationality backgrounds and rental figures are taken from various studies made of the complex makeup of the city's subdivisions.

FORTY-FIFTH WARD—93.10 per cent voting "no." Has many residents of German extraction, with occupations well balanced between trades and businesses. It has a large proportion of two and three flat buildings and modest single residences, with rentals mostly from $25 to $45.

Many Are Foreign Born.

TWENTY-FOURTH WARD—54.85 per cent voting "yes." Including the North Lawndale section, this ward is almost entirely Russian-Jewish, with many families of Polish extraction. A large proportion are foreign born. Most of the rentals are split between the $20-$30 and $30-$50 brackets.

EIGHTEENTH WARD—91.18 per cent voting "no." Includes parts of West Englewood, Englewood, Auburn Park, and Gresham districts, where German and Irish backgrounds are numerous. Employment is greatest in the mechanical and building trades with many railroad men, policemen, firemen, and street car conductors. Rentals are in the $25 to $50 brackets.

TWENTY-SECOND WARD—37.07 per cent voting "yes." The North Lawndale section has characteristics similar to those of the 24th ward, while in the South Lawndale district Czechs rank first, with some residents of Polish and German descent.

Steel Workers Numerous.

NINTH WARD—90.26 per cent voting "no." The Pullman section of the ward is mainly of Italian background with some Polish, while the Roseland district has many families of Dutch and Swedish extraction. Steel workers are numerous. Rentals are mostly below $45.

TWENTY-SIXTH WARD—37.66 per cent voting "yes." There is a large Polish majority with some Russian and a few Italian residents. Most rentals are in the $10 to $25 bracket. Employment is largely in selling, independent hand trades, and steel manufacture.

By impartially selecting every 10th voter on the polling lists in Chicago, Cook county, and nine downstate election board cities, a total of 257,484 ballots was mailed last week, a return postcard, postage prepaid, being attached bearing the question and space for an answer.

The downstate communities being polled are Cairo, Bloomington, Springfield, Rockford, Aurora, Peoria, East St. Louis, Danville, and Galesburg.

War Poll Results Ward by Ward

Following are the ward results from the balloting, to date, on The Chicago Tribune's poll on the question: "Shall the United States Enter the War to Help Britain Defeat Hitler?"

Remove 221 from Grounded Shoot-the-Rapids Steamer

LACHINE, Que., July 7. (AP).—The last of 221 passengers on the grounded excursion steamer Rapids Prince were brought ashore today by motor launches shuttling across trick currents of Lachine rapids. They had been aboard overnight after the vessel grounded at dusk yesterday on a shoot-the-rapids voyage. Many of the passengers were Americans.

R. C. Stockton Foreman of Grand Jury for July

Robert C. Stockton, 541 Abbotsford road, Kenilworth, assistant traffic manager of Montgomery Ward & Co., was named foreman of the July grand jury impaneled yesterday before Chief Justice James F. Fardy of the Criminal court. Four women were chosen on the jury.

DON'T ENTER WAR, SAY 68.6 PER CENT IN NEW YORK POLL

New York, July 7 [Special].—The score tonight in the New York News' state-wide poll on American entry into the European war stood:

Against intervention, 68.6 per cent; for intervention, 31.4 per cent. A total of 49,346 postcard ballots has been counted. One of every 10 of New York's registered voters is being asked the question:

"Shall the United States enter the war to help Britain defeat Hitler?"

The 68.6 per cent vote against intervention represented a state-wide gain of 2/5 of 1 per cent for the stay-outers. The following are the results of the poll to date:

| | Yes votes. | Per cent. | No votes. | Per cent. |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Upstate totals | 1,538 | 27.8 | 3,997 | 72.7 |
| City totals | 13,949 | 31.8 | 29,862 | 68.2 |
| State-wide totals | 15,487 | 31.4 | 33,859 | 68.6 |

Train Late; Crew Explains: 6 Drunks Asleep on Track

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, July 7 (AP).—The Corinto-Managua train arrived long past its scheduled time last night. There were inquiries about it today. The train crew's explanation: Six drunks were asleep on the track. It took time to remove them.

FIREMEN SCALE 6 STORY TOWER IN SHOW DRILL

Two Outfits Are Pitted in Speed Competition.

BY WILLIAM MOORE.

Long hook and ladder trucks and powerful fire engines responded yesterday to the first alarm at the six story fire tower in Soldiers' field, when the last week of rehearsals began for the fourth annual Chicago Police and Fire Thrill show. The great exhibition of the daring and skill of the police and firemen will be held at the field next Sunday afternoon.

Hook and ladder companies 1 and 6 hurled their ladders to the top of the tower, and in time that was measured in seconds the firemen of the two companies and engine companies 1 and 5 scaled the walls of the still unfinished tower.

The drill was directed by Anthony J. Mullaney, first deputy chief fire marshal, and Michael Cody, second deputy.

A Drum Majorette.

Flo Vallett and her stage partner, Ted Vallett, appeared for the first time in full costume as drum majorette and drum major to lead Division Marshal Joseph J. Graham's fire department drill team in its lightning field maneuvers. Miss Vallett, who was drum majorette in last year's show, is a sister of Fireman Edward Valiquet of Squad 5.

Harry M. O'Rourke, executive secretary of the thrill show committee, extended an invitation to all men in the active branches of the American armed forces to attend the show as guests of the committee. Their uniform will be their ticket of admission.

The invitation exemplifies the spirit of the thrill show, which is planned as a tribute to the heroic men of the fire and police service and as a stirring patriotic demonstration. Every boy and girl attending the show will be given an American flag for the show's flag ceremony.

Stage Coach Robbery.

Chief John L. Sullivan and Lieut. Kyran Phelan of the detective bureau, working with Capt. David Flynn of the traffic division, are busy outfitting their men in western costumes for the stage coach robbery drama. Chief Harry K. [Smoky] Rogers of the Western Actuarial bureau has offered the use of his collection of western saddles and costumes.

The park police held their drill yesterday for the opening parade, in which the squad cars of the park and city police and the trucks of the fire department will be seen.

Tickets to the thrill show are on sale from 10 a. m. to 5 p. m. at The Tribune public service office, Madison and Dearborn streets, and at gate O the south entrance to Soldiers' field.

GEN. WOOD ASKS REFERENDUM TO MAP WAR COURSE

Sees 'Moral Mandate' as Way to Unity.

Gen. Robert Wood.

Gen. Robert E. Wood, acting national chairman of the America First committee last night urged on President Roosevelt a national advisory war referendum which "would have the force of a moral mandate" and serve as a "measure for achieving the unity we all desire."

Speaking over W-G-N and the nation-wide Mutual Broadcasting system network, Gen. Wood said that the Russian campaign, which temporarily is taking the pressure off Britain has set the time for such a vote. He pointed out that while such a referendum, if ordered by a law passed by congress, would not be legally binding on members or on the President, it would serve as a moral mandate.

Refers to Iceland Incident.

Referring to the President's announcement that American naval forces have occupied Iceland, Gen. Wood said that the country is united on hemisphere defense, then added: "But if hemisphere defense involves seizing of the Azores, the Cape Verde Islands, Dakar, or Iceland—as has just been announced—there is room for an honest difference of opinion and there would be no unity. Seizure of these points can be considered as another step to edge us into war, not for defense.

"The present controversy has gone on long enough. If the majority of the people of this country feel that we should enter this European war, then the President and congress should take us into the war and all of us as good Americans should abide by the results and should do our utmost to support our country in the war.

Suggests 3 Questions.

"If, on the other hand, the people should vote to stay out, the foreign policy of the administration and congress should be shaped accordingly, our defense continued, aid to Britain continued within the limits of the neutrality act and the lend-lease bill—no convoys—and all Americans should uphold that policy and abide by it. Only by such a referendum can we stop controversy and achieve unity."

Such a referendum, said the speaker, should contain the following questions:

1. Shall the United States enter the European war to aid Britain and to defeat Hitler?
2. Shall the United States declare war if any portion of the Western Hemisphere is attacked?
3. Shall the neutrality act be repealed?

"Those of us who are opposed to our entry into this European war are unequivocally for a strong defense," the speaker said.

Where Unity Stops.

"Because of the importance of this defense program, most patriotic citizens are willing to forego their differences on domestic problems, even when they see serious points of criticism. Unless we strip our own production by sending all our fighting planes and all our munitions to England, we should, with the advantages of our geographical position, be able to build an impregnable front to an invader within a reasonable time."

But on the subject of foreign policy, Gen. Wood said, the unity of the country stops.

"Our foreign policy has been such," the speaker said, "that we have succeeded in making potential enemies of every nation in Europe except Great Britain, and an enemy of the most powerful nation in Asia-Japan. If we do not enter the war there will be great bitterness toward us in Great Britain. In short, our foreign policy may leave us entirely isolated after the war."

He held false the premises on which the foreign policy apparently is based: That Germany is determined to conquer the world; that our destiny is linked with the British empire—we have no independent destiny of our own; the British navy is our main bulwark—that if Britain is defeated we will be invaded by Germany, Japan, or a combination of the two; that Germany, in the event of a British defeat, can strangle the United States economically.

"I believe with Col. Lindbergh that we must change our politics and our leadership," said Gen. Wood. "And when I say that, I mean in a strictly constitutional way. We have a congressional election in 1942. Regardless of party, every interventionist in the house and every interventionist senator who comes up for election should be defeated."

Hollywood, Cal., July 7 (AP).—Paramount studio announced today that one of its prettiest young actresses, Kay Sutton, had eloped to Yuma, Ariz., and married Cliff Weaver, a Hawaiian sugar planter. She has been in pictures since 1934, and last year played a part on Broadway in "Du Barry Was a Lady."

FOREIGN POLICY

In a speech at Cleveland last Nov. 2, three days before his reelection, President Roosevelt said:

"There is nothing secret about our foreign policy. . . . I have stated it many times before, not only in words, but in action. I now restate it.

"The first purpose of our foreign policy is to keep our country out of war. At the same time we seek to keep foreign conceptions of government out of the United States.

"The second purpose of this policy is to keep war as far away as possible from the shores of the entire western hemisphere."

HAROLD TUMBLES DOWN 10 FLOORS, BUT HE'S NOT OUT

Fails to Break Record of Steeplejack Hill.

Los Angeles, Cal., July 7 [Special].—Harold Holt, an elevator repairman 35 years old, failed today by five feet to equal the mark of L. T. Hill, the Ellsworth, Wis., steeplejack, who fell 100 feet from a church steeple Friday, landed on his head, and got up unhurt.

Holt was working in an elevator shaft of a downtown building when he lost his footing at the 10th floor level, 95 feet from the bottom of the shaft. At the ninth floor he grasped a steel beam and clung to it until his grasp failed. Continuing his plunge, he caught another beam at the eighth floor.

Again his grip relaxed and he dropped to the seventh. Seconds later he was plunging down again.

Stop: Sixth Floor.

He grasped the sixth floor beam. And so it was at each succeeding floor until his last drop from the first to a pile of lumber in the bottom of the shaft.

Holt then dragged himself out of the elevator well and called for aid. He was taken to a hospital for inventory of his injuries. These were a fractured right elbow, fractured chest wall, and bruises on his chest and hands.

Physicians treated the fractures and said Holt will be able to go back to work in a couple of months.

Bounces Out of Hospital.

Red Wing, Minn., July 7 [Special].—L. T. Hill, an Ellsworth, Wis., steeplejack who fell 100 feet from a church spire and landed on his head on a concrete sidewalk Friday, was discharged from St. John's hospital here today, ready to go back to work.

So far as could be learned, Hill, who had been painting the church steeple when he started his plunge, did not have a single serious injury. He could have left the hospital yesterday, but decided to remain over night just in case any injury showed up.

GLASS IS PICKED TO BE SENATE'S PRO TEM CHIEF

Washington, D. C., July 7 (AP).—Carter Glass, elder statesman of Capitol hill and stanch supporter of President Roosevelt's recent foreign policy after years of strong opposition to the New Deal, is expected to become the president pro tempore of the United States senate sometime this week.

The 83 year old Virginian, a senator for the last 21 years of his half century of public service, was the choice of the Democratic majority to succeed the late Pat Harrison of Mississippi.

Glass, the oldest member of congress, has applauded Mr. Roosevelt's denunciation of Adolf Hitler's conquest, supported the aid to Britain program, and as early as last January suggested that the United States navy be sent "to blast hell out of Germany." Glass was secretary of the treasury under Woodrow Wilson and declined Mr. Roosevelt's offer to appoint him to the same post in 1933.

Mountain Slide Crushes Houses in Virginia Town

St. Charles, Va., July 7 (AP).—A mountain slide pushed 1,000 feet into the Blue Diamond company's Bonny Blue workings on Little Black mountain tonight, overwhelming three houses and threatening others. Thousands of tons of slate and earth eased three other dwellings from their foundations and drove them against others. Recent rains started the slide and the march of the earth carried it nearly a quarter of a mile within four hours. There was hope in the village that the slide could be checked before morning.

Robber Rapes Young Wife Returning Home from Work

A young married woman on her way home from work as a telephone operator was dragged into an alley between Washington and Warren boulevards, and raped and robbed by a Negro last night. He stole her wrist watch, wedding ring, engagement ring and a small amount of money.

U. S. NAVY FORCES OCCUPY ICELAND, F. D. R. DISCLOSES

Pledges to Keep Atlantic Ocean Lanes Open.

Premier Jonasson saying the island government was ready to "entrust the protection of Iceland to the United States."

Mr. Roosevelt replied the same day, he told congress, saying that America immediately would send troops.

The correspondence between President Roosevelt and the prime minister of Iceland indicates that the British government initiated the negotiations for the occupation of Iceland. The prime minister of Iceland said he was informed by the British minister on June 24 that British forces in Iceland were required elsewhere. The letter indicates that the British minister had been informed of President Roosevelt's willingness to send American troops to Iceland provided the government of Iceland would give its consent.

Acts as Commander in Chief.

The president said he had acted as commander in chief "to insure the safety of communications in the approaches between Iceland and the United States, as well as on the seas between the United States and all other strategic outposts."

In the opinion of congressional observers, this statement indicated that the operations of the naval and air forces have been extended at least as far as the Portuguese Azores and Cape Verde Islands, which the President mentioned as strategic outposts affecting the defense of the United States in his radio speech May 27.

Mr. Roosevelt in his message asserted the United States cannot "permit the occupation by Germany of strategic outposts in the Atlantic to be used as air or naval bases for eventual attack against the western hemisphere."

Threat to Area Told.

For the same reason, the President said, "substantial forces" have been sent to the bases acquired from Great Britain in Trinidad and in British Guiana in the south to forestall any "pincers movement undertaken by Germany against the western hemisphere."

He said the occupation of Iceland by Germany would constitute a threat against Greenland, previously occupied by the United States, and the northern portion of the North American continent. German occupation also would threaten all shipping in the North Atlantic and the flow of munitions to Britain, the President added.

The premier of Iceland agreed to the American occupation upon being assured the United States will recognize the absolute independence and sovereignty of Iceland and will use its best efforts to obtain such recognition by the belligerent powers after the war.

Favors Clearing Atlantic.

The occupation of Iceland was associated in virtually all congressional quarters with:

1. The proposal made last week by Navy Secretary Frank Knox that the United States strike now to clear the Atlantic of German war craft.

2. The proposal made last week by Gen. George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, that legal restrictions be removed from the use of National Guardsmen, reservists and draftees, so they could be retained in service indefinitely and sent anywhere in the world.

Wheeler Prediction Fulfilled.

The President's announcement fulfilled a prediction made last week by Senator Burton K. Wheeler [D., Mont.], leader of the congressional noninterventionists, who said he had been informed Iceland would be occupied and used as a base for American air and naval forces engaged in the protection of British shipping.

Altho by official admission the so-called reconnaissance patrol of air and naval forces has been operating at least 2,000 miles out in the Atlantic, administration spokesmen have contended effective convoying or escorting of British shipping all the way across the Atlantic could not be undertaken without a base of operations on the other side.

According to Senator Wheeler's information, the new plan calls for actual convoying of British ships by American naval and air forces as far as Iceland and their protection by American long range bomber patrols from Iceland to the British Isles.

The general attitude of noninterventionists toward the occupation of Iceland was best expressed by Senator Arthur H. Vendenberg [R., Mich.] as follows:

"As presented by the President in his message, a very persuasive case can be made for the occupation of Iceland for purely defensive purposes. The chief anxiety will arise from the fact that the occupation of Iceland is preceded by the unrepudiated statement of the secretary of the navy [Knox], which would indicate the use of Iceland for totally different and totally unacceptable purposes."

Senator Walter F. George [D., Ga.], chairman of the foreign relations committee, who has denounced proposals to occupy Dakar, the Azores, and the Cape Verde Islands, also said he regarded the President's action as "a purely defensive step, both against any possible invasion and for the protection of the sea lanes across the North Atlantic."

"If the axis group has nothing but pacific intentions toward the United States, the occupation of Iceland by American forces will not occasion any collision between this country and Germany," Senator George added.

President Promises to Respect Sovereignty of Iceland; Only 'Picked' Troops to Be Used

President's Message

Washington, D. C., July 7 (AP).—The text of President Roosevelt's special message on the occupation of Iceland follows:

"I am transmitting herewith for the information of the congress a message I received from the prime minister of Iceland on July 1 and the reply I addressed on the same day to the prime minister of Iceland in response to this message.

"In accordance with the understanding so reached, forces of the United States navy have today arrived in Iceland in order to supplement, and eventually to replace, the British forces which have until now been stationed in Iceland in order to insure the adequate defense of that country.

Safety Held Fundamental.

"As I stated in my message to the congress of Sept. 3 last regarding the acquisition of certain naval and air bases from Great Britain in exchange for certain over age destroyers, considerations of safety from overseas attack are fundamental.

"The United States cannot permit the occupation by Germany of strategic outposts in the Atlantic to be used as air or naval bases for eventual attack against the western hemisphere. We have no desire to see any change in the present sovereignty of those regions. Assurance that such outposts in our defense frontier remain in friendly hands is the very foundation of our national security and of the national security of every one of the independent nations of the new world.

"For the same reason substantial forces of the United States have now been sent to the bases acquired last year from Great Britain in Trinidad and in British Gliana in the south in order to forestall any pincers movement undertaken by Germany against the western hemisphere. It is essential that Germany should not be able successfully to employ such tactics thru sudden seizure of strategic points in the South Atlantic and in the North Atlantic.

Three "Dimensions" Cited.

"The occupation of Iceland by Germany would constitute a serious threat in three dimensions:

"The threat against Greenland and the northern portion of the North American continent, including the islands which lie off it.

"The threat against all shipping in the North Atlantic.

"The threat against the steady flow of munitions to Britain—which is a matter of broad policy clearly approved by the congress.

"It is therefore imperative that the approaches between the Americas and those strategic outposts, the safety of which this country regards as essential to its national security, and which it must therefore defend, shall remain open and free from all hostile activity or threat thereof.

All "Necessary Steps" Ordered.

As commander-in-chief I have consequently issued orders to the navy that all necessary steps be taken to insure the safety of communications in the approaches between Iceland and the United States, as well as on the seas between the United States and all other strategic outposts.

"This government will insure the adequate defense of Iceland with full recognition of the independence of Iceland as a sovereign state.

"In my message to the prime minister of Iceland I have given the people of Iceland the assurance that the American forces sent there would in no way interfere with the internal and domestic affairs of that country, and that immediately upon the termination of the present international emergency all American forces will be at once withdrawn, leaving the people of Iceland and their government in full and sovereign control of their own territory."

Premier's Letter

Washington, D. C., July 7 (AP).—The following is the text of the Icelandic premier's letter to President Roosevelt:

"In a conversation of June 24, the British minister explained that British forces in Iceland are required elsewhere. At the same time he stressed the immense importance of adequate defense of Iceland.

"He also called my attention to the declaration of the President of the United States to the effect that he must take all necessary measures to insure the safety of the western hemisphere—one of the President's measures is to assist in the defense of Iceland—and that the President is therefore prepared to send here immediately United States troops to supplement and eventually to replace the British force here, but that he does not consider that he can take this course except at the invitation of the Iceland government.

Conditions Are Set Up.

"After careful consideration of all the circumstances the Iceland government, in view of the present state of affairs, admit that this measure is in accordance with the interest of Iceland, and therefore are ready to entrust the protection of Iceland to United States on the following conditions:

"1. United States promise to withdraw all their military forces—land, air, and sea—from Iceland immediately on conclusion of present war.

"2. United States further promise to recognize the absolute independence and sovereignty of Iceland and to exercise their best efforts with those powers which will negotiate the peace treaty at the conclusion of the present war in order that such treaty shall likewise recognize the absolute independence and sovereignty of Iceland.

"3. United States promise not to interfere with government of Iceland neither while their armed forces remain in this country nor afterwards.

Defense Organization Asked.

"4. United States promise to organize the defense of the country in such a way as to insure the greatest possible safety for the inhabitants themselves and assure that they suffer minimum disturbance from military activities; these activities being carried out in consultation with Iceland authorities as far as possible. Also because of small population of Iceland and consequent danger to nation from presence of a numerous army, great care must be taken that only picked troops are sent here. Military authorities should be also instructed to keep in mind that Icelanders have been unarmed for centuries and are entirely unaccustomed to military discipline and conduct of troops towards the inhabitants of the country should be ordered accordingly.

"5. United States undertake defense of the country without expense to Iceland and promise compensation for all damage occasioned to the inhabitants by their military activities.

"6. United States promise to further interests of Iceland in every way in their power, including that of supplying the country with sufficient necessities, of securing necessary shipping to and from the country, and of making in other respects favorable commercial and trade agreements with it.

Strong Force Sought.

"7. Iceland government expects that declaration made by President in this connection will be in agreement with these promises on the part of Iceland, and government would much appreciate its being given the opportunity of being cognizant with wording of this declaration before it is published.

"8. On the part of Iceland it is considered obvious that if the United States undertake defense of the country it must be strong enough to meet every eventuality and particularly in the beginning it is expected that as far as possible effort will be made to prevent any special danger in connection with change-over. Iceland government lays special stress on their being sufficient airplanes for defensive purposes whenever they are required and they can be used as soon as decision is made for United States to undertake the defense of the country.

"This decision is made on the part of Iceland as an absolutely free and sovereign state and it is considered as a matter of course that United States will from the beginning recognize this legal status of the country, both states immediately exchanging diplomatic representatives."

Roosevelt's Reply

Washington, D. C., July 7 (AP).—The following is the text of President Roosevelt's reply to the premier of Iceland:

"I have received your message in which you have informed me that after careful consideration of all the circumstances, the Iceland government, in view of the present state of affairs, admits that the sending to Iceland of United States troops to supplement and eventually to replace the present British forces there would be in accordance with the interests of Iceland and that, therefore, the Iceland government is ready to entrust the protection of Iceland to the United States on the following considerations:

[Here the eight points of the prime minister's message were repeated verbatim.]

Agrees to Conditions.

"You further state that this decision is made on the part of Iceland as an absolutely free and sovereign state and that it is considered as a matter of course that the United States will from the beginning recognize the legal status of Iceland, both states immediately exchanging diplomatic representatives.

"I take pleasure in confirming to you hereby that the conditions set forth in your communication now under acknowledgment are fully acceptable to the government of the United States and that these conditions will be observed in the relations between the United States and Iceland. I may further say that it will give me pleasure to request of the congress its agreement in order that diplomatic representatives may be exchanged between our two countries.

"It is the announced policy of the government of the United States to undertake to join with the other nations of the western hemisphere in the defense of the new world against any attempt at aggression.

Menace to West Asserted.

"In the opinion of this government, it is imperative that the integrity and independence of Iceland should be preserved because of the fact that any occupation of Iceland by a power whose only too clearly apparent plans for world conquest include the domination of the peoples of the new world would at once directly menace the security of the entire western hemisphere.

"It is for that reason that in response to your message, the government of the United States will send immediately troops to supplement and eventually to replace the British forces now there.

"The steps so taken by the government of the United States are taken in full recognition of the sovereignty and independence of Iceland and with the clear understanding that American military or naval forces sent to Iceland will in no wise interfere in the slightest degree with the internal and domestic affairs of the Icelandic people; and with the further understanding that immediately upon the termination of the present international emergency all such military and naval forces will be at once withdrawn, leaving the people of Iceland and their government in full sovereign control of their own territory.

Tradition of Freedom Cited.

"The people of Iceland hold a proud position among the democracies of the world, with a historic tradition of freedom and of individual liberty which is more than 1,000 years old.

"It is, therefore, all the more appropriate that in response to your message, the government of the United States, while undertaking this defensive measure for the preservation of the independence and security of the democracies of the new world, should at the same time be afforded the privilege of coöperating in this manner with your government in the defense of the historic democracy of Iceland.

"I am communicating this message, for their information, to the governments of all the other nations of the western hemisphere."

ILLINOIS DRAFT QUOTA IN AUGUST TO BE ONLY 3,311

The Illinois draft quota for August will be only 3,311 men, the lightest load since last November. Paul G. Armstrong, state director of selective service, yesterday said the reason for the light call is that training units are nearly filled and that there would be no room for more men if they were inducted.

The Chicago induction station will be closed from Aug. 9 to 24 and the Peoria and East St. Louis stations will be closed thruout the month.

ICELAND'S VALUE AS BASE MAKES IT PAWN OF WAR

Island a Strategic Point in Battle of Atlantic.

Volcanoes, codfish, and an almost Utopian citizenry were Iceland's chief claims to fame until the European war made the island a strategic pawn in the battle of the North Atlantic ocean.

As an air and shipping base, Iceland—equidistant from Scotland and German-held Norway—is of vital importance. Otherwise there is little there to attract an invader.

Airline distances from the island to important points are: Greenland, 180 miles; Norway, 630 miles; Scotland, 500 miles; New York, 2,700 miles; London, 1,050 miles, and Berlin, 1,350 miles.

The island, of volcanic origin, is only slightly larger than the state of Indiana—40,000 square miles. Its 1937 population was 116,948. Approximately 19 per cent of the people fish for a living and most of the rest are farmers.

Fish and the by-products, including cod liver oil, constitute 90 per cent of Iceland's exports, which total from 20 to 25 million dollars a year and are approximately equaled by imports.

No Illiterates on Island.

Unemployment virtually is unknown on the island. The police force numbers 118 men, armed only with clubs. There is an average of fewer than 30 jail sentences imposed annually—chiefly for petty larceny.

Iceland has a compulsory educational system, rigidly enforced, and there are no illiterates. Reykjavik [population 28,000] is the principal city and capital.

While most of the population is of Scandinavian origin, when the Vikings arrived in 850 A. D. they found the Irish already settled there.

The Icelandic language has maintained its purity for 1,000 years. Danish is widely spoken. The national church is Evangelical Lutheran, but there is complete religious freedom.

In 930 the althing, or parliament, was established. It is the world's oldest established democratic body. Early settlers on the island were comparable to the pioneers to America. They sought to escape high taxes and government without representation.

Denmark gained control of the island in 1280. The citizens lost their individual rights. Famine, sheep disease, volcanic eruptions, and earthquakes beset the country during the next five centuries.

Constitution Is Demanded.

As political reform, touched off by the American revolution, swept Europe, Iceland, too, demanded a constitution.

This was granted in 1874, and the althing was given legislative power cojointly with the Danish king. In 1918 the island achieved independence but remained united with Denmark thru a common king.

When the Germans captured Denmark and King Christian X. remained with his subjects, the althing voted to sever all connection. The step was concluded last May.

Executive power is vested in a ministry composed of three men—a minister of justice and agriculture, a minister of trade, and a minister of finance. The 42 members of the althing are elected by popular vote.

Only one-fifth of the island is inhabited, a situation responsible for the lack of development of transportation facilities. There are no railroads and most of the highways are relatively primitive.

Port facilities are excellent, altho drift ice blocks the northern ports in summer and there is heavy fog off the eastern coast on an average of 212 days out of the year.

The island has an average temperature of 34.2 degrees during January and 51.6 degrees in July—proving that "Iceland" is a misnomer, the climate being much modified by the gulf stream.

Heat with Hot Water.

Natural hot water from many of Iceland's volcanic springs is piped into Reykjavik and provides heat for office buildings, homes, and hot houses. A public swimming pool and a laundry derive their heat from this source. The flow of hot springs in the vicinity of Reykjavik is more than 200 gallons a minute, with a larger supply easy obtainable.

Manufacturing has made little headway on the island, and nearly all of the finished products which are used are imported. Great Britain is the island's chief customer and source of supply.

Few minerals are accessible, altho it was reported in 1926 that the Germans had established several gold mines with profitable yields.

M'NUTT DEMANDS U. S. ACT NOW TO HALT JAPANESE

Washington, D. C., July 7 (AP).—Federal Security Administrator Paul V. McNutt said today that America's stake in Asia is "far too real" to be abandoned "in order to appease the political machine which now happens to be in power in Tokio."

His address, emphatic in serving notice that this country will resist any Japanese attempt to raise a military barrier between America and the far east, was delivered at exercises of the Washington Chinese colony in observance of the fourth anniversary of the outbreak of Sino-Japanese fighting.

McNutt warned that a German conquest of Russia might bring Japan into outright military collaboration with the axis and declared China and the United States must take action now to prevent the "unification of the totalitarian battle front" across all Europe and Asia.

PANAMA CANAL SHUTS HARBORS TO SHIPS AT NIGHT

CRISTOBAL, Canal Zone, July 7 (AP).—The commandant of Cristobal port put into effect today new regulations under which ships will not be permitted to clear or enter Cristobal and Balboa harbors between the hours of sunset and sunrise.

Capt. C. E. Coney, United States navy, in command here, announced that the regulations, effective immediately, would continue in effect thruout the present emergency. Cristobal and Balboa are at the Caribbean sea and Pacific ocean entrances, respectively, of the Panama Canal.

Precautionary measures were taken last week to control coastwise traffic using the two ports. Small vessels were forbidden to use the east breakwater opening near Fort Randolph, which guards the Atlantic—or Caribbean—entrance to the canal.

NAZIS HAMMER AT STALIN LINE TO WIDEN BREACH

Smash Red Concrete Forts in Fierce Attack.

BERLIN, July 7 (AP).—Penetration of the Stalin line at several places was claimed by the Germans tonight, and authorized sources suggested that Adolf Hitler's legions might be hammering at the last barrier to a deep sweep into Russia's vast interior, despite sharp Red army resistance.

There was no mention of the Stalin line in the high command communique, but DNB, the official German news agency, said German units advancing from the Volhynia area, west of the Russian Ukraine capital of Kiev, had broken Russia's steel and concrete obstacle to invaders from the west.

Where the reported break was made was not specified, but it was presumed to have been somewhere in the Zhitomir area.

Crack Russian Bunkers.

DNB credited German tanks with cracking Russian bunkers of the most modern construction in a fierce struggle on Sunday and said the Germans captured 150 tanks and other motorized vehicles, as well as more than 100 cannon at this point.

The point given prominence in the war bulletin from Hitler's headquarters and regarded by Germans as more significant was the high command's claim of progress "according to plan" along the whole 1,700 mile eastern front from Finland to the Black sea.

That the advance is an allied effort was especially stressed. On the southern wing, German-Rumanian troops captured Cernauti, capital of sovietized Bukovina, and reached the upper Dniester river.

Pursue Reds in Galicia.

Just to the north, German forces were pursuing the Russians on a broad sector in Galicia, across the Seret river east of German-occupied Lwow and almost at the border of the Russian Ukraine.

German strides also were reported toward the Dnieper and upper Dvina rivers, already reported reached by steel spearheads of the panzer [armored] forces, and gains "on schedule" by German-Finnish forces in the northernmost sector.

The reported thrust at several undesignated places into the Stalin line was not over emphasized here, it was explained, because the Russian system is a series of fortresses and bunkers of varying strength unlike the French Maginot line which was a continuous chain of fortifications.

In two weeks of fighting Germany has seized virtually all the territory acquired by the soviet since September, 1939, including the western Ukraine, western White Russia, Bessarabia, northern Bukovina, Latvia, and Lithuania. These have an area greater than the 182,000 square miles left Germany by the Versailles treaty.

Blast Away at Smolensk.

German dive bombers were reported active at key points from far northern Rybachi peninsula, on Finland's arctic coast, to the southernmost Ukrainian war sector.

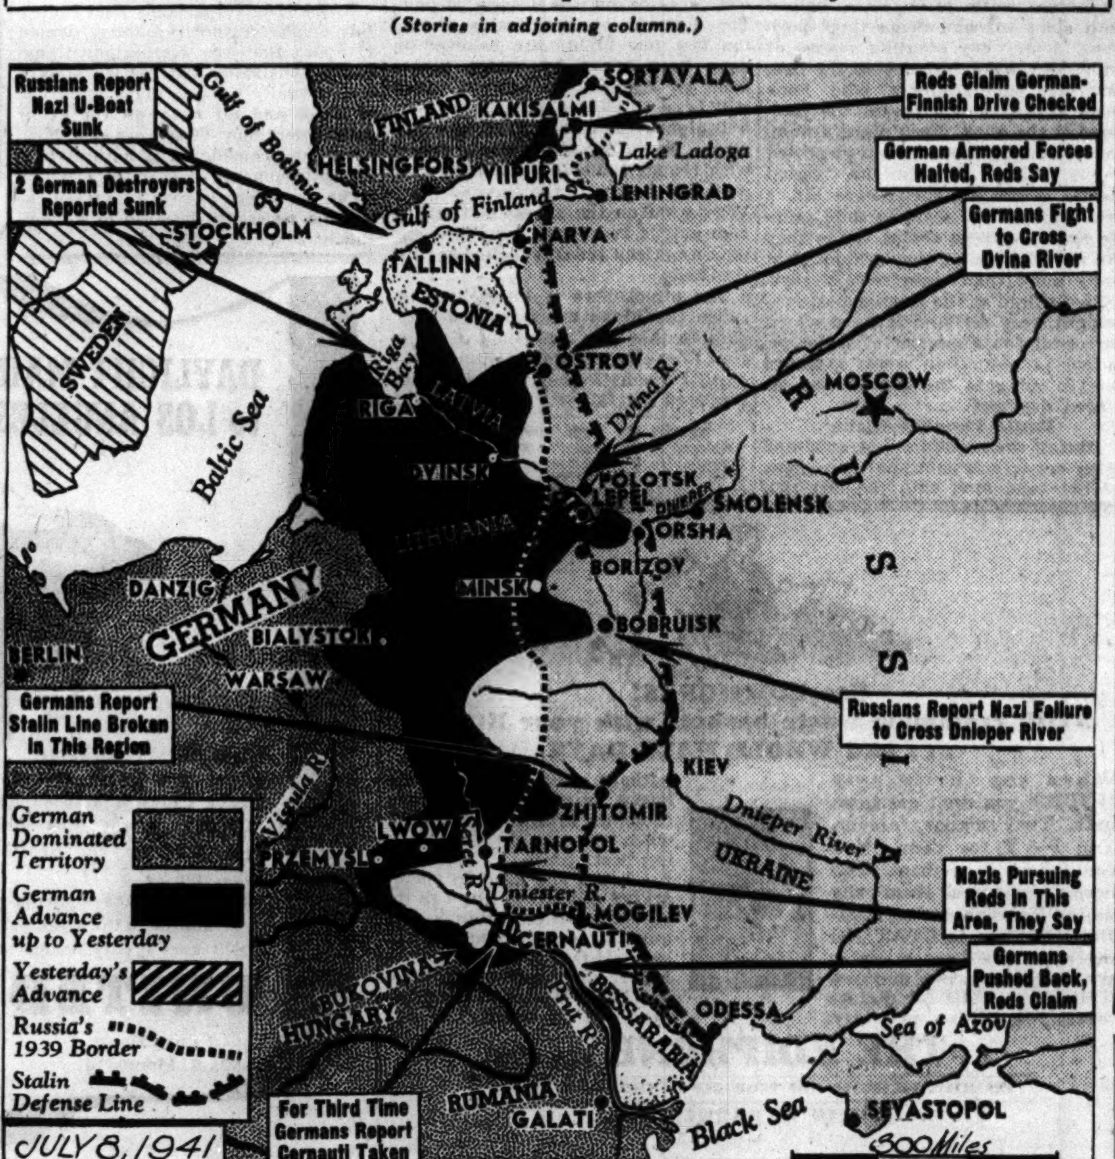
German bombers continued to blast away at Smolensk, east of Minsk on the line of German attack toward Moscow.

In widespread air assaults many Russian tanks and trucks, trains, roads, and munition dumps were destroyed on Sunday, artillery batteries silenced and fortifications and troop centers pounded. The air force claimed extensive damage to railroad facilities in the Zhitomir region.

It listed 204 Russian planes destroyed, including three it said were bagged in the eastern Baltic by minesweepers, which were credited also with damaging one of four Russian destroyers in a one hour naval battle. The communique said the Germans lost 10 planes.

Russians Claim Foes Repelled in Heavy Thrusts

(Stories in adjoining columns.)



Captions indicate developments in Russian-German war. From Moscow came reports that the Reds had fought off German attacks all along the line. Nazis claimed to have broken the Stalin line at one point. White areas between German border and Russia's 1939 border mark unconquered parts of soviet buffer states.

The Russians claimed their forces had stopped the Finnish-German drives on the northern part of the front. Black arrows indicate direction of Russian-Finnish drives.

5 SOVIET PLANES SHOT DOWN IN RAIDS ON FINLAND

HELSINGFORS, Finland, July 7 (AP).—Helsingfors and Kotka, on the coast east of here, were bombed by Russian warplanes this morning in raids which cost the invaders five planes, an official announcement said.

One person was killed and 20 were injured in the Helsingfors raid in which three civilian buildings suffered direct hits. Several fires were started here and in Kota. Both cities also raided last night, and 20 dwellings were destroyed in the capital.

Finnish submarines sank several soviet transports en route from Tallinn, Estonia, to Kronstadt, the Leningrad naval base. The convoy was guarded by Russian naval forces and fighter planes.

REDS FIGHT OFF NAZI-FINN PUSH ON LENINGRAD

Repel Two Attacks Made from Finland.

MOSCOW, July 8 [Tuesday]—(AP).—The Red army fought off attacks by German and Finnish troops menacing Leningrad, Russia's second largest city, while fighting raged unabated as far south as the Ukraine, a soviet communique reported early today.

The northern battle was in the area of Kakisalmi, on Lake Ladoga only 75 miles northwest of Leningrad. The Russians said they inflicted great losses on the invaders.

[A Finnish communique said a soviet offensive was thrown back with heavy losses, including 400 killed and a number of armored cars destroyed. Finnish forces were said to have penetrated a considerable distance into soviet territory at different points.]

Another German-Finnish attack struck in the Kandalaksha sector in the far north in an apparent effort to cut the important railway from Murmansk to Leningrad. Kandalaksha is on the White sea, 140 miles south of Murmansk, the arctic port, and is on the Murmansk-Leningrad railway.

Claim 1,000,000 Casualties.

In the Ostrov area, about 185 miles southwest of Leningrad, Nazi panzer [armored] divisions striking to the northwest were held up. The Germans are still trying to cross the western Dvina river in the Polotsk area, while great battles were developing in the Lepel region to the south of Polotsk.

Nearly 1,000,000 Germans have been killed or wounded in the 16 days of the attack upon Russia, S. A. Lozovsky, vice commissar of foreign affairs, declared. He said German casualties had averaged 60,000 daily. He declined to estimate the Russian losses, but said the soviet union, with three times the manpower of Germany, was not feeling any lack of troops, despite the increasing ferocity of the war.

Despite the fact that fighting was general on the huge battlefront, Moscow gave only the barest announcement of fighting in certain sectors.

German attempts to cross the Dnieper river in the Bobruisk sector, southeast of Minsk and about 375 miles from Moscow, failed. In the nearby Mogilev Podolski area on the Dnieper, the Russians claimed that an entire German battalion had been annihilated.

Southward, in the Bessarabian sector, the German-Rumanian invaders were pushed back to previously held positions, suffering heavy losses.

The approaches to Kiev, Ukrainian capital, held firmly, and a series of Red counterattacks smashed all German attempts to break thru to the east. In the Novograd-Volynski area, 140 miles west of Kiev, the Reds delayed a German mechanized force.

So intense was the fighting, the soviet announcement said, that near one village the attackers lost 1,300 soldiers in dead and wounded in five hours but forced the Red troops to withdraw to positions about a mile inside Russian territory.

Cut Off German Tanks.

In another area 50 out of 300 attacking German tanks pierced the Russian right flank but the Reds separated them from their accompanying infantry and soviet tanks annihilated the German tanks. Then the Russian tanks attacked the infantry and the German thrust was repulsed.

Russians said the Germans lost about 7,000 dead and wounded and 1,500 surrendered.

The Russians gave no indications that their air force had suffered the crushing blows claimed by the Germans and said that their planes struck concentrated blows against German mechanized units and operated successfully against their airdromes.

New successes likewise were reported for the Red navy.

Two German destroyers of a group of warships seeking to penetrate Riga bay, off Latvia, were reported sunk by a flotilla of soviet destroyers. It also was said that a German submarine had been sunk in a minefield off the Finnish gulf.

GERMANY LAGS BEHIND SPEED OF PREVIOUS DRIVES

Push in Russia Compared with Other Campaigns.

easier in the earlier campaigns has not materialized so far.

In Poland the Germans in 18 days crushed the Polish army of 2,000,000 men, 800 planes, and 10 tank battalions. Only about 420,000 of the Polish soldiers were regulars, and transportation was disrupted so badly by air raids in the early hours of the invasion that hundreds of thousands of troops never reached fighting zones. At the end of the campaign Germany had overrun 70,000 square miles. Occupying Russian troops took over the remaining 78,000 square miles of territory.

Territory Taken in West.

In Holland the Nazis in five days overcame 100,000 troops, 200 planes, and two tank regiments. The Belgian army that surrendered in 19 days consisted of 300,000 men and 400 planes. Belgium had few tanks.

In these conquests the German army engulfed Holland's 13,514 square miles and Belgium's 11,750 square miles.

France had more than 3 million men under arms, perhaps 2,700 planes, and three partially armored divisions. In the first 16 days of the western campaign 165,000 troops were pocketed in Flanders, most of them subsequently killed or captured, almost all the mechanized equipment was lost, and the French air force was badly crippled by simultaneous raids on May 10 on 72 airdromes.

Prime Minister Churchill placed the British losses in Flanders at 30,000 men killed or captured, 1,000 guns lost, and all the transport and armored vehicles Britain possessed abandoned.

Material for 75 Divisions.

At the end of the battle of Flanders, Germany claimed 1,200,000 French, English, Belgian, and Dutch casualties and prisoners. It said that weapons and material for 75 divisions had been seized or destroyed and that 3,500 enemy planes had been destroyed.

In addition to gobbling up 25,264 square miles in Holland and Belgium, the German army, in its mechanized drive to the channel ports after the Sedan breakthru, sliced about 7,000 square miles off the top of France, above the Somme and Aisne rivers.

Against the acquisition of these 32,264 square miles in 16 days in the west, the German high command claims that in a comparable period it has gouged 182,000 square miles out of Russia and Russian buffer states, and that its main push has carried 350 miles into White Russia from a starting line on the frontier of the German ruled area of old Poland.

Faces Great Distances.

In its earlier campaigns Germany did not face such distances as it now confronts. Its farthest push across Poland to Brest Litovsk was 235 miles, and from the Belgian frontier to Abbeville on the French Channel coast the distance was only 180 miles.

Not only is the Stalin line ahead of the German army now, but the vast reaches of Russia, into which a Russian army fighting on the Chinese pattern might withdraw endlessly, also lie ahead. Distances have no meaning in Russia, except to the men who try to conquer them.

Stalin has ordered nothing but "scorched earth" left to the Nazi horde. With a great secondary economic kingdom into which to retire behind the fastnesses of the Urals if the worst comes, Russia may condemn Germany to a lingering and costly struggle, with no clear decision and no end in sight, even if Moscow, the Ukraine, and all the west were lost.

This eventually depends, however, on the Nazis first smashing the Russian barriers in the west, and then upon the ability of the soviet régime to command the continued loyalty and support of the Red army and the people.

Flame Throwers Approach Bunker

FIGHT FOR FINNISH BASE IS DUEL OF AMERICAN GUNS

Reds' Big Rifles Obtained in World War Days.

BY DONALD DAY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ON THE HANGO FRONT IN FINLAND, July 7.—Artillery batteries composed of American guns of large caliber are pounding away at each other nightly in the duel now proceeding on the Hango peninsula.

The Finnish batteries are the more modern. Their guns were purchased last year in the United States and transported to Petsamo. But in that Arctic harbor there were no cranes heavy enough to take the guns from the freighters. How they finally arrived in southern Finland to be used in this war is a secret which will be revealed only after the conflict.

The Russian battery consists of a number of 12 inch guns which the imperial Russian government bought from America during the World war. These huge rifles lay for many years forgotten in warehouses in Tallinn, Estonia.

Pass Into Russian Hands.

When the guns were rediscovered the Estonians opened negotiations with the Finns and both countries installed shore batteries which commanded the entrance to the Finnish gulf. The Finnish batteries were located at Hango and under the terms of the Finnish-Russian peace treaty last year the Hango fortifications and guns passed into the hands of the Russians.

Thick forests of pines and firs interspersed with birch have helped both sides to camouflage their positions. Every day scouting planes of both sides make dashes over the line, carrying photographers who hope their negatives will reveal the positions of the guns. Each night a number of rounds are fired at suspected points. The photographs reveal clearly where big shells have hit. I saw a number of scars in solid granite made by these shells. Altho they are armor piercing, they seldom blast away more than eight feet of rock.

Shells fired at the Russian positions tonight were declared to have scored direct hits on a number of soviet positions. Ammunition stores exploded and shipping in the harbor was declared damaged.

Battle Thru the Night.

During the night the big guns and their crews will continue their game of hide and seek with the bombers. The soviet forces at Hango have few bombers left; German stukas [dive bombers] have made a number of effective raids on the Hango airfield. The Russian bombing raids during the last few nights are believed to have been made by soviet planes from an air field in Estonia which still is in Russian hands.

Tonight clouds obscured the full moon. Small Finnish patrols armed with tommy guns and grenades were ready to creep into the Russian lines. Vegetation on the shores of the Finnish gulf is heavy and the Finns employ American redskin tactics against the Reds.

The atmosphere is tense here because the Finns are waiting for orders to take the peninsula. Back of the lines the Finns showed me a small barbed wire enclosure they had prepared for future prisoners.

Dutch East Indies Denies Plan to Share Navy Bases

BATAVIA, Netherlands East Indies, July 7 (AP).—Authorities today denied a report that the Netherlands East Indies, Australia, and British Malaya had officially agreed upon joint use of naval and air bases in the event of an emergency. Observers said, however, they considered it natural that the governments concerned would make provisions in case an agreement became necessary because of an outside attack.

POLAND MAY JOIN REDS IN A PACT ON LAND THEY SEIZED

Hint Polish Captives Will Enter Soviet Army.

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 7.—An agreement between Russia and Poland's government in exile concerning territory taken by Russia during the German invasion of Poland in 1939 soon may be reached, it was revealed tonight. Under this agreement both countries would wipe out traditional political and territorial differences.

As a forerunner, Polish prisoners of war taken by Russia when the latter helped Germany partition Poland in all probability will be released soon by mutual arrangement. The prisoners, it was said, will be incorporated in the soviet army.

Sees Soviet Ambassador.

Gen. Wladislaw Sikorski, Polish premier, conferred with Ivan Maisky, soviet ambassador, Saturday.

Czecho-Slovak and Jugo-Slav units also may be formed in Russia to fight against Germany. Thousands of Czechs who fought on the side of the Poles against Germany are said to have escaped into Russia. A number of Jugo-Slavs, chiefly airmen, also are in Russia.

Pledges Liberty for Poles.

New York, July 7 [Special].—The Moscow radio today broadcast a statement declaring that Poland is entitled again to take her place among the great nations. Charging that the Germans had committed atrocities against the Poles, the Moscow announcer continued:

"Poland's glorious history in the past, its liberal and democratic traditions entitle her again to take up her place among the great nations of the world.

"Russia most energetically rejects the rumors circulated abroad, malicious as they are, concerning soviet Russia's aspirations to infringe upon Poland's rights. The soviet union will see to it that Poland will be restored to the free and independent state she once was. The future will show who has been the real friend of Poland."

U. S. BOAT SAVES 32 SURVIVORS OF A BRITISH SHIP

CAPE TOWN, Union of South Africa, July 7 (AP).—An American merchant ship arrived in Cape Town today with 32 survivors of a British ship torpedoed in the Atlantic.

Lester C. Hansen of Oakland, Cal., master of the American vessel, said he would not have found the two boats of British seamen, if he had not altered his original course upon hearing of the torpedoing of the American ship Robin Moor. He had feared his ship might be sunk by the same German submarine.

Italy Denies Submarine Sank Its Cruiser Gorizia

ROME, July 7 (AP).—The Italian navy ministry today categorically denied its cruiser Gorizia or any other warship in a formation attacked in the Mediterranean June 29 by a British submarine had been sunk.

(The British admiralty announced Sunday a cruiser "thought to have been" the Gorizia had been sunk.)

Greek King and His Suite Arrive in So. African Port

JOHANNESBURG, Union of South Africa, July 7 (AP).—King George II. of Greece, leading the Greek government in exile since the axis conquest of his homeland this spring, arrived at a South African port today with members of his suite.

Soldiers Return

Ambulance Corps Puts Its Sea Losses at 8 Per Cent

New York, July 7 [Special].—The British-American ambulance corps has lost, thru German sinkings of British vessels, only 8 per cent of all ambulances, medical supplies, and other war relief equipment shipped from this country to England or her allies, it was announced today at the organization's headquarters here. W. C. Ruxton, president of the corps, placed the total value of shipments to date at $737,191, with losses of $59,180.

BRITISH BOMBERS CLAIMED MAKING 'INVASION PATH'

Assaults Cover Wide Arc Over Continent.

LONDON, July 8 [Tuesday]—(AP).—Britain's heavy bombers were blasting again early today at northern France after two daylight attacks yesterday, and a competent observer declared that these relentless raids had softened Nazi defenses for possible British invasion sorties.

German shipping off the French and Dutch coasts also was attacked yesterday, and soon after midnight great explosions could be heard from the directions of Calais and Boulogne.

German raiders caused substantial damage and some casualties in sharp raids on a southern England town. Two of the bombers were shot down.

Attacks 750 Miles Away.

The RAF attacked German communications over a great area at least 750 miles long from Kiel, Germany, to Brest, France.

The continuing attacks, the observer said, not only are smoothing the path in case Britain decides to send expeditionary forces, but are destroying facilities Germany would require for an invasion of Britain.

The observer said the bombers were expected to go deeper and deeper into German territory as the nights lengthened and as longer range fighter escorts became available. "The fringe of combat" already has been forced back from the shores, compelling the Germans to move some of their fighter bases inland.

The Results Listed.

In detailing Monday's activities the air ministry acknowledged loss of seven British planes, but listed these accomplishments:

Seven German fighters shot down; an aircraft works at Meaulte and a power station and chemical factory near Bethune, both in northwest France, "hit by powerful high explosive bombs and many incendiaries"; six ships hit by bombs in an attack on a 8-ship German convoy off Holland; one 2,000-ton ship and a German speedboat sunk in a raid on another convoy off Calais.

HALIFAX, KEYNES HAVE SESSION WITH ROOSEVELT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 7.—Lord Halifax, the British ambassador, and J. M. Keynes, British economist, who is in the United States on a special economic mission, conferred with President Roosevelt for 45 minutes today.

"I cannot give you details regarding our conference with the President," Lord Halifax said, as the two left the White House, "but the general subject was economic and financial matters."

Keynes said he had reported to the President on the "good progress in this country," but refused to say on what the progress was being made. Navy Secretary Knox spent 15 minutes with President Roosevelt before the conference, but declined to tell what had been discussed.

REPORT GERMAN MORALE LOWEST SINCE WAR BEGAN

[Copyright: 1941: By the New York Times.]

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, July 7.—In Stockholm diplomatic circles it was said today that despite the reported progress of the German army against the Russians during the last 15 days, the morale of the German civilian population is lower than it has been since the war started.

There is reported to be "great concern" among the German people about next winter. The publicity given by the German propaganda ministry to Premier Josef Stalin's orders to destroy all crops and stocks behind the soviet retreat has had the effect of increasing the anxiety of the Germans about food supplies.

Likewise, it is said that the comparatively slow progress of the war in Russia has dimmed previous hopes that a quick defeat of the communists would influence Britain to come to terms with Adolf Hitler.

CHARGES BRITAIN REFUSES TO PASS OUT FRESH EGGS

Public Gets Bad Ones from Abroad, Paper Says.

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 7.—British eggs are accumulating in packing stations and rapidly deteriorating while imported eggs, a portion of which are rotten and unfit for consumption, are being released to wholesalers for distribution. This charge in what is known as the egg muddle was made in tonight's Evening Standard.

J. H. Potts.

The ministry of food's purpose in permitting large quantities of fresh English eggs to pile up was said to be to insure more equal distribution. Reminding the public that there is no guaranteed ration of eggs, the ministry said it was hoped that "each registered consumer will get four eggs during July."

Discovers Bad Eggs.

A wholesaler who in peace time handled nearly 200,000 eggs a week said he had "not seen an English egg for a fortnight."

"I have received only imported eggs which are so poor that I find it necessary to test each one myself," he added.

This wholesaler reported discovering 84 bad eggs in a case of 360 which had been delivered to him for distribution among 350 registered customers.

Commenting on the food situation in the presidential address made to the National Union of Railwaymen's conference at Swansea, J. H. Potts said that "before control, when prices were high, there was plenty in [food] shops, but workers could not afford it. The government takes control, prices are regulated, and immediately there is a shortage. Where does the surplus go?"

Hits Luxury Hotels.

Potts suggested the answer to the problem must be looked for in the luxury hotels where idlers gather.

"Queue disease" is having such a bad effect on morale at Oxford that the local council will urge the city's watch committee to prohibit persons from lining up outside shops.

The mayor of Oxford complained that many persons joined the queues without knowing what they were lining up for.

"Queues are becoming a habit and a disease," one councilor said. "The way to deal with disease is to tackle it in its early stages."

The cigaret shortage continues. F. R. Keef, a 20 year old Canadian soldier, found guilty of stealing 30 packages of Canadian cigarets from other soldiers and selling them to the public, was sentenced to 18 months at hard labor.

The British treasury has notified Canadian military chiefs here that unless the resale of cigarets and tobacco ceases it will withdraw the privilege of free importation of tobacco to Canadian troops.

British Advance

This map shows the extent of British penetration of Syria and Lebanon in the war with Vichy French forces.

CAIRO, Egypt, July 7 (AP).—Australian riflemen fighting northward along the rocky Syrian coast tonight attacked Damour, main French stronghold before the Lebanese capital of Beirut.

Under cover of aerial and naval bombardment Australian troops were slipping from rock to rock in the Damour river valley in an advance upon the town.

Main defenses of the Damour line, only nine miles south of Beirut, were broken by the Australians last night. The British communique said that "Australian troops have crossed the river and are now in contact with the main Vichy position about Damour."

While the coastal column reached Damour, an inland column took an important position north of Jezzine, 25 miles south of Beirut. In the northeast, British troops entering Syria from Iraq reported the capture of Demir Kapou, near the Turkish frontier.

Another British mechanized thrust was advancing on Homs, junction of rail lines linking Aleppo to Tripoli and Beirut on the coast.

SHIPS HIT AS RAF BOMBERS ATTACK A SICILIAN PORT

CAIRO, Egypt, July 7 (AP).—The RAF today reported five ships hit by bombs in a raid yesterday by British bombers on the port of Palermo on the Italian island of Sicily.

The communique reported also a series of British raids on docks and shipping at Bengazi, major Italian base and port on the Libyan coast, Saturday night in which bombs fell on a railway siding and a motor transport park, causing numerous fires. No British aircraft were lost in these raids, the RAF said.

[The Italian high command reported that three civilians were killed by the British raid on Palermo. It admitted some damage was done to the harbor.]

Raid Suez and Alexandria.

BERLIN, July 7 (AP).—German bombers raided the Suez canal and Alexandria Sunday, DNB, the German news agency, reported tonight, claiming numerous hits on the canal and on dock facilities, warehouses, and a freight depot at Alexandria. Alexandria is the site of a British naval base.

[The Egyptian government reported two persons were killed and 14 injured in the raid on Alexandria.]

HELD IN YACHT BURGLARIES.

Walter Filar, 28 years old, 4421 South Wood street, and John Krow, 25, of 4432 South Wood street, both ex-convicts, who were arrested July 4 after allegedly looting several yachts in Jackson Park harbor, were ordered held to the grand jury for burglary yesterday by Judge John T. Zuris in Felony court.

CHINA SEES THIS YEAR, 5TH OF WAR, ONE FOR VICTORY

Has 15 Million Men Ready for an Offensive.

CHUNGKING, July 7 (AP).—The undeclared Chinese-Japanese war went into its fifth year today with a virtual stalemate along the 2,800 mile front, where the armies of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek were reported steadily preparing for an attempt to seize the offensive in the hope of achieving victory in 1941.

The Chinese say they have 5,000,000 soldiers in the field and 10,000,000 more in reserve or in training, while Japan's position, as seen thru Chinese eyes, is unchanged—"a million Japanese troops bogged down in the Chinese quagmire."

Scores of buildings were destroyed and hundreds of persons left homeless today when Japanese planes again heavily bombed this city. The attack followed last night's raid which left much of the city without water or lighting facilities. Several offices, including that of the Associated Press, were wrecked, but no foreign casualties were reported.

See Strange Jap Defenses.

TOKIO, July 7 (AP).—Amid Japan's observance of the 4th anniversary of the China affair today appeared indications that the empire was determined to establish a highly organized defense state for national preparedness.

Several significant conferences were held by Emperor Hirohito and Premier Prince Fumimaro Konoe, and Foreign Minister Yosuke Matsuoka returned to Tokio unexpectedly from his summer home. Observers said a new unity of authority might be developing in order to coördinate economic acivity.

Rear Admiral Minoru Mayeda, speaking for the army, said strengthening naval air bases by the United States in the Pacific was directed solely against Japan. He also charged that the Indies, Australia, the Philippines and New Zealand were coöperating with the United States in an attempt to encircle Japan. He said United States aid to the soviet might provoke a further crisis in the Pacific especially if soviet Vladivostok took an anti-Japanese move.

NAVY ASKS ADDED 585 MILLIONS FOR ITS SHIPBUILDING

Letter Tells of Need to Expand Yards.

Washington, D. C., July 7 (AP).—The navy asked congress today to appropriate an additional 585 million dollars to augment its shipbuilding program.

James V. Forrestal.

James V. Forrestal, acting secretary, said in a letter that most of the 500 millions previously authorized for shipbuilding facilities has been obligated.

The 585 million dollars, he said, would permit the allotment of 300 millions for additional shipbuilding facilities at naval and private establishments, and 160 millions for repair facilities.

Cites Increased Construction.

"Because of the great increase in new construction," he said, "the navy department has found it impossible to effect all repairs, alterations, and conversions in government yards, and a very considerable portion of this work has heretofore been placed in private yards.

"This added load, augmented by constantly increasing repair work on commercial vessels, both United States and foreign, is now beyond their capacity, and it is estimated that 160 million dollars will be required to remedy the situation."

Yards and Bases Listed.

The program contemplates expenditures for repair facilities at the following yards and bases:

Portsmouth, $4,000,000; Boston, $10,000,000; New York, $5,000,000; Philadelphia, $3,000,000; Norfolk, $1,250,000; Charleston, $1,250,000; Mare Island, $5,000,000; Puget Sound, $3,000,000; Pearl Harbor, $20,000,000; New London submarine base, $2,000,000; Jacksonville air station, $500,000; Key West naval station, $100,000; San Juan dry dock, $1,250,000; Vieques, P. R., naval base, $5,000,000; Corpus Christi air station, $500,000; San Diego destroyer base, and San Pedro operating base, $5,000,000; Canal Zone, $2,000,000.

Hurricane Sweeps Easter Island; Wrecks Buildings

SANTIAGO, Chile, July 7 (AP).—Easter Island has been swept by a destructive hurricane, according to reports just received, and the government announced that a destroyer would be dispatched at once on a relief mission. The reports gave no details beyond saying that buildings were destroyed. Easter Island, Chilean possession about 2,300 miles off the coast, is the site of huge mysterious stone statues, monuments of a departed Polynesian civilization.

HELD TO GRAND JURY IN ROBBERY.

Guy Dovichi, 33 years old, an ex-convict, was ordered held to the grand jury for robbery yesterday by Judge John T. Zuris of the Felony court. He was seized Saturday as he fled from a drug store robbery at 2021 Lincoln avenue.

NAZIS AND U. S. MAY EXCHANGE NEWS WRITERS

New York, July 7 (AP).—The New York Journal-American says the governments of the United States and Germany are negotiating for the exchange of news correspondents imprisoned in the respective countries.

The plan, says the newspaper in a copyrighted article, involves the release of Manfred Zapp and Guenther Tonn, German nationals under indictment for neglecting to register under the alien registration act. They are associated with the Transocean Press service, an organization not connected with any American news service, which has been described by federal officials as a Nazi propaganda implement.

The Americans involved are Jay Allen, a North American Newspaper Alliance writer arrested by the Nazis allegedly for passing from occupied to unoccupied France without permission, and Richard Hottelet, a United Press reporter in Berlin, accused of espionage.

[At a press conference in Washington, Acting Secretary of State Sumner Welles said the government was continuing to take every step to secure the speedy release of the Americans who were jailed several months ago.]

WOMAN PLEADS NOT GUILTY IN WINDOW SLAYING

Is Held Without Bail in Official's Death.

BY MARCIA WINN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

(Pictures on back page.)

Bloomington, Ind., July 7. — The town square of somnolent, summertime Bloomington buzzed today with the stir of a thousand concerned and gossipy voices.

Prosecutor Floyd Cook.

Droves of newsboys shouted the alien phrase, "All about the murder!" up and down the square, their voices reaching even to a third floor cell in the county jail a block away and to a sallow, black haired woman sitting dourly and nervously in that cell.

It was of Mrs. Caroline G. Payne, big boned, hippy and 43, that the town hummed and buzzed. Today she had her black hair freshly waved to walk downstairs in the jail and learn that she was to go back upstairs and sit until Sept. 8. At that time the grand jury will hear the formal charge of first degree murder entered against her today by Coroner R. A. Demotte for the fatal shooting Saturday of the man who jilted her after a 10 years' understanding. Bail was refused at the request of County Prosecutor Floyd F. Cook.

Town Buzzes with Rumors.

Rumor flew more swiftly and variously than July flies. Now the rumor was that she had confessed murdering Charles O. Mattingly, 41, the Paul V. McNutt satellite who worked his way up in Indiana politics to become chief legal examiner for the Public Service commission of Indiana.

Again the rumor was that she was out of jail. Again it was that she had shot herself in contrition.

None of the rumors had substance. Mrs. Payne, arrested Saturday night immediately after five bullets were fired into Mattingly's back, maintained a nervous, but total, silence. She also entered a plea of not guilty to the charge of murdering the man who, her friends contend, jilted her.

Whatever the truth may be, she is maintaining a defiant public silence, but her secret, or her eventual defense, may lie in the full page analysis of the week-end tragedy which appears in today's issue of the Bloomington Telephone, a newspaper of which she has been business manager for 10 years.

Publisher Writes Analysis.

This analysis, written by Blaine W. Bradfute, publisher and Mrs. Payne's close adviser, in his column, "Comment," calmly says that Mattingly "was slain" by Mrs. Payne. It then traces their relationship over a period of 17 years and lays visible groundwork for an insanity defense.

The analysis, presumably well authenticated, tells how Mrs. Payne, injured in a 1939 automobile accident, pursued Mattingly all over the state of Indiana when he sought to end their relationship, which had included a 10 year engagement. She took her pursuit to the corridors of the state house at Indianapolis, to his parents' home in Anderson, and to the home he set up with the woman he married in May, 1940.

"If ever a woman suffered and if ever a woman drove herself into hardship, it was Mrs. Payne," Bradfute wrote.

Former Circus Man Presides.

The hearing at which she was formally charged with murder today was brief. Justice of the Peace Frank Gentry, a gay, plump old man with the whiff of Gentry Brothers circus [which he once owned] still on him, presided.

Mrs. Payne, her face taut and distorted, her large figure subdued in a neat black dress, clutched silently at the chair in which she sat. Her narrow hazel eyes darted nervously back and forth.

Thru her attorney, Q. Austin East, a ponderous figure immaculate in white, she waived a preliminary hearing and entered a plea of not guilty. When County Prosecutor Cook asked that she be held to the grand jury without bail, she was marched quietly back upstairs.

Later, asked for a statement, her face began to twitch and she cried, "I have nothing to say. Nothing to say."

Townsfolk Accept Situation.

To the people of Bloomington the murder charge against her was an accepted fact from the minute word spread that Mattingly had been shot. His dying statement, in which he said, "It was Caroline Payne," was unnecessary to them, for, they said, she had been trailing and threatening him since 1939 when he severed their affectionate relationship of the past 1', years.

Further evidence tying Mrs. Payne to the slaying was found today when ballistics tests showed the five bullets fired into Mattingly's body to have been discharged from a .38 Colt automatic owned by Mrs. Payne. Immediately after the shooting she gave the gun together with a .32 caliber Colt to a niece, Mrs. Myrtle Forth, with the plea, "Destroy these." Mrs. Forth gave them to the police.

The association between Mattingly and Mrs. Payne began in the early 1920s when Mattingly came to Bloomington to attend Indiana university. Mrs. Payne, then married to State Senator Earl W. Payne who died last year, but whom she divorced in 1924, had a rooming house for students.

For more than a decade he made his home with Mrs. Payne. Mrs. Payne's friends say she put him thru school, started him in his law practice, and placed his feet in the velvet path of Democratic politics in Indiana. He became a close friend of McNutt when that sartorially magnificent gentleman was governor, was chairman of the 7th district young Democratic clubs, county attorney of Monroe county and finally received a McNutt appointment to the position he held at his death.

Carries Packet of Letters.

The night of the fatal shooting Mrs. Payne carried in her voluminous, cluttered black bag a packet of letters from him. These ranged from a tender one of June, 1928, which discussed their prospective marriage, to a final cold note of Dec. 26, 1939, in which he enclosed a check for $2,250 and said, "I believe it would be better for both of us if you will regard a reply to this as unnecessary."

Five months later, in May, 1940, he married his secretary, Mrs. Lurayne Oberholtzer Witchen, a divorcée and a distant cousin, as Bloomington now recalls with belated premonition, of Madge Oberholtzer, whom D. C. Stephenson, grand dragon of the Indiana Ku Klux Klan, raped, and for whose death by poison he was convicted of murder.

No one knew of the marriage for several months. When Mrs. Payne heard of it she raged. Once she met her successor on the streets of Indianapolis, where the couple lived, and threatened her.

Saturday Mattingly brought his bride of a year to Bloomington for the first time. Driving on the street, they passed Mrs. Payne. Then they went to the home of Gus Nickas, a candy dealer, for a little beer in the kitchen.

They were there, Mattingly tilted back in a chair against a window screen, when a hand outside pressed an automatic against the screen and fired five times into Mattingly's back. One bullet, passing thru Mattingly's body, later expended its final force in a tea kettle.

Five minutes later the Nickas' telephone rang. A jeweler, H. W. Cooper, was calling to warn Mattingly that Mrs. Payne was combing the town for him.

In Indianapolis Mrs. C. R. Oberholtzer, mother-in-law of the slain man, also spoke of the auto accident of 1939 referred to by Publisher Bradfute.

"I suppose," she said with scorn, "she is going to use that as an excuse for what she did.

"Why, Charles was so embarrassed by that woman's actions. He often said he couldn't understand how a woman could change so. When he first met her she was interested in music and was such an interesting person."

WIDOW GRIEF STRICKEN

Indianapolis, Ind., July 7 [Special]. —A shocked and weeping widow, who is expecting a child in October, sat in her lonely new home here today and told how her husband had sought to avoid the woman who is accused of shooting him to death in Bloomington, Ind., last Saturday night when he sat sipping beer in a friend's kitchen.

"We had no warning, no hint of such a thing happening," said Mrs. Lurayne Mattingly, whose husband, Charles O. Mattingly, was the victim of five shots fired thru a window.

Mrs. Mattingly, who was her husband's secretary in the office of the Indiana public service commission prior to their marriage 16 months ago, said she and her husband recently moved from an apartment to a house to avoid Mrs. Caroline G. Payne, business manager of a Bloomington newspaper, who is held on a charge of murder.

She also described Mrs. Payne's visits to the state house after Mattingly had tried to sever his friendship with Mrs. Payne and that it had become necessary for his office assistants to use signals to inform him when Mrs. Payne was in the office and demanding to see him.

Mrs. Mattingly would not talk about a recent incident when Mrs. Payne was reported to have attacked her on the street in Indianapolis. She said Mrs. Payne once made a scene at their apartment and recently had been trying to learn their new address.

CHURCH YOUTH TO TAKE STAND OPPOSING WAR

To build a more workable democracy in America rather than to intervene in Europe's wars will be the gist of resolutions to be acted upon tomorrow in closing sessions of the 53d annual convention of the National Young Peoples Christian union of the Universalist church. The convention opened Sunday at Unity Universalist church, Kenilworth avenue and Lake street, Oak Park.

Spokesmen for various points of view, including that of the interventionists, will be heard by the conference, but Dana E. Klotzle of Haverhill, Mass., vice president of the union, explained that it will probably adopt a formal noninterventionist policy. The Rev. Harold L. Lunger, pastor of Austin Boulevard Christian church, Oak Park, was spokesman yesterday for the pacifist view. "Pacifists," he said, "believe that we must build up a fine system of democracy here that will set an example for other nations to follow."

The Rev. Dr. Frank P. Adams, pastor of Unity church, was spokesman for the interventionist position.

UNCLE ON TRIAL IN SLAYING OF GIRL AND FIANCE

Watseka, Ill., July 7 [Special].—Robert Fiester, 55 years old, a farmer from Woodland, went on trial in Circuit court today in the slaying of his niece, Royalene Hinkle, 26, and her fiancé, Lloyd Gray, 25. Four jurors tentatively were accepted.

Miss Hinkle, the owner of a 120 acre farm, and Gray were found slain in her bedroom. Fiester said he found the bodies when he went to awaken his niece in the morning. Miss Hinkle and Gray had planned to be married in April.

Fiester was arrested after it was learned the farm, which he formerly shared thru inheritance with his niece, would revert to him in the event of her death if she was unmarried. Fiester had signed his share of the farm over to his niece after she paid his personal debts and cleared the property of legal encumbrances.

Death of Girl Who Bit Torpedo Termed Accident

The death of Marilyn Austin, 4 years old, of 943 West 61st street, was termed an accident yesterday by a coroner's jury. The girl picked up a torpedo in front of her home Saturday, believing it to be a piece of candy. When she bit the "candy," it exploded and tore away part of her face. She died several hours later in Englewood hospital. Detective Robert Welch testified yesterday that police were unable to learn from where the torpedo came.

MAIL TRUCK STOLEN.

Postal authorities asked police last night to seek a 1½ ton mail truck stolen from in front of the Rogers Park postoffice at Morse avenue and Clark street while the driver, A. G. Mason, was in the building. The truck contained no mail.

DRIVER CHARGES ATTACK; LINKS IT TO UNION FIGHT

Victor Comforte, 25 years old, 1339 Grenshaw street, was charged with assault with a deadly weapon yesterday on the complaint of Irving Shack, 26, a driver for the Bloom Tobacco company, 916 South Halsted street. Shack said Comforte hit him with a blackjack Saturday while he was making deliveries on the west side.

Shack, who lives at 3242 Sunnyside avenue, said the Chicago Cigar, Cigarette, and Tobacco Salesmen and Drivers' union, local 761, unaffiliated, has been attempting to organize 15 employés of the tobacco company since June 9. Shack fired two shots with a .45 caliber pistol at his assailant, he said.

Comforte, questioned by police, denied slugging Shack and said he was not connected with the union, but was an investigator for a juke box owners' association. He will be arraigned in the Felony court today.

CONVOYS MEAN SHOOTING.

A Washington report accredited to an authoritative official source says that American war supplies are reaching the British in Egypt at the rate of a ship every day thru the Red sea, by both the Atlantic and Pacific routes. This confirms previous statements that the war at sea is not going against the British, but is increasingly in their favor.

It is also reported that 75 per cent of American production is being sent to the British armed forces. Nevertheless, the war party in Washington demands the use of the American navy to convoy supplies and the dispatch of an expeditionary force wherever it can be landed. The proxy voices demand a shooting war. Mr. Knox of the navy department was at it last week, and every day Washington sounds alarms as to the safety of the United States.

It is now fully understood that the proposal to convoy ships is not to enable American made goods to reach England and to prevent the invasion of the island, but is to get some shooting and some loss of American lives so that the country can be stampeded into a foreign war. In spite of all the incitements, the alarms, the prophecies of doom, and inflammatory official utterances, the country at large has preserved its balance.

When the advocates of "shooting now" pause to survey the effects of their campaign, they find that the great majority of the people are against them. The people are for national defense; they are against a foreign war. They hold Mr. Roosevelt to the promises he made as a third term candidate that there would be no foreign war, that no American expeditionary force was going abroad, and that the new American army was intended solely for the defense of this country.

The great majority of the people hold Mr. Roosevelt strictly accountable to the obligations he imposed on himself by these statements. They were unqualified when he made them and he knows that the people expect him to keep his word. Altho he sends out other voices to speak for him, he himself hesitates to go further than he has done.

The British people, who have been led to expect that the United States would be in the war this summer, are beginning to wonder if they have been deceived by some one. They couldn't know exactly what commitments had been given their government, but, naturally, they would conclude from everything they hear publicly spoken that they would have a full time shooting American ally in the war to the finish. They don't understand that the American war party misrepresents the desires of the American people, who themselves do not want to lead the British people to false expectations. The misrepresentation is an injury to both peoples.

No doubt the United States would be in the war to the kill if it had not been for the unceasing campaign made over the country to resist the designs of the minority which wants to sacrifice hundreds of thousands of American lives in the foreign conflict. That campaign and the response the country has given it is the one thing which holds Mr. Roosevelt back. He has said there can be no peace with Hitler, but he has not yet had the assurance to take the final step which he has in mind. And he won't have, with the tide of sentiment rising about him, unless he can procure such an overt act as will seem to deprive the country of a decision.

The tactics of the war party are transparently directed to producing the situation which will play the country into its hands. A fight involving American warships convoying supply ships might throw the war in the country's face. Without such an incident peace may yet be preserved.

Early this year when the senate committee on foreign relations was considering the war dictatorship bill now operating as the lend-lease act, Senator Nye asked Secretary Morgenthau if his father had ever revealed to him a conversation he had in Paris in August of 1917 with Viscount Esher. Mr. Morgenthau said that his father had never mentioned the viscount or the conversation and that he didn't know who Esher was. Senator Nye said that Esher was described as for 40 years the most secret confidant of the crown.

Esher left an account of an alleged interview with the elder Morgenthau at the Ritz hotel in which he wrote: "Hitherto American organization has proceeded slowly. There are reasons concerned with the domestic adjustment of American policy that made more rapid progress impossible. The government now possesses fuller powers and progress should be accelerated. It is the intention at present that the resources of America shall not be dribbled into the field, so that the blow, when it comes, shall be delivered by a force thoroly organized and trained. That there is another aspect of this question Mr. Morgenthau is aware and he realizes the importance upon the morale of the French army and the French people of cementing the alliance by shedding American blood at the earliest possible moment."

Senator Nye agreed with Mr. Morgenthau that nothing in the elder Morgenthau's character would permit the belief that it was possible he would give Esher or any one else an occasion to express himself as he did in that memorandum. However, whatever Esher did to Morgenthau's words, the memorandum leaves no doubt that it was the viscount's own opinion that the killing of Americans should be hastened. He recorded his own opinion, thus: "No American is likely to be killed before November. This is unfortunate, as Wilson may require to be steadied before then and only the death of young Americans can assure him stability."

The present day war party is stalled. The American people have consented to the transfer of their defense armament to the British, altho they are told that they are in the gravest danger themselves. They have made no protests against tremendous expenditures under the lease-lend bill. They have protested against the sacrifice of American men in another foreign war. So far that protest has been effective. It has restrained the war.

Does that party now seek a desperate act?

GOVERNMENT CONTROL OF BUSINESS.

American commercial air lines are ordered by the government to turn over planes to be delivered to the British. Eighteen planes have been taken out of service thus far and 24 are to be delivered this month. Other planes under contract will not be given to the American companies, but to the British. These requisitions are of little material assistance to the British service of supply, for which they are intended, but are of material injury to the American commercial lines.

It is observable that whenever an opportunity is offered to use war production as an injury to private enterprise it is embraced. If the government in other years had been guiltless of aggression against private management and investment the reason for the interference would be less clear. The collectivism of the New Deal leaves little uncertainty in the present tactics.

Priorities have put a control mechanism in the New Dealers' hands. They can use it as noiselessly as a garrote and quite as effectively. The victim will be strangled by the cutting off of essential supplies. There isn't an industry in the country which can escape the control thus exercised. With it the collectivists are chanting to their harvest moon.

Price control by the threat of the withdrawal of supplies to noncomplying industries is supposed to be an anti-inflationary measure. It has no warrant in law. The government can proceed, and does, against monopolistic practices. It has no authority to tell an automobile maker what he shall charge for a model, or a furniture maker what he shall charge for a table. But it does. At the same time in another channel of activity it is trying to reduce the purchasing power of the country, playing around with the idea of enforced loans taken out of salary, wages, and income.

Prices in deferable or dispensable goods are automatic checks on purchasing. If they go too high the people do not buy. They cannot thus protect themselves when the articles are necessary. Yet it is in the deferable or dispensable goods that the price controls are insisted upon with the "or else" as the threat.

The pattern of this procedure seems fairly plain. The government seeks control of private enterprise. That should astonish no one who has observed the collectivist purposes of the New Deal.

VICARIOUS VACATIONS.

The beginning of the summer vacation season is an appropriate moment to call attention to a custom which appears to be growing in this community.

There are many hundreds of shut-ins whose farthest horizons are those visible from their beds or invalid chairs. Many of these people are lonely. They welcome picture postcards and letters, especially from distant places. From time to time for a number of years the travel section of THE SUNDAY TRIBUNE has published the names of shut-ins who have expressed a desire to take vacations vicariously. Some of the unfortunates are blind. Some are elderly. Some are young people who have been ordered to take a protracted rest to recover from illnesses. All of them are cheered by friendly messages telling about the mountains, the seashore, a cruise on the lakes, or the big woods.

It is easy to declare a dividend on a vacation by adding the names of a few shut-ins to the list of friends to whom picture cards are to be sent. The cost in time and money is, of course, negligible, but the pleasure which these cards will give will be great. Some of the unfortunates have received hundreds of messages in response to a single request. The cards were treasured and continued to give enjoyment for many months.

The vacation-sharers have no organization. They see the names published in THE TRIBUNE, copy them off, and from time to time send a card. That is all there is to it. This game, as the rule books say, can be played by any number of players. It is a source of considerable satisfaction to find that the number is growing steadily.

THE NEW PAROLE BOARD LETS IN THE LIGHT.

The new Illinois parole board is going to abolish star chamber sessions. The fullest publicity will be given its actions, and its records will be open to public inspection.

This is a wise decision on the part of Gov. Green and his director of safety, T. P. Sullivan. Not the least of the factors that brought the discarded parole system into disrepute was the cloak of secrecy that covered its operations. Even if there had not been other evidence that the parole system was the tool of a politico-criminal alliance, the secrecy gave the impression, justifiably, that things would not have been hidden if there had not been something to hide.

In explaining the new publicity policy Mr. Sullivan said that the new board expects to conduct itself so that there will be nothing to hide and much to take credit for. That, we both hope and believe, will be true.

ARMORED ENGLISH.

[N. Y. Herald Tribune.]

One of the most terrifying aspects of modern mechanized warfare is the panzerlike English it is inspiring among our young soldiers. In the letters they write home to the folks there is much mystifying talk of jeeps and peeps, hell buggies and popsickles, doodlebugs, tubs, and scatter guns. Not the least baffled have been the veterans of the first World war.

If an oldtimer is to translate the letters received from camp and to understand the crop of soldier films that Hollywood is rushing to market, he will do well to bridge the gap in his military education with the aid of a comprehensive glossary published in the July-August issue of Army Ordnance. We learn that among the recent slang expressions coined by personnel of the new American army the word jeep means a command car; peep [son of a jeep] means a bantam car; a hell buggy is a tank and so is a doodlebug; a tub is a scout car, and, as you may have guessed, a scatter gun is a machine gun, and a popsickle is a motorcycle. Also, a gasoline cowboy is a member of the armored force; a sky winder is an air corps man; little poison is a 37 mm. gun; iron horse is another name for a tank; jumping jeep is an autogyro with jump takeoff and gravel agitator is an infantry man.

MR. PEPYS COMES BACK.

8th July—Returned from my wanderings thru the western mountains and deserts late Sunday night with 6,000 miles of travel to talk about, and do not know where to begin the tale. Perhaps it does not need to be told, for countless vacationists have been to the same places or have heard Burton Holmes lecture about them. In brief, I spent my holidays as a canyon inspector, and am now an expert on majestic holes in the ground, including the mile-wide dent that a meteor made in Arizona some 2,000 years ago.

Did not open a newspaper for three weeks, altho the headlines caught my eye from newsstands now and then. Heard little war talk, too, perhaps because I did not invite such discussions, and came to the conclusion that the plain people were remaining calm and letting the high and mighty do the shouting. Saw a battleship going out to sea thru the Golden Gate, and was told it was British, but the assembled trippers seemed less interested in this spectacle than in the seal rocks and the souvenir counters of the Cliff House.

Except for two nights at the Grand canyon and three in Los Angeles, I kept on the move, living off the land and finding a bed wherever night overtook me. So I have added many names to my favorite small towns, including Placerville, Cal., which was called Hangtown in its gold-digging youth and has a merry legend about a visit by Horace Greeley, the famous New York editor, who said, "Go west, young man."

Now I must get my dog from the boarding kennel, and ring up the laundry man, and mark the milk card, and open several hundred letters, and settle down into my rut again for another year.

FIRST FLIGHT.

When the heat of a sweltering day was done,
We went on our first flight, just for fun—
My boy and I, in the westering sun.

The diminutive cockpit we view askance,
Climb in, feeling we're taking a chance;
Our hearts are doing a crazy dance.

Our pilot grins as we close the doors;
A spin of the prop and the motor roars;
First the ship lumbers, then gallops, then soars.

We seem not to rise. The earth falls away,
Revealing the fields as a patchwork gay,
Threaded by rivers of silver and gray.

Lengthening shadows lay soothing hand
On the throbbing head of a weary land
With a peace too perfect to understand.

In a space of minutes we've lost all touch
With troubles, and worries, and nerves, and such—
They no longer seem to amount to much.

Casual.

Listening to Railroad Whistles.

When I was a kid I used to listen o' nights, just before I went to sleep, to the distant wail of a locomotive whistle on the I. C. out Pullman way. There was something [I realize it now] in that call, something of the caressing voice of a siren luring me.

I used to dream of visiting far places. My child mind could remember a few train journeys, at the end of each of which was a delightful new experience. I resolved to go to far places before I died.

I saw my dad start on his greatest journey of all. Then mother. That left me alone and footloose. And I remembered those train whistles and I answered their call. I saw far places; I saw the blue Pacific, the sun-drenched Waikiki beach, the snow-capped Rockies, the turbulent Atlantic from the boardwalk at Atlantic City, the spires of New York, the château at Quebec, Guadalajara in somnolent beauty.

All that was many years ago. Now I still listen o' nights, just before I go to sleep, to the distant wail of a locomotive whistle. It still has an irresistible appeal. But now I wish it could take me to other far places . . . back to the far places of childhood. Yet I know it can never be. So, I just listen and remember . . . and it hurts a little bit.

Bill.

Tip to Vacation Travelers.

Vacation pilgrims who use the rails for comparatively short trips may increase enjoyment from their holiday by taking local trains.

Little towns become interesting objectives on such a journey. Most of them have something worth seeing—an unusual garden, a distinguished tree, now and then an excellent example of architecture, or perhaps a village square, dignified in the mellow memories of a century or more and reminiscent of pioneer days. Many small town churches are the Westminster Abbeys of America and merit the respect the comparison suggests.

In a harried and perplexed world, the small town has a message for city folk. "Scorn not the small towns," the hamlets seem to say. "In us are health, homes and happiness, as well as a jolly lot of cool-headed patriotism that will probably come in mighty handy any day now."

Newcomer.

WINGS OF THE MORNING.

Wings of the morning, what of the day?
Light wings and white wings that flutter away;
Song of the wood lark, high in the blue,
Out of the darkness, up from the dew.
Here in the sunlight, silver agleam,
Steel wings, not real wings, swift as a dream;
Vision of Icarus, now in our sway,
Wings of the morning, what of the day?

Claire Goodell.

Here are some western railroad slang phrases which have been used in railroad restaurants for years:

"Snail and boiler compound," sweet roll and coffee; "string of flats," wheat cakes; "varnish," syrup; "brace of headlights," two fried eggs; "dim 'em," over; "graveyard stew," hot milk toast; "dish of cinders," grapenuts; "pair of retreads," two doughnuts. Adrian of Arizona.

We sat down at our desk after the trip singing "Home on the Range," but changed our tune when we found that the mysterious forces of progress, in our absence, had given us a balky typewriter to ride.

AN ABSCESSED TOOTH—A HEALTH HAZARD.

WHILE many of us will escape the bad effects of a sore tooth, no one can regard an abscess about one of these structures as a schoolboy affair. An infection in this neighborhood may actually endanger life if it is acute, or shorten the patient's days if it is responsible for pouring poisons steadily into the blood stream.

When much inflammation exists, the damage may be far more marked than we realize. A violent shower of bacteria, from the side of a molar, into the surrounding tissues may follow the onset of pyorrhea. Occasionally, a serious malady of the jawbone [osteomyelitis] will ensue and the removal of several diseased ivories at one time may incite a severe illness. Whenever the system is flooded with more pus and toxin than it can neutralize—a chill followed by a high temperature may mean that germs have found their way into the circulation.

As a rule, we do not have sufficient respect for the fact that relatively large blood vessels lie in close proximity to the chewing apparatus. Starting with a gum boil, if streptococci are present, invasion of the soft parts may come quickly—with organisms boring beneath the covering of the bone [periosteum]. Fortunately, the fabric of the upper jaw is thin and shell-like and "corruption" usually can make its way to the surface without much trouble. Now and then, however, it will burrow deeper and deeper. But in the lower jaw the structures are harder and drainage is not so likely to occur. Then it is that osteomyelitis may begin.

This discussion was suggested by a case that came to my attention recently. A woman of 34 complained that for three or four years one of her crowned molars would become sore and tender at times. This condition would last for a few days when rest would raise resistance to the point where the irritation would subside. An X-ray at this time showed a deep seated erosion of the space about the roots and there was nothing to do but to chisel away a portion of the body of the bone to make a window for the escape of pus and dead fragments. The patient was quite ill for weeks and her kidneys and heart were affected temporarily. Fortunately, however, recovery came after two supplemental operations succeeded in eradicating the focus of disease.

Routinely, we think of osteomyelitis as appearing in the long bones—particularly the leg. But organisms that have gained entrance to the vessels of the face and the skull can cause just as much injury to the jaw as to the shin. Even more radical and skilled surgery is required. In this connection, we must recall that drainage is the essential principle of treatment.

It is considered good practice among modern dental surgeons to administer one of the sulfanilamide group of drugs 2 or 3 days in advance of an extraction. This seems to fortify or protect the blood stream against the invasion of noxious microbes.

The importance of watching for a sore tooth—whether solitary, crowned, or part of a bridge—is to avoid one of these disastrous episodes which may mean numerous operations, with the loss of one or more of the important functions of the jaw. Furthermore, good care safeguards life, as not a few cases are reported every year in which enough absorption has occurred to wreck the kidneys, damage the heart, or involve the lungs. Abscesses within the breathing apparatus are not uncommon.

Of course, this presents the worst side of the picture. But why risk complications when skilled dental attention will save the day?

WHY IS IT OUR BUSINESS?

Chicago, July 3.—After reading the advertisment of the Fight for Freedom committee, I sat down and wrote them a letter, the sentiments of which are those of many other Americans living in Chicago. I said:

"Gentlemen: Whom does the Fight for Freedom committee want to fight? Why? Our freedom has not been imperiled. Can you honestly say that it has? One of your objectives is that our navy should shoot on sight any axis submarine. Why should we shoot boats of other nations? Are we the boss of the world that we can tell other nations what to do or where their boats can sail? What have the axis countries done to us that we can stick our noses in their fights and tell them what to do? If you want war, I am sure the Canadian army will welcome you with open arms. Chicago doesn't want you, I am sure." ROBERT D. HARRISON.

A WORD FOR THE NYA.

Wilmette, Ill., July 3. — I noted a recent Editorial of the Day, "The NYA Continues," from the Baltimore Evening Sun.

Frankly I believe a great injustice has been done to the National Youth administration by the ideas conveyed in this article.

It is true that the NYA has made mistakes—but who has not? I wish that those who find it easy to be critical of organizations that are now trying to aid the youth of our country could really see what is transpiring in some of the NYA centers where young boys and girls are being trained to fill certain classes of positions in industry, and where industry is eagerly awaiting these young people. I heard of one instance where an employer indicated that if he could get 50 or 100 more of the same type of trained girls that he had received from the NYA he would feel very fortunate.

Some people might comment, "Yes, they are being trained—but what are they producing?" Conveying the thought that some of the products turned out during the training period are not of much value. These people overlook the fact that during their training period you have to consider mainly the training of the mind and hands for actual production in industry.

If the NYA were to be judged entirely on the basis of material value of its products, and if these products, made thru partial subsidy by government, were to go into the market against similar products made by commercial firms, what a howl there would be from industry! It looks to me as if NYA is "damned if it does, and damned if it doesn't." Is this fair? I am not in any way connected with NYA.

JOHN J. LAMB.

RUSSIAN TYRANT NO. 1.

Evanston, Ill., July 2.—In Prof. Wigmore's "Panorama of the World's Legal Systems" I ran across the following about a Russian tyrant, Ivan the Terrible, who reigned during the 16th century:

"To describe in a few words his lifelong enormities is impossible. He put to death his own chancellor with his entire family. He grilled alive one of his princes in an enormous frying pan. He nailed the French ambassador's hat to his skull, for a fancied insult. He ordered whole villages to be drowned. He forced fathers to execute their sons, and sons their fathers. He even killed his own son in a fit of anger. Ivan invented the punishment of mincemeating, i. e., of slicing the culprit gradually into a thousand pieces. On one occasion he presided at the trial and execution in the Kremlin of 200 persons in four hours—their modes of death varying between hanging, boiling, strangling, stabbing, beheading, and mincemeating."

Lovely country, Russia! I'm sure the interventionists will tolerate a little attempted humor in nerve wracking times like these. What I should like to suggest is a poll on the proposition whether the American people should boil or mincemeat the war mongers. ROBERT D. ROSS.

UNFAIR TO OLDER MEN.

Chicago, July 2.—Why are no editorials written regarding the married men and those over 28 years of age who have already been inducted into the selective service?

It is one of the most unfair situations that has arisen in many years. They claim that "only 10 per cent of the men already inducted are over 28 years old." This seemingly small figure represents over 100,000 men. In fairness to families and men there should be a provision for the release of the men already inducted who fall into the deferred category. They are as much entitled to this privilege, if not more so, than those who have suffered nothing to date—no loss of practice, no loss of family or home.

WIFE OF A SELECTEE.

BIG HATS IN THEATERS.

Chicago, July 5.—This seems to be the season for big hats, and funny ones. According to a recent article in THE TRIBUNE, "It was N. W. Plotke who, as 21st ward alderman from 1896 to 1898, wrote into the Chicago city code the edict that woman theater patrons must 'please remove their hats.'"

Yes, I wear a big hat myself, but I remove it in the theater, without fuss and without being asked. R. N.

SALES TAX ON HIS MEALS.

Chicago, July 5.—So our sales taxes have been lowered from 3 to 2 cents on the dollar. Now, let's see how this works out for me [and I am representative of about 90 per cent of the people of Chicago].

I spend 20 cents for breakfast, on which there is a 1 cent tax; I spend 35 cents for lunch, on which there is a 1 cent tax; and for dinner, I spend 70 cents, on which there is a 2 cent tax. Altogether, I spend $1.25 on food on which I pay 4 cents in taxes.

Take this over a period of a year: I spend $456.25 on food and pay a tax of $14.60. The tax on $456.25 at 2 per cent is $9.12. Now, who gets the other $5.48, and just how much have our smart legislators saved me [an average Chicagoan] by lowering the tax from 3 to 2 cents?

HERMAN FOLKMAN.

A 1 PER CENT SAVING.

Chicago, July 4.—To find out what it means to you personally to have a candidate keep his election pledge, get the habit of putting the difference you pay under the 2 and 3 per cent sales tax in a savings account. Had Gov. Green not kept his pledge you would have had to pay the difference anyway. Try it at least until the next election and see the results to your benefit. I am; why don't you?

PAULINE MONTAGUE.

BIGGER AND BIGGER WEEDS.

Chicago, July 6.—The poor hay fever sufferers are seeing the weeds grow taller and healthier every day! Why not give us sufferers a break and have the weeds cut now before they throw their pesky seeds? A HAY FEVER VICTIM.

UNEXPLAINED ABSENCE.

Chicago, July 3 [Legal Friend of the People].—I would like to know if a wife can declare her husband legally dead after 13 years?

L. K.

Seven years' unexplained absence creates a legal presumption of death but it would not be safe to contract a new marriage in reliance on a mere presumption. There is no separate court procedure for declaring a person dead, but if the question becomes material incidental to other proceedings the court will take the presumption into account in making its decision. If you wish to contract another marriage we suggest that you have a personal interview with an attorney, to consider divorce proceedings.

IOWA'S CAVALRY LEARNING 3 R'S IN A TEXAS SETTING

There They Mean Rough, Rolling and Rocky.

BY JOHN THOMPSON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Camp Bowie, Tex., July 7.—Iowa's 113th horse-mechanized cavalry regiment, attached with other corps and army troops to Texas' 36th National Guard division, is learning its three R's, but not out of McGuffey's reader. The three R's at Camp Bowie mean rough, rolling, and rocky—the local terrain.

It is the perfect type of training ground, according to Col. Maxwell A. O'Brien, regimental commander, for the new horse-mechanized cavalry. There are, in the 2,600 acre camp site and the 90,000 acre maneuver area, stretches of level ground. These soon give way to rocky hills, covered with mesquite brush, scrub oak, and cactus.

The sandy clay tent areas have more grass and shrubs than at most army cantonments, but not enough to check erosion. Bowie already has endured more rain since Jan. 1 than usually falls here in a year, and the camp grounds are scored with miniature dry river beds.

Due for Some Real Heat.

Now that the rain has ceased, at least for the last few days, the draftees and National Guard soldiers can expect some old fashioned Texas heat during July and August. It is and has been hot, some days between 90 and 100 degrees, but the natives boast that the Iowans haven't seen any real heat yet.

One saving grace is an almost constant gulf breeze. It alleviates the sun's rays durin gthe day, and makes the nights pleasantly cool.

Inducted into federal service on Jan. 13, the 113th regiment reached camp on Jan. 25, to begin the usual winter-spring siege with Texas mud. The first draftees arrived on April 1 from Iowa and Minnesota. Today the regiment is at full strength of 1,406 men and 70 officers.

But the 113th, like most of the army, is short on equipment. Within the last two months the 113th has received its full complement of 77 semi-trailers to transport its 454 horses, but only 15 tractors are on hand to draw them.

No Heavy Machine Guns.

The regiment has all of its 68 armored scout cars. It is up to full strength in the number of machine guns, but all are .30 caliber. There are none of the heavy .50 caliber and only 46 of the 180 submachine guns with which the outfit is to be equipped.

Nor are there any 37 mm. anti-tank guns. The regiment is scheduled to have 506 m-1 rifles, the new Gerand semi-automatic, but only 129 have arrived.

Its 63 motorcycles are here, but not one of the little bantam cars which the cavalry considers far superior to the motorcycle. Thruout the camp there is a shortage of all forms of motor equipment, trucks, command cars, etc.

Wanted—Girls and Beer.

There are two things the boys miss, girls and beer. Situated in the heart of the "Bible belt," Brownwood supports 30 churches. It always has been dry and is today, with one curious exception.

Whisky can be purchased in the local drug stores by prescription. There always is a doctor on hand to write a prescription for 25 cents. However, the price of liquor—for medicinal purposes, of course—both at drug stores and thru local bootleggers is prohibitive for the $21 a month draftee.

Organized vice, as such, is not recognized. There are no policed brothels. Bowie medical officers say the venereal disease rate of 30 cases per 1,000 men per annum is the lowest in the 8th corps. The camp hospitalization rate is 2.1 per cent, most of the ailments falling in the category of respiratory troubles, mumps, and measles. Out of 20,000 patients treated in the hospital two died.

Question Employes After Fire in Fireworks Plant

Two investigators from the state fire marshal's office yesterday questioned employés of the Acme Fireworks corporation plant at 1st and North avenues, Proviso township. The store was destroyed by fire on July 5. Two years ago an Acme warehouse on the same spot was blown up by three men who bound and gagged the watchman. They never were caught.

A Mellon Volunteers

PAUL MELLON.

MRS. PAUL MELLON.

Washington, D. C., July 7 (AP). — Paul Mellon, son of the late treasury secretary, Andrew Mellon, and one of the wealthiest young men in the country, reported for military training under the draft law here today and was sent to Richmond, Va., for physical examination. Mellon, who lives in Upperville, Va., volunteered for induction, army officials said, after being registered by selective service.

Under recent regulations he would have been deferred automatically along with other registrants over 28 when his draft number came up. He is 34 years old.

"I thought it was the right thing for me to do," Mellon said on his arrival in Richmond.

Asked what his wife, the former Mrs. Mary Conover Brown of Kansas City, Mo., thought of his volunteering, Mellon said: "She thinks it's fine."

HALT PASSENGER TRAFFIC OVER TRANS-SIBERIAN

TOKIO, July 7 (AP).—Japanese press dispatches from Manchuli, at the Manchukuo-Siberia border, reported that passenger service on Russia's trans-Siberian railway was suspended beginning today, presumably because of military needs arising from the Russian-German war. A group of Japanese removed from Moscow shortly after the conflict opened, including the wife of Ambassador General Yoshitsugu Tatekawa and several other women and children, reached Manchuli more than four days behind schedule. A second group, which left Moscow on June 29, still is somewhere in Siberia, and it is not known when it will reach the border.

H. B. CHAMBERLIN, RENOWNED CRIME FIGHTER, IS DEAD

His 'Public Enemies' List Brought Their Undoing.

Col. Henry Barrett Chamberlin, operating director of the Chicago Crime commission and for more than two decades a militant opponent of crime, died in the Augustana hospital last night following an operation. He was 74 years old.

Col. Chamberlin.

A noted career as a newspaper man — reporter, war correspondent, editor, and publisher—preceded his entrance into the anti-crime field in 1919. His career also included service in the Illinois National Guard, from which he retired with the rank of colonel.

Created "Public Enemy" List.

One of his achievements was his publishing in 1930 of the original list of Chicago's 28 "public enemies," headed by Al Capone. From that time on their decline began.

Col. Chamberlin was graduated from Northwestern university law school in 1888.

In 1891, Col. Chamberlain entered the active newspaper field, remaining 24 years except for brief interludes in which he served with politico-civic organizations. As a newspaperman he worked in Chicago, New York and Omaha, Neb. He was city editor of the old Chicago Record and editor in chief of the old Chicago Record-Herold.

Covered Fleet Battle.

His most exciting—and disappointing—adventure as a newspaper man occurred July 3, 1898, when under actual fire he covered the fleet battle off Santiago during the Spanish-American war. He cabled a scoop to his Chicago paper, but a one day strike at the plant prevented publication of his story.

Between 1914 and 1919 Col. Chamberlin published his own magazine and engaged in war work. In the latter year an unprecedented crime wave, attributed to postwar unrest, swept Chicago. The Chicago Association of Commerce invited Col. Chamberlin to draw up a plan to combat the situation. From that assignment he created the crime commission.

Fought Crime with Publicity.

Thru the commission Col. Chamberlin exposed lax law enforcement and in numerous other ways fought crime. He was an advocate of publicizing crime as a means of reducing it.

Col. Chamberlin leaves his widow, Irene, and three sons. They are Henry B. Jr. of Chicago; John, a lawyer with the agriculture department in Washington, and Lieut. William G. Chamberlin of the United States marines, now believed to be in Iceland. Recent information from his camp indicated he might be sent there. Col. Chamberlin lived at 4418 North Paulina street.

PERU-ECUADOR WAR QUIETS; EACH SIDE PUTS BLAME ON OTHER

QUITO, Ecuador, July 7 (AP).—Uneasy peace was reported tonight on the jungle frontier of Peru and Ecuador after three days of spirited tho small scale fighting, including air attacks—but nationalistic feelings still were running high.

Official sources said the government had protested to the Peruvian minister charging "unjustified and prepared aggression" by Peru against border outposts.

Communiques here said there was only occasional isolated firing, but that Peruvian planes had attacked Huaquillas this morning. Another report said a few bombs were dropped by Peruvian flyers on Isla Payana.

Blame Ecuadoreans.

LIMA, Peru, July 7 (AP).—A responsible Peruvian source said tonight that Ecuadorean troops were to blame for border clashes and further charged that Ecuadorean newspapers were trying to represent Peru as "an anti-democratic trouble maker in the eyes of other American nations, especially the United States."

Chile May Mediate.

SANTIAGO, Chile, July 7 (AP).—Informed sources reported tonight that Chile was preparing to offer to mediate the border dispute between Peru and Ecuador. There were conferences between Foreign Minister Juan Rossetti and diplomatic representatives of the two disputing countries. Also present were representatives of Argentina, Brazil, and the United States, which previously had offered to serve as arbiters.

REPORT PARLEY UNDER WAY IN CONVICT STRIKE

Leavenworth, Kas., July 7 (AP).—Officials of Leavenworth federal penitentiary and representatives of the 1,100 striking convicts in the shoe and brush factories began negotiations today, it was learned from an authoritative source.

Warden Robert H. Hudspeth, who would not comment on the reported negotiations, said he did not know when work would be resumed. The shoes and brushes are a part of the prison's preparedness production.

The work stoppage was begun last Thursday by prisoners demanding increased pay, double time for overtime, and additional good behavior time to apply on sentences and protesting a work week increase from 39 to 44 hours. It also affected printing, clothing, and furniture plants. Warden Hudspeth said the plants would remain closed pending completion of an investigation.

WELLES BLAMES PERU-ECUADOR ROW ON ALIENS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 7.—Commenting upon the outbreak of hostilities between Peru and Ecuador, Acting Secretary of State Sumner Welles today hinted that outside influences may have been responsible for resumption of the old border dispute.

Welles said the incident is particularly regrettable in view of the present critical international situation and the recent offer of friendly services to both countries by the United States, Brazil, and Argentina.

The administration obviously was chagrined over the back yard wrangling of its "good neighbors" in the Latin Americas—especially after it had endeavored to present the appearance of a unified hemisphere.

Welles deplored reports that Brazil is not collaborating in hemispheric defense plans and was reported to have jailed American flyers ferrying warplanes to Africa. He denied both reports as untrue, saying Brazil is cooperating completely and has shown the flyers every courtesy.

Mr. C.S. Benham
Manager, National Advertising
Chicago Tribune
Chicago, Illinois

Dear Sir:

We have just made a survey of the productivity of our various sales territories. You may be interested to know that Chicago and Illinois show more sales per capita for Karagheusian rugs and carpets than any other territory.

We believe that a great deal of the credit for this sales record goes to the advertising campaigns run regularly in the Chicago Tribune since 1929.

It is indeed gratifying to a manufacturer to find his highest per capita sales in a territory so densely populated, so wealthy and so influential as the Chicago trade area. To us it is conclusive proof of the value of placing special intensive effort in key areas.

It is with this conviction in mind that we have spent more than $400,000 for space in the Chicago Tribune alone since 1929. You will have noted that we are now using color gravure exclusively to secure the highest artistic representation in your paper of the beauty of our products.

Our sales force in Chicago and the salesmen and executives of our wholesale distributors constantly refer to the merchandising value of the Chicago Tribune campaigns. It is quite clear that retailers too appreciate the special force of an advertising campaign which appears in the very medium that they use themselves.

Sincerely yours.
A. & M. KARAGHEUSIAN

TRADE MARK GULISTAN

How Karagheusian built Chicago into its top U. S. market for Gulistan rugs and carpets with consistent roto and coloroto advertising in the Chicago Sunday Tribune

Style and beauty—these are powerful factors in the sale of rugs and carpeting. To capitalize them to the full, A. & M. Karagheusian is using full page advertisments in full colorotogravure in the Sunday Tribune Roto Picture section—with the results reported in the accompanying letter.

CHICAGO and Illinois show more sales per capita for Karagheusian rugs and carpets than any other territory, reports Arto Funduklian, sales promotion manager, A. & M. Karagheusian, in the accompanying letter.

Here is a fact which should be of interest to every manufacturer determined to capitalize today's greater sales opportunities to the full.

Since 1929, this company's Chicago sales drive has been based on a consistent campaign of rotogravure advertising run year after year in the Roto Picture section of the Chicago Sunday Tribune.

With the exception of two advertisments placed in another Chicago newspaper a number of years ago, Karagheusian's Chicago newspaper advertising budget of more than $400,000.00 has been concentrated on the huge audience reached by the Sunday Tribune Roto Picture section.

This year's campaign has consisted of full pages in full colorotogravure in the Sunday Tribune.

Here is up-to-the-minute testimony offering new proof that you make the most of your advertising funds when you build your Chicago sales promotion around the Tribune.

The reason is not hard to find. With more than 1,000,000 circulation, every day of the week, the Tribune is the one medium which delivers the volume of circulation you need to develop this market's stepped-up sales potential.

Mr. Funduklian says: "Our sales force in Chicago and the salesmen and executives of our wholesale distributors constantly refer to the merchandising value of the Chicago Tribune campaigns."

When you can have more, why take less? Build your Chicago advertising drive around the Tribune and you step up your promotion in line with Chicago's mounting spendable income. Every day you do without the Tribune's greater sales power, you pass up increased sales which easily could be yours.

There is no need to pass them up when Tribune rates per 100,000 circulation are among America's lowest.

Ask a Tribune representative or your advertising counsel to help you plan a program built around the Tribune which can help you get the increased volume now available in this market.

MARKET-WIDE, ALL-INCOME COVERAGE

● On Sunday the Tribune delivers from 270,000 to 720,000 more total circulation than other Chicago Sunday newspapers. On weekdays it delivers from 595,000 to 635,000 more than other Chicago daily newspapers.

Right in metropolitan Chicago, the Tribune on Sunday delivers from 370,000 to 440,000 more circulation than other Chicago Sunday newspapers. On weekdays it delivers in metropolitan Chicago 450,000 more than other Chicago daily newspapers.

In addition, the Tribune not only is the home town newspaper of Chicago, but also of hundreds of cities and towns for hundreds of miles around. In 704 cities and towns of 1,000 or more population in the Chicago territory, Tribune circulation on Sunday is the equivalent of 51% coverage of all the families. On weekdays it is 46%.

FLORIDA LIQUOR LAW PROHIBITS CUT RATE PRICES

Dealer Mark Up Must Be 40 Per Cent.

Miami, Fla., July 7 [Special].—Buyers of wines and liquors must pay from 7 to 20 per cent more for their bottles and cases under provisions of a recently passed state law designed to stop cut-rate sales.

The new law provides that all retailers of liquor operate under a plan whereby all merchandise sold by them will be priced at a guaranteed minimum markup of 40 per cent over the wholesale price.

Cut-rate liquor stores and chain stores in resort cities and towns were the target of the Florida Retail Liquor Dealers' association which sponsored the bill and had it passed by both houses of the 1941 legislature without opposition.

Supported by Distillers.

The liquor dealers had the support of the distillers in getting the measure thru the legislature. Distillers recommend a retail markup of 33⅓ per cent over the wholesale price of liquor, but this recommendation is widely ignored by the chain stores and cut-rate retailers whose profit margin average about 20 per cent.

The Florida liquor dealers based their 40 per cent markup figure on the experience of New York retailers who kept prices stabilized on this basis until about a year ago when a few price cutters started a war which eventually forced many out of business.

Stores Warn Customers.

Evidence that Florida liquor retailers generally sold their wares at prices below the 40 per cent markup is found in a letter one large store sent to its patrons as soon as the new law was passed.

The letter warned the customer that no discounts would be permitted on any quantity of liquor after the law became effective and offered what was described as great savings if orders were placed at once at the existing price.

The proposal was made to accept orders at once, charge the merchandise to the customers' account and then make deliveries and collect payments during the 1941-'42 season, which for the resort spots will not become active until the latter part of next November.

TWO KILLED IN TRUCK COLLISION.

Peoria, Ill., July 7 [Special].—Lawrence Sheridan, 38 years old, and his wife, Lillian, 43, were killed last night in a truck collision near Tremont. Clarence Grinnell of Freeport, driver of the other truck, was uninjured.

HODES WILL ACT ON 'WAR RELIEF' AD SALES DRIVE

Investigates Sideline of an Assistant.

Corporation Counsel Barnet Hodes yesterday began an investigation of charges that the prestige of his office had been used to promote the sale of advertisments.

Hodes said he would question Steve Warnick, investigator on his staff and advertising manager of Jugoslavenski Glasnik [the Jugo-Slav Herald]. The paper, which has editorial offices at 1345 West 18th street, published a special edition on July 4. It contained several hundred advertisments from business houses and individuals.

Several of those who contracted for ads said yesterday they had done so because they were given the impression that a percentage of the money they paid would go for Jugo-Slav war relief and that the corporation counsel's office was indorsing the enterprise.

Describes Phone Call.

"I was reached by telephone," said one of the advertisers. "The person at the other end of the wire said, 'I am Mr. Warnick of the corporation counsel's office.' Then he talked about the suffering that had followed the German invasion of Jugo-Slavia and finished by soliciting an ad for the 'independence edition' of the paper."

Hodes said yesterday he had known nothing of the scheme, nor of Warnick's connection with the Jugo-Slav Herald. All employés of the corporation counsel's office are required to sign a statement that they are engaged in no gainful, outside occupation. Warnick signed this statement, Hodes continued. Warnick's salary as investigator is $1,980 a year. He is said to be sponsored politically by Congressman A. J. Sabath [D.].

Officials of the Jugoslav-American Relief Committee, Inc., stated yesterday that the organization has no arrangement with Warnick for collection of relief funds. Besides the Jugoslav-American Relief Committee, Inc., there is only one other agency that has been authorized by the state department at Washington, D. C., to gather Jugo-Slav war relief funds, and it has not as yet begun to function.

Charged with Assault.

Warnick, meanwhile, is facing trial in Jury court on July 10 on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon and disorderly conduct in connection with an attack at 19th and Throop streets on April 11. The case has been continued five times.

CIGARET, LIQUOR TAXES IN 2 DAYS YIELD $1,834,386

Springfield, Ill., July 7 (AP).—The state treasury netted $1,834,386 from Illinois' new cigaret and liquor taxes in the first two days the new levies were in effect, Finance Director George B. McKibbin reported today.

McKibbin said the cigaret tax, 2 cents on each package of 20, accounted for $676,790 of revenue and the doubled liquor taxes yielded $1,157,596. The figures covered tax stamps sold by the finance department up to July 3, the taxes having become operative July 1.

Stamps sold during the first two days were largely to cover current stocks of liquors and cigarets on the shelves of retailers and wholesalers. In the future the stocks will reach retailers prestamped by distributors and manufacturers.

Campaign for Young China Here Headed by Fred B. Snite Jr.

Fred B. Snite Jr., who was stricken with infantile paralysis March 31, 1936, while traveling in China, yesterday accepted the Chicago chairmanship of the Campaign for Young China, which is headed nationally by Walt Disney.

The appointment was made by Robert J. Thorne, Chicago regional chairman of United China Relief, Inc., in the garden of Snite's home at 909 Ashland avenue, River Forest. Three members of the organization, Florence Tom, 22, her sister, Grace, 24, and Frances Moy, 21, were present.

Snite also will head the China Stamp Club of America, which constitutes a large part of the Young China campaign. Members of the club sell stamps designed by James Montgomery Flagg, the illustrator. Proceeds provide war relief for Chinese children.

Fire Holds a Fascination for Children

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.
Copyright: 1941: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.

Fire is magic.

We're used to it, but it's magic just the same.

Appreciating this, is it any wonder that fire has a fascination for children? Is it surprising that young fingers should itch to strike a slim splinter of wood and see a bright flame burst forth?

"My little boy loves to play with matches." How natural that he should. But how equally natural that it should worry us. Fire is a wonderful slave, but a terrible master, and certainly no plaything for a child. What shall we do about it?

First, we must understand the allure it has for children and not regard the desire to strike matches or set fire to things as naughtiness.

And second, when our children are very little, we must absolutely keep matches out of their reach, screen our fireplaces, guard our gas cocks, and be vigilant whenever they and fire of any kind are in proximity.

That being agreed, what next? Two things. One is to give our small child a chance to satisfy this interest in fire, perhaps by sitting close beside him and letting him strike matches one after another, this, of course, only when he has enough skill to do so; or by his father letting him help light his pipe. The other is gradually to teach the child that there are some things about the house which are not to be played with, even when within reach.

Frock for Active Sports

MISS' ACTIVE SPORTS FROCKS.

Slimsters will like these two sports frocks to wear for their tennis, golf, and beach picnic dates. One model has a wide square neckline, puffed sleeves, corselet waistline, and flared skirt. It makes up well in all types of washable materials.

The other frock has a long torso below which the graceful skirt ripples. The bodice buttons down the side, and the neckline in back is cut fairly low, but not so low as an evening gown. Spanking white piqué or sharkskin is a grand choice for this model.

Style No. 3313 is designed for sizes 11, 13, 15, 17, and 19.

Style No. 2920 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, and 20.

Each pattern costs 10 cents.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

Letters Flood Sally for Bids to Next Party

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

[Activities of the Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.]

Judging from the letters which have been pouring in to my desk, the news of our July 17 party made a hit with you boys and girls!

I can understand that, because all the youngsters who've attended parties at the Hotel Sherman with me in previous years will surely want to come again.

Carl Marx, the clown, will head the list of entertainers. He's a very funny fellow with great big feet, a nose that lights up, and all sorts of silly tricks up his sleeve.

Then we'll see a special exhibition of a game I know you boys and girls love. Coleman Clark, the table tennis champion of the country, will play, and maybe he'll give you some tips on how to improve your game.

We'll also hear a musical program by Helen O'Connell and Bob Eberly from Jimmy Dorsey's famous band.

There is still plenty of time to write and tell me what you think about this party.

Your letter doesn't have to be just so, you know. It must just be sincere and you must write every word of it all by yourself. Letters from parents will not be accepted.

When you write, don't forget to tell me your full name, address, and your age, and be sure to mail your letter in plenty of time to have it reach me before the winners are selected on Thursday.

Weddings Announced

The marriage of Miss Anna Jeanne Pendexter to Jack Macdonald will take place on Friday in the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Ida F. Pendexter of Dundee. A wedding breakfast will follow at the St. Charles Country club. Miss Pendexter attended Rollins college. Her fiancé, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Herschel H. Macdonald of Columbia avenue, studied at the University of Illinois.

The marriage of Miss Elizabeth Anne Tillman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Eugene Startsman of South Bend, Ind., to Lieut. Robert Paterson Hall of Fort Riley, Kas., took place on June 7 in Christ Episcopal church, River Forest. Lieut. Hall is the son of Lieut. Col. Milton W. Hall, U. S. A. medical corps, and Mrs. Hall of Fort Sheridan. He and his bride will live at Fort Riley. The former Miss Tillman was graduated from Indiana university.

Miss Frances Elmore Curtis, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Francis Marion Curtis of Huntsville, Tex., and Robert Louis Kellogg, son of Col. and Mrs. Henry Louis Kellogg of Princeton avenue, were married on June 3 in the First Presbyterian church of Huntsville. After spending the summer in Detroit and Chicago, Mr. Kellogg and his bride will return to Huntsville, where he will be on the staff of the Sam Houston State Teachers' college.

Swan up and Sing!

HERE'S A FLOATING SOAP THAT SUDS LIKE MAGIC IN HARDEST WATER!

IT'S 8 WAYS BETTER!

Laughs at hard water, Suds right away.

You never saw the like of Swan! Suds twice as fast as old-time floating soaps, in the hardest water. Richer, creamier lather, too. Lasting, stand-up suds. Smells cleaner, fresher. Never stale or flat.

Pure as castile, Ma'am! Milder than May!

Lady, lady—you can't buy a purer soap! Swan's as pure and mild as imported "100% olive oil" castile, always considered a standard of mildness among "baby soaps." Ask your doctor about Swan. He has the details in his medical journals.

Swell in the kitchen, Shower bath, too.

You can break that handsome, white bar smoothly—and easily—into two handy cakes; one for kitchen, one for bathroom. Swan, you'll find, is much firmer than old-time floating soaps. It has far less moisture. It lasts and lasts. Won't warp either.

Soap of the Century Ready for you!

Use Swan wherever a pure, gentle soap is needed! If you don't think it's swell (for baby; dishes; silks and you) mail us the wrapper, and we'll send you double your money back! Swan, Lever Brothers Company, Cambridge, Mass.

Duplicity Now Enters Making of Furniture

BY RITA FITZPATRICK.

Simplicity and duplicity are now the trends in furniture. A highly decorated piece of furniture that last year was just a breakfront bookcase, this season may be a streamlined bookcase, china cabinet, nick-nack nook, desk and believe it or not, a dining room table, all in one.

This was observed yesterday at the opening of the two week sessions of the International Home Furnishings market in the Merchandise Mart and the National Home Furnishings market in the American Furniture Mart.

The reason behind this sleight of hand style is the national defense emergency which has been playing tricks in the trade. Lack of metals and woods have called upon the ingenuity and art of designers and manufacturers to the extent that one article is now created to do the duty of three or four and new materials have taken the place of traditional mahoganies and foreign woods.

The modern style, which designers predict will be the most popular seller this season, lends itself best to the present situation. One example at the Merchandise Mart is interchangeable furniture. Created of a southern hardwood called hackberry, being introduced into the market for the first time, it has three primary units in the modern manner which can be used as a dining room sideboard, doubled to be a china cabinet, divided to be night stands or dressing table with a glass shelf between, or can be turned into bookcases. It is a boon to the "cliff dwelling" contingent.

Then there are end tables that can be used as smoking stands and sewing tables, knee hole desks that conceal sewing machines, and lamps that contain clocks with cocktail tables for bases.

Paper drapery is a new one. Made from a rayon material, the fabric, if it can be called that, is formed in a sheet instead of woven. It is dyed in fast colors like creton and the material is insoluble in water. The advantage of this sudden departure in draperies is obvious. It is glowingly attractive in bright colors and can be cleaned by a damp cloth. When the lady of the house tires of one pattern she can throw the drapes away and buy new ones for the cost of dry cleaning!

Mothers will thank the emergency program which has brought about the new cribs now being shown at the American Furniture Mart. Because of the shortage in metals, enamels, and certain woods, a new crib has been created of a clear plastic and mother can now see what baby is up to from any part of the room. Even if baby plays with matches, he can set only himself, not the crib, on fire.

Plastic also is being shown at the Furniture Mart as a highly decorative touch on Regency furniture. It is being used in place of mahogany arms and legs with a pleasing and attractive result.

Boys and Girls to Aid Benefit for Ridge Farm

BY JUDITH CASS.

LAKE FORESTERS get an early start in assisting at charity parties, judging from the list of boys and girls who will help the board of the Ridge Farm Preventorium with one part of its all day benefit Friday at the Walter Murphy estate in North Green Bay road, Lake Forest. The youngsters will assist at a fiesta for children at 10 o'clock in the morning.

Later on at luncheon time, some younger children will help their mothers to model clothes on a platform in the garden. No part of this pleasant party can be spoiled by rain, for if the weather man does not coöperate, the fiesta, the luncheon and fashion show will be held indoors.

Young Folk to Assist in Entertaining Children.

Alice and Barbara Bentley, Betsy Dixon, Nancy Clement, Keith Robinson, Ronnie Boardman, Mac Reynolds, Suzanne Pirie, Peggy Whipple, and Rowena Carpenter are some of the young people who will be assisting with the morning entertainment for children.

Dale and Sharon Pirie, Michael McLaughlin, the James R. Addington's little boy and girl, and the Macaulay Carters', the C. Morse Elys', and the Junior W. Irving Osbornes' little girls will show children's fashions during the luncheon hour. Some of the grownup glamor girls with whom they will be competing are Mrs. A. Watson Armour III., Mrs. John T. Pirie Jr., Dale, Sharon, and Suzanne's mother; Mrs. Eugene du Pont III., Mrs. Addington, Mrs. Daggett Harvey, and Debutantes Lana Jelke, Lee Cudahy, Modrea Mullen, Annie Lawrie Ryerson, and Joan Peabody.

Admission to the estate will be $1 per person. The charge for the children's fiesta will be 25 cents per child. The total cost for adults for a picnic luncheon, duplicate or contract bridge, an organ recital and the fashion show is $3.50 per person.

Betty Bennett Making Debut at Dinner-Dance.

The gay summer debut whirl continues today with a dinner-dance Mr. and Mrs. James E. Bennett are giving to introduce the second of their five daughters, Miss Betty Bennett. The party will be given at 8:30 o'clock at the Saddle and Cycle club. Mrs. and Miss Bennett will receive indoors in the main dining room, where the dancing will be held, and dinner will be served out of doors on the terrace.

The debutante's postdeb sister, Miss Barbara Bennett, will be present at the party, but subdeb Ruth Ann is visiting in the east and will not be there, nor will be the twins, Janet and Joan, who are too young. Betty Bennett has a former Shipley school friend as her house guest for the party, Miss Esther Cunningham of Scarsdale, N. Y. The bud will go to Bridgeport, Conn., at the end of July to visit Miss Nancy Ferris, and then she will go to the Bennetts' summer home at the Wausaukee club in Wisconsin.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard M. Lamport are entertaining at cocktails from 5 until 7 o'clock this afternoon to celebrate their eighth wedding anniversary. It will be the first one they have spent together, for by this time in July Mrs. Lamport usually has departed to spend the summer with her parents, the LeRoy Kramers, in their Harbor Springs, Mich., home.

Wares from the Vocational Society for Shut-Ins will be on display today in Lake Geneva at the home of Mrs. Albert F. Madlener. Mrs. Madlener Jr., Mrs. Sanston Hettler, Mrs. William O. Hunt, Mrs. Daniel Peterkin, and Mrs. Earle J. Zimmerman will be among those assisting the hostess.

Miss Evelyn Bouscarens Becomes Bride Saturday.

The Henri V. Bouscarens arrived yesterday from their home in Dallas, Tex., for the marriage on Saturday of their sister and brother, Miss Evelyn Bouscaren and Lieut. J. Munroe McNulty. The wedding will take place at noon in the church of Saints Faith, Hope and Charity in Winnetka, with a breakfast following in the Winnetka home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis H. G. Bouscaren.

Because Lieut. McNulty is not arriving from Philadelphia until Thursday, there will be only one party before the wedding, the bridal dinner, to be given by Mr. and Mrs. Bouscaren at the Indian Hill club on Friday night. It will be for the families only, but even so it will be rather large.

Subdebutante Anne Bouscaren will be her sister's only attendant. Lieut.

Open Conference on Child Guidance at Northwestern U.

One hundred ten principals and school counselors from 23 states heard three business executives discuss "What Business and Industry Expects of the Schools" at the opening general session of the fifth annual child guidance conference conducted by Northwestern university in Abbott hall, the skyscraper dormitory on the Chicago campus, last evening.

"I would like to see the schools discourage the popular idea of 'getting by,'" Mrs. Marie Downs, employment manager of Mandel Brothers, declared. "A boy or girl who just 'gets by' misses success. I would also like to see the schools weed out the 'chiselers' who cheat on a few minutes at lunch time or quitting time, who are afraid to do a job completely."

Taking part in the discussion with Mrs. Downes was William Bachrach, chairman of the educational committee for the Chicago Association of Commerce, and Miss Mary Kennedy, personnel director of the Harris Trust and Savings bank.

Church to Be Taken to Congregation in Middle of Lake

Culver Lake, N. J., July 7 [Special]. —The Rev. Earl Devanny, pastor of Christ Union chapel at this summer resort, was in his pulpit today, getting things shipshape for the launching [literally] of the outdoor churchgoing season here.

The Rev. Mr. Devanny was painting the 12 by 20 foot barge pulpit from which he will begin preaching next Sunday evening while his congregation its in rowboats, motorboats, and canoes tied to the barge anchored in the middle of the mile wide lake. With the preacher on the barge will be a choir of 12 and a portable organ. The congregation—including, it is said, a number who are not exactly regular parishioners—will loll about in bathing suits and other informal garb.

When the time comes for the collection, a tin pail will be passed from boat to boat.

Reconstruction Aids Meet Here Tomorrow

The World War Reconstruction Aides association, composed of women who cared for wounded soldiers in army hospitals during the World war, will observe its 21st anniversary at a three day meeting beginning tomorrow in the Morrison hotel. Delegates will come from thruout the nation. Miss Estelle Angier of Wheaton is president of the organization.

Free Concerts Open Tonight in Grant Park

BY EDWARD BARRY.

If the weather is kind, the cool lake front acres opposite 11th street will be thronged tonight with music-minded Chicagoans and visitors. The occasion is the opening of the 1941 series of free Grant park concerts, sponsored by the Chicago park district and the Chicago Federation of Musicians.

Henry Weber, musical director of W-G-N and artistic director of the Chicago Opera company, will conduct the Chicago Opera orchestra in a program consisting of such melodious classics as Tschaikowsky's Fifth Symphony, Johann Strauss' waltz, "Tales from the Vienna Woods"; the prelude to Wagner's "The Mastersingers of Nuremberg," and the Liszt symphonic poem "Les Préludes."

The soloist will be the popular soprano, Vivian Della Chiesa. A few years ago, when she was an obscure citizen of East Chicago, Ind., she won a singer's contest sponsored by a Chicago radio station. Since then her climb has been rapid. She has made a success of radio, concert, and opera. Her local appearances have included several at Grant park and on the stage of the Civic Opera house. Tonight she will sing Schubert's "Ave Maria," the "Jewel Song" from Gounod's "Faust," the aria, "One Fine Day," from Puccini's "Madame Butterfly"; Molloy's "The Kerry Dance," and an Irish air in a Grainger arrangement.

Plans are for concerts at Grant park nightly from now until Sept. 7.

James C. Petrillo, president of the Chicago Federation of Musicians and the American Federation of Musicians and a commissioner of the Chicago park district, established the free Grant park concerts in 1935. He has been deeply interested in them ever since, and took a leading part in working out a solution of this year's budget difficulties. In this he had the coöperation of Robert J. Dunham, president of the Chicago park district.

La Guardia Proclaims New York Style Center

New York, July 7 [Special].—By proclamation of Mayor Fiorello H. La Guardia, New York today became the world's fashion center as 20 models, garbed in "New York creations" paraded before an audience in the city council chamber that included Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt. The event initiated the campaign of the New York Dress institute "to make the Americas conscious of New York's style creations."

Every evening during July and August, Indian ceremonials are held at Stand Rock amphitheater, at the Wisconsin Dells. The only all-Indian ceremonials in the middle west are a result of a woman's hobby. Mrs. Phyllis Crandall Connor conceived the idea and encouraged and sponsored the project for several years. Now, in addition to Wisconsin's Winnebago Indians, who live at the Dells during July and August, there are, supporting the Winnebagos and adding color and variety to the ceremonials, Chippewa, Sioux, Oneida, Cochiti, Zuni, and Hopi Indians.

A representative evening's program includes Chief Daybreak, master of ceremonies; Chief Silvertongue, tenor; Evergreen Tree, imitator of birds and animals; Hotonga, cellist; Blue Sky Woman, Winnebago singer; Red Stone, Oneida pianist; Chief Yellow Thunder, lecturer and historian; the mysterious flute ceremony of the southwest and the sunrise call of the Zuni.

He also told him something to his advantage would occur the next day. Vanderbilt took a plane back to New York after his Petrify won the $28,000 Lassie stakes at Arlington Saturday.

Paid Companion

By Elizabeth York Miller

[Copyright: 1941: By Elizabeth York Miller]

SYNOPSIS.

Orphaned since childhood, Celia Ames, 22, has no one to whom she can turn when she loses her job. In her loneliness she has fallen in love with ingratiating Val Quentin, a fellow boarder, who is always borrowing money from her. She runs into Felicity Stanmore, four years her junior, whom she mothered in convent days. Felicity's mother is dead and her father, Sir Martin, is 39, handsome and rich. Felicity invites Celia to their home for the week-end and confides to her that she is in love. The man turns out to be Val, and Celia finds that he has bought Felicity a ring with money he got from pawning Celia's jewelry. Sir Martin does not like Val and asks Celia to come live with them as Felicity's companion and help run the household during Felicity's Aunt May Allison's absence. Celia accepts. Miss Allison, jealous of Felicity's love for Celia, has made things as difficult for Celia as possible. Then, too, altho Celia is now cured of her love for Val, she is forced to warn Felicity against him, and Felicity thinks Celia is just jealous. Celia finds herself falling in love with Sir Martin and wanting to live up to his trust in her but at the same time she does not want to tell tales on Felicity. At a cabaret party Sir Martin learns that Val is divorced and living on money from his ex-wife. He forbids Val his house and is furious at Celia for not telling him. Felicity, rebellious, disappears, and Celia frantically follows and finds her on board a train en route to meet Val in Paris. But just as she finds her, Celia stumbles and sprains her ankle badly. As a last desperate effort to stop the elopement Celia tells Felicity about Val pawning her jewelry. Felicity, convinced he is no good, throws his ring away and returns home with Celia.

INSTALMENT XXVI.

DOUBTFUL FATHER.

Downstairs the golden voiced clock chimed 10.

Was it still so early? Martin had said he would not be late, so perhaps he was home by now.

Celia was falling asleep in the chair when a tap came at her door, and there he was. Perhaps it would have been all the same to him if he had actually found her in bed.

He came across quickly before she had time to move.

"Don't get up, please. Felicity said you've cracked your ankle. How did that happen?"

"I just knocked it against something. I'm sure it will be all right in the morning."

"May I sit down a moment?"

"O, please do."

He drew up a chair opposite her.

"I want to know what's been going on here. I don't like being kept in the dark."

He was eying her in a sharp, almost hostile fashion.

"What makes you think——"

"Now don't tell me you've been taking lessons from Felicity. What new scheme is brewing? I've reached the end of my patience, I can tell you. I come home and I find Felicity and Sandy sprawled on the floor like old times playing backgammon, and Felicity goes out of her way to be civil to me. In fact, she tries to be affectionate. What's more, apparently she's on friendly terms with you, which she wasn't the last time I saw her. Now, if it's not too great a strain on your loyalty, perhaps you'll be kind enough to tell what it's all about."

How unfair this was. Celia felt herself to be in the position of a buffer state which generally gets all the kicks. It was time she had something to say for herself.

"You needn't take that tone with me," she said, with a show of spirit that must have surprised him. "The only bargain I made with you was to do all in my power to look after Felicity. I've done that, and now we're quits. I think I may tell you, without violating a confidence, that you haven't got to worry about her any more where Val Quentin is concerned. Please don't think I'm ungrateful, Sir Martin. You were very kind to me, and at a time when I hardly knew which way to turn, but if I had known a week ago what I was letting myself in for——"

She was beginning to choke now; she couldn't keep it up; in another minute she'd be letting him know that she had fallen desperately in love with him and that her second plight was worse, if anything, than her first had been.

"I see. You—you haven't been happy here," he said slowly. "Felicity and I between us—we've given you a bad time. It must have been something of a knockout when you discovered Quentin had been playing you up like that. Damn the mean little swine."

He got up, thrust his hands deep into his pockets and looked around the room, pursing his lips in a hissing sort of whistle.

Celia turned away so he shouldn't see there were tears streaming down her cheeks.

"Sorry I bothered you." At the door he paused. "Don't you think we'd better have a doctor in to look at that ankle?"

She shook her head vehemently and, with her face still averted, signed for him to leave her.

He hated her, of course—or at least despised her—because she had made that adimission to him about herself and Val. And that was unfair, too. He didn't even despise Felicity; he was merely worried and anxious about her.

After a good cry Celia gathered up her pride again. In the morning she would shake the dust of Leighton House from her feet forever, and go back to Alanbrook if she had to crawl on her hands and knees.

That was more easily said than done, however, for in the morning she could not even set her injured foot on the floor, much less shake it. She couldn't take a step until Jenkins brought her another stick, and then it was a slow, painful business.

"Daddy says you've got to have the doctor," Felicity told her. "So please don't make any fuss."

Felicity had brought her an armful of invalid pretties. She had to look nice for the doctor—hadn't she?

And then the doctor came and said Celia would be laid up for about a week if she obeyed orders and took care of herself; otherwise it might be much longer than that. He said she must stay in bed or, at the most, hobble to the couch; but keep her foot up whatever she did, and not use it at all.

He was brisk and dogmatic, and the pretties were quite wasted on him.

"It's all my fault, darling," Felicity said contritely, "but I'll make it up to you. I'll teach you backgammon and we'll have a perfectly grand time. There's only one thing"—her face clouded. "Auntie May will be home this evening."

Celia, with a bigger misery on her mind, had forgotten Auntie May.

"I've got to tell you something. I hope you won't loathe me for it," said Felicity.

Celia waited, with the philosophic conviction that as the very worst had happened to her, nothing else could possibly matter.

"Val telegraphed Auntie May. You see—he wanted to get rid of you. Only I didn't know that was the reason until afterwards. He telegraphed her that you were making a dead set at daddy. He wanted her to come back because she was on his side and of course he knew you weren't."

A slow, painful flush crept up Celia's face. She felt shamed and guilty. Had she shown so plainly that she was head over heels in love with Martin Stanmore, or had Val just used the idea for his own purposes?

"Darling, don't look so hurt. You and I know it isn't true, and so does daddy. What does it matter what Auntie May thinks? And anyway, daddy's quite used to her jealousies."

"Felicity, you haven't said anything about this to your father, have you?"

"Yes, I did, but he was so cross that I wished I hadn't. He pretty well snapped my head off. . . . O, yes, and I told him I was finished with Val. But I didn't say how it had happened. I thought perhaps you wouldn't care for him to know about Val's taking your jewelry."

Celia sat up in bed, scarlet spots rouging her cheeks.

"If you would really like to oblige me," she said, "you'll tell Sir Martin everything. He knows something has happened and naturally he would like to know what it is. Don't pretend that you don't want to tell him on my account. The truth is you don't want him to know how near you came to making a fool of yourself."

"Celia!"

"Be as indignant as you like. That's how I feel about it. And I don't care a hang if he knows what a complete fool I was, either—how maudlin and love sick over Valentine Quentin. What's it got to do with Martin Stanmore, anyway?"

"Why, Celia—nothing of course."

Felicity looked a little cowed.

"All I ask now is to be allowed to live my own life in peace." Celia was wound up and couldn't stop. "I don't want to keep other people's secrets for them any more, and I hope I don't have to. I wish I could go home. I wish I wasn't laid up like this. I don't know what I wouldn't give if I could get up and walk straight out of this house."

"O, darling, what have we done to you!" Felicity cried.

A couple of tears trickled down her cheeks.

"The next thing you'll be saying I'm ungrateful," Celia added, as with a final thump.

McNulty will have his father as best man. After a week's wedding trip, Lieut. McNulty and his bride will be at home in Philadelphia. Another of the bride's brothers, Pierre Bouscaren, will be here from Greenwich, Conn., but his wife, the former Chloe Watson, is not coming.

Patricia Anne Manley's Wedding Invitations Out.

Invitations are out to the marriage on July 26 of Miss Patricia Anne Manley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Alfred Manley of Evanston, and Robbert Fuller Norcott, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry F. Norcott, also of Evanston. The ceremony will take place at 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon in St. Matthew's Episcopal church, Evanston, with a reception following at the Manley home.

Miss Manley will have her older sister, Mrs. Charles Cotsworth of St. Louis, as her matron of honor, and her younger sister, Miss Joan, as maid of honor. The bridesmaids are to be Mrs. Robert Brinker, who was Miss Peggy Parker until last Saturday; Mrs. J. Gaillard Frey of Baltimore, Miss Betty Danner, Mrs. Philip Schnering, Mrs. Herbert Harker of Niagara Falls, and Mrs. John Norcott of Columbus.

John Norcott will be his brother's best man, and ushering will be Mr. Harker, Mr. Cotsworth, Mr. Brinker, Harmon Meigs, William Iber, Hampton Tonk, who is with the army, stationed near St. Louis; Robert Nicol of Detroit, and Gerard McKinley.

There will be several parties for Miss Manley and Mr. Norcott during the week before the wedding, among them the bridal dinner to be given by Mr. and Mrs. Manley on the eve of the ceremony at the Westmoreland Country club.

Miss Mary Jane Elder to Be Wed on July 19.

Miss Mary Jane Elder and Walter Hargesheimer have selected July 19 as their wedding date. They'll be married at 8:30 o'clock in the Winnetka Congregational church. Later her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James G. Elder of Winnetka, will give a reception in their home.

The bride's cousin, Mrs. Robert Chaffee of Grosse Pointe, Mich., will be her matron of honor. The bridegroom's sister, Miss Mary Louise Hargesheimer of Rochester, Minn., will share the duties of bridesmaid with Mrs. Ralph Mawbey of Highland Park. Joan Donahue, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Donahue of Winnetka, and Catherine King, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John King of Glasgow, Scotland, will be flower girls.

Mr. Hargesheimer will have his brother, Richard, as best man, and another brother, Frederick, as usher. Also ushering will be Donald Pattison and James Sheldon of Rochester, Le Roy Timm of Ames, Ia.; Oliver Nordly of Cedar Falls, Ia., and James G. Elder Jr. [if he gets leave from Fort Bragg]. After a month's trip to Banff and Lake Louise Mr. Hargesheimer and his bride will reside in Amherst, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred McLauchlan tomorrow will give a dinner party and shower for the bridegroom. Next Monday afternoon is reserved for Mrs. Hawley Everhart's kitchen shower. On July 16 Mrs. Carl Zipprich and Mrs. Karl Palenske will give a miscellaneous shower and tea, and on the following day Mrs. W. H. K. Bennett Sr. will give a luncheon and bride party.

Mrs. M. Lee Alberts Hostess at Breakfast Today.

Mrs. M. Lee Alberts, president of the Chicago Drama league, is giving a breakfast today for the committee in charge of the Children's Civic theater, which opened yesterday on the Navy pier. The work will be carried on during this month at the pier, but no doubt will be transferred to some other place during August for the government has taken the pier for navy activities, starting Aug. 1.

Mrs. William E. Vogelback, chairman of the committee and first vice president of the league, will not be able to devote as much time as usual to the work this season because of the illness of her mother. Among her assistants are Mrs. Townsend McKeever, Mrs. Carl W. Defebaugh, Mrs. George Wendt, Mrs. Hugh Robinson, Miss Eva James, Mrs. Victor Schrager, Mrs. William Haywood, Miss Marie McKee, Miss Laura Eiberg, and Miss Florence Flickinger.

★ THRU THE LOOKING GLASS ★

For our money, there aren't many preparations that can touch an iceberg cologne for an after-exercise rubdown. It's divine stuff, a hot weather delight if ever there was one.

Exercise in itself contributes to your sense of well being, but if you wish to heighten that nice sensation you should follow it up with a cologne rubdown. The kind of cologne is important. You'll want something with a clean, refreshing and cooling fragrance. The iceberg cologne is it.

It's the good old classic cologne with a minty overtone rather than a fragrance that could be described as a perfume. Men will like the faint lemonish-mint scent just as much as women do. It's perfect for them as an after golf refresher.

This is also the kind of cologne the office girl can use. The lack of a definitely romantic fragrance should recommend it to her, and its cooling lift on hot, hectic days is just what she needs when she freshens up. Not even the most crotchety boss could accuse her of overperfuming herself or the office.

So far as quality is concerned, this is an excellent product, but it isn't one of those high priced, fancily packaged affairs. It's a hot weather treat that every one can and will enjoy.

Your Stars ★ Today ★

By WYNN

Tuesday, July 8.

Background influences today are favorable for long distance matters, particularly where old plans and older people are concerned. But take nothing for granted with superiors or with the opposite sex. Evening sees general improvement.

Your Year Ahead.

Your year ahead from anniversary today means necessary adjusting with fellows, reaping results of past contacts; cultivate inferiors and win over any quiet opponents now. Danger: July 21-Aug. 2, Sept. 27-Oct. 16, Nov. 11-Dec. 9, May 7-22.

Tomorrow.

Take advantage of early openings; hold lower emotions in evening.

Cornmeal muffins with fresh blueberries in 'em are my idea of a really palatable hotbread. Morning, noon, or night, they'll be welcomed by any family, for, broken apart and generously buttered, blueberry cornmeal muffins are a treat.

Since leftover muffins are delicious split, buttered, and toasted for breakfast or lunch next day, it's a good idea to make plenty of them.

These muffins are especially good with cold salad meals. Nutritionists recommend something hot as an aid to digestion, even on overly warm days. So why not make it these goodies?

Blueberry Cornmeal Muffins.

[One dozen.]

1⅓ cups sifted flour
2¼ teaspoons baking powder
¾ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons sugar
¾ cup yellow cornmeal
2 eggs, well beaten
1 cup milk
¼ cup melted butter or other shortening
¾ cup fresh blueberries

Sift flour, baking powder, salt, and sugar together several times and mix with cornmeal. Combine eggs, milk, and shortening. Add to dry ingredients and stir enough to dampen dry ingredients. Add berries. Stir enough to distribute them. Be careful not to mash the berries. Fill greased muffin pans two-thirds full, and bake in a hot oven, 425 degrees, for 25 minutes.

This batter may be baked in well greased corn stick pans. Blueberry corn sticks are very good, too. They're crustier than muffins.

Blueberry johnnycake made with sour milk is another edible delight.

Blueberry Johnnycake.

[8 inch square pan.]

1¼ cups sifted flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
¾ teaspoon soda
2 tablespoons sugar
1 cup yellow cornmeal
2 eggs, well beaten
1¼ cups sour milk or buttermilk
3 tablespoons melted butter or margarine
¾ cup fresh blueberries

Sift flour with baking powder, salt, soda, and sugar. Mix in cornmeal. Combine beaten eggs, buttermilk, and butter, and add to dry ingredients. Beat batter until smooth. Fold in blueberries. Bake in well greased pan at 425 degrees for 40 minutes, or until done.

Blueberries may be folded into any plain cake batter before baking. Or they may be used as a sauce for plain cake, cottage pudding style. Sweetened and cooked until juicy [no water], they make a delicious sauce. The flavor is accented and improved by a little lemon juice or grated lemon peel.

It is amazing how many finesses can be avoided thru the twin plans of forcing the defenders to discard and simultaneously getting an accurate "count" on their original holdings. Today's hand strikingly illustrates this point.

| 2 hearts | Pass | 4 no trump | Pass |
| 5 no trump | Pass | 6 hearts | Pass |

West opened the spade queen. Dummy's ace won and a low heart was led to the king. The break being revealed, declarer then led back to the ace and finessed against East's jack. West meanwhile had discarded one club and two spades. Now, when declarer drew East's heart jack, West let go the other spade, while dummy discarded a low diamond.

Having drawn the trumps, too many players, I fear, would lead a low diamond to the king and finesse on the return. This declarer saw that there was no need for haste in that line. In order to embarrass West as much as possible for discards, declarer made the enemy a present of a spade trick. East won with the spade nine, and continued with the king. On these two rounds West's position became highly uncomfortable. He could let go one diamond, but to shorten his club holding further would merely invite declarer to establish a long club in dummy by ruffing. Actually, West chose to discard the diamond eight. Declarer then played three rounds of clubs, ruffing the third.

Now, down to diamonds, declarer could count that West had originally started with four spades, four diamonds, and five clubs. Therefore, when, on the lead of a diamond to the king and a diamond return, the queen did not show up from East, who was marked with an original holding of only two diamonds, it became a sure thing that the queen would drop from West, and the necessity for a finesse faded completely.

Disney Does It Again---Better in Technicolor

"THE RELUCTANT DRAGON."

Produced by Walt Disney.
Released thru RKO-Radio.
Directed by Alfred L. Werker.
With Robert Benchley, Frances Gifford, Nana Bryant, Barnett Parker, Buddy Pepper, Claud Allister, Billy Lee, and others.
Presented at the Palace.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

"The Reluctant Dragon" is Walt Disney at his happiest.

Which adds up to happy audiences. And happy audiences mean—box office! "Box Office" sings alluringly the shekel song—ever heard it? All of which proves, I hope, I hope, that Mr. Disney's made a winner.

This film is unlike anything yet to come from the Disney studios. Thru the activities of real folks the cunning cartoon creations are introduced and, in Disney's inimitable fashion is brought to the screen a yarn about a countryside terrorized by rumors of a DRAGON, Sir Giles who sets forth to slay the horrid creature and stays to tea, and—O well—so many AND'S . . .!

The story is backgrounded by the Disney studio whither Mr. Robert Benchley, hounded thither by his ambitious wife, arrives to try to persuade Mr. Disney to make a picture from a nonsense book his wife has just read aloud to him. . . . A Boy Scout guide takes the visitor in hand—all set to instruct him fully as to the wonders of the studio and to conduct him to the Master. . . . But Mr. Benchley is not one easy to conduct. . . . His efforts to dodge his guide land him in all sorts of places where he learns all sorts of things. . . . He learns the secrets of the multiplane camera, he encounters Donald Duck in process of being photographed and learns what makes him walk and talk. . . . Clarence Nash and Florence Gill, who are the voices for Donald and Clara Cluck, perform for the flabbergasted visitor. . . .

And then there is Baby Weems! Ah, that Baby Weems!

Finally the stern young guide captures his charge and conducts him to a projection room where Walt Disney is just about to view a completed picture — "The Reluctant Dragon," no less. . . .

This clever and highly amusing picture is in glorious technicolor, and I want to tell you that Mr. Benchley takes as kindly to tinting as he does to everything else—which is very, very kindly!

See you tomorrow.

July 8, 1941.

Universal day—Get around and see people today. Make your contacts mostly social.

Special Numbers—The number 16 has proved to be a rather unfortunate number, bringing sudden calamities, and it is a number that is associated with accidents and catastrophies. The symbol is the "Shattered Tower" and shows a tower struck by lightning. It is a number associated with the death of Lincoln, as it was the number of his name. It certainly is not a good number for boats or cars as there is too much danger of sudden accident. Also it would not be a good number to select as the day for a lawsuit or for attempting any large project because it is the number of defeat in the end.

Looking at Hollywood

By John Chapman

Hollywood, Cal., July 7.—The break, in Hollywood, comes in its purest form. Thousands seek it, but it comes to few.

There is a pretty stock girl in town. She isn't a star—it will take another break to make her that—but she does have a regular job that pays her more money than any other she could have taken. She was in "Ziegfeld Girls" and she has had bits in many pictures.

She came here on a visit and her only interest in the movies was that of the ordinary tourist—she wanted to see the inside of a studio. A friend wangled this for her. Between setups an assistant director talked to her, noted her good looks and said, "Maybe while you're here you'd like to be in a movie. I'll give you a note and you can go over to Central Casting and perhaps they'll be able to put you into something for the rest of the day as an extra."

This sounded like fun, so the girl went to Central Casting and walked right into the break. While she was waiting with a bunch of other extras, a group of reporters came in, bent on picking Hollywood's typical extra girl. They picked our heroine. She got a lot of publicity and her picture went over the country. And she never was an extra. Because of the publicity a studio signed her to a stock contract.

Jackie Cooper's "Glamour Boy," which has a studio background, will have many Hollywoodians playing themselves in bits—mostly old-timers such as De Mille and Richard Dix. Newest recruit to the cast is Jackie Searl, who was a screen bad boy 10 years ago. Now he's a riveter in a plane factory. . . . Bob Hope already seems a cinch to move into the ranks of the 10 best boxoffice stars for 1941. I wouldn't be surprised if he copped the No. 1 position. . . . There are some things which must be counterfeited in the movies, others which cannot be counterfeited. In the first category is an FBI badge. You can't show the real thing, so George Brent, a G-man in "International Lady," uses a plain metal disc. In the second category is the congressional medal of honor. The one pinned on Gary Cooper in "Sergeant York" is the real thing, borrowed from Washington. It doesn't belong to anybody—yet; it awaits a new hero.

TODAY'S PUZZLE: GRANDMA GRIMES IS EXPECTING A VISIT FROM HER DAUGHTER WHO HAS A NINETEEN POUND BABY. SHE WEIGHS THE BABY THREE TIMES A DAY—FOUR TIMES ON SUNDAYS . . . WHAT SHOULD GRANDMA DO NEXT?

ANSWER: Reach for the "RED BOOK," Chicago's classified telephone directory, and look under "S" for "SCALES." You can rent or buy them.

COURTNEY SENDS ABORTION CASE TO GRAND JURY

Assistants Have Charges Nol Prossed.

State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney last night ordered a full grand jury investigation of the murder by abortion charge against Mrs. Magdalene Motzny Stegeman, 60 years old, a midwife and wife of Police Lieutenant William Stegeman. The charge grew out of the death of Mrs. Rose Smith, 23 years old, mother of five children.

As the case was ordered before the grand jury, Mrs. Smith's husband, Beve, 1956 Sheffield avenue, asserted that despite a promise made by authorities he was not notified of the appearance yesterday in Felony court of Mrs. Stegeman. Seated in his basement flat, surrounded by his five motherless children—Arlene, 5; Donald, 4; Beverly, 3; Carol, 2, and Leon, 8 months—Smith, a diemaker, said he has "begun to believe there is something funny about the case."

Charge Nol Prossed.

Earlier in the day Mrs. Stegeman had appeared before Judge John T. Zuris in Felony court. There the charge against her was nol prossed after Assistant State's Attorney Samuel Papanek told the court there was not sufficient evidence to try the defendant. He said that he was acting on advice of First Assistant State's Attorney Wilbert Crowley.

Later Papanek conferred with Prosecutor Crowley and then announced that he will assemble all the witnesses in the case and take them before the grand jury. He said that body would decide whether there is enough evidence to warrant a trial.

Crowley said last night that the nol prosse had been taken because there was no need to present the case in Felony court when witnesses were to be taken before the grand jury. He said that while it is not the usual procedure to obtain the nol prosse first, in the present case "we intended to take it before the grand jury and I am going to watch it closely."

Answers a Question.

Asked if usual procedure was to notify the complaining witness in Felony court cases, he said that "the police automatically notify the witnesses." In answer to the same question, Prosecutor Papanek said that "in a case like this where the testimony is to be heard by the grand jury the preliminary court does not have much to do with the case."

Papanek said that it was at first thought that there was "too big a gap in the case to go to trial," but after a conference it was decided to let the grand jury decide the matter.

Mrs. Smith died May 5 in St. Mary's of Nazareth hospital. Her husband said he took her to the hospital from the office of Mrs. Motzny Stegeman at 1041 Nobel street. Smith said that he and his wife visited the midwife on Thursday and that he told Mrs. Motzny [the name the Smiths knew her by] that there must be no abortion.

"My wife must have returned without my knowledge on Friday," he said. "Saturday afternoon there was a call for me. I was told to go to Mrs. Motzny's and get Rose.

"My wife told me that a friend of hers named Bernice had said that Mrs. Motzny was the wife of a police lieutenant, had a lot of influential friends, and that nothing could go wrong."

Smith said that he was determined to see that the case was prosecuted. The death of Mrs. Smith occurred at the time that State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney was investigating a loop abortion ring. Dismissal of two assistant prosecutors—Emmett Moynihan and Morris G. Meyers—followed that investigation. The inquiry was started after Daniel Moriarity, a state's attorney's investigator, confessed taking bribes from Ada Martin, alleged head of the ring.

JUDGE SWEEPS ASIDE GAMBLING WRIT OBJECTIONS

Courtney Sees Aid in Fight on Bookies.

BY JAMES DOHERTY.

Objections by lawyers for various gambling syndicates, racing publications and owners of property used for gambling purposes to the state-wide injunction issued last December by Judge Maurice V. Joyce of Belleville were swept aside in a decision by Judge Joyce yesterday. This means that hundreds of Chicago's bookies, as well as others enjoined by Judge Joyce, face contempt of court proceedings if caught taking race bets.

Judge Joyce acted last Dec. 3 on a petition filed by John E. Cassidy, then attorney general for Illinois, which alleged that a state-wide conspiracy existed to violate the anti-gambling laws. Attorney General Cassidy named the leaders of the old Capone gang, now ruled by Frank [The Enforcer] Nitti, as the controlling influence in the gambling racket that took millions of dollars each year from working men and women of the state.

Sees Aid to Enforcement.

The present attorney general, George F. Barrett, has announced he would carry on the prosecution started by Cassidy.

"Every county in the state now may use Judge Joyce's injunction, or a similar one, in proceeding against handbooks," was the word that came from Belleville yesterday.

"That means we will have additional assistance in law enforcement," said State's Attorney Courtney, whose campaign against syndicated gambling has resulted in Chicago being almost a closed town at present.

Scores of legal objections were filed before Judge Joyce at Belleville, the principal point raised being that Judge Joyce did not have jurisdiction outside his circuit.

"There is no merit in any of the objections raised," Judge Joyce ruled yesterday. The 2,500 defendants, or at least those who have been served with notice of the injunction, were ordered by the court to file answers by Aug. 7.

Calls Procedure Lawful.

On the plea that Cook county gamblers could not legally be taken to Belleville, in St. Clair county, for trial on contempt charges, Judge Joyce ruled that such procedure is lawful and possible.

"This is a civil, not a criminal, action," Judge Joyce said in his opinion. "More than 30 of the defendants reside in and were served with process in this [St. Clair] county, and section 10 of the civil practice act provides: 'When a civil action is commenced in any county, summons may be served upon the defendants wherever they may be found in the state by any person authorized to serve writs.'"

Lawyers representing some of the defendants gave notice of an appeal from Judge Joyce's findings.

500 Take Part

Five hundred boys took it upon themselves to help keep the city clean yesterday. Armed with signs and waste baskets, the boys, the majority of whom are members of the Chicago Boys Clubs, Inc., took their places at prominent boulevard and street crossings thruout the city to remind passersby of the importance of avoiding careless littering.

Thus this young army launched Anti-Litter week, which will climax the annual Anti-Litter campaign begun this spring under the sponsorship of the park district in coöperation with the Citizens' committee.

Thruout the week the boys will remain at their posts during business hours to make certain that every bit of paper or other litter that falls on the sidewalks at their locations is promptly picked up and placed in the waste containers where it belongs.

SUSPENDED HEAD OF CLERKS' UNION IGNORES SUBPENA

Max Caldwell, alias Max Pollack, suspended head of the Retail Clerks' International Protective association, local 1248, refused to honor a subpena ordering him to appear yesterday in the office of Attorney Francis Heisler for the purpose of taking depositions. He is being sued for an accounting of more than $900,000 collected by the union in the last three years.

Harold Marovitz, attorney for Caldwell, notified Attorney Heisler that his client would not appear because he had not been served properly. Attorney Heisler, representing an insurgent group in the union who filed the suit, said he will ask that Caldwell be cited for contempt.

Master in Chancery Daniel A. Covelli will resume hearing evidence in the accounting suit today in the courtroom of Judge Philip J. Finnegan of the Circuit court. Harry O'Reilly, regional director for the AFL who is supervising the affairs of the clerks' union, announced that the union headquarters has been moved from 400 South State street to 130 North Wells street.

U. S. NAMES TWO IN INDICTMENT ON SEC CHARGE

W. McNeil Kennedy, regional director of the Securities and Exchange commission, yesterday announced the return of a federal indictment in the Peoria district court naming M. James Riedel and Roy Lewis Tweddale, both of Belvidere, Boone county, on charges of violating SEC regulations.

The defendants are officials of the Corn Belt Distilling company and the Corn Belt Distillery Trust Estate, Kennedy said. The indictment charges them with the illegal transfer of stock certificates in the trust growing out of the purchase of a distillery in Belvidere and seeking to interest prospective investors with the claim of being able to manufacture whisky of four year old standard in 72 hours.

COMPLETE NEW REGIME PLANNED FOR ST. CHARLES

Brandon Sets Six Week Limit for Reorganization.

Rodney H. Brandon, state director of public welfare, announced last night that within the next six weeks he will completely reorganize the St. Charles school. Mr. Brandon will act on recommendations made yesterday by a special committee which has been investigating the school.

The St. Charles school has about 600 boys who are sent there by the Juvenile court for delinquency or dependency. Delinquent youths may have committed any crime except murder.

While Brandon was making his announcement, it was reported that the Cook county grand jury voted true bills, charging Bernard [Knifey] Sawicki, 19 years old, with three murders. Sawicki, a parolee from the St. Charles school, has confessed the three killings in Chicago and also the slaying of a fourth victim, a farmer near Momence, Kankakee county.

Three Shot During Holdups.

Three of his victims were shot during holdups and the fourth, a companion, was shot when he refused to assist in a robbery. Sawicki was sent to St. Charles in 1938 for burglary and was paroled in 1940.

The committee, which has been investigating the school, is headed by Harrison Dobbs, professor of applied sociology at the University of Chicago, and was appointed by Brandon last February after an inmate had been fatally beaten by a guard.

Here are the recommendations made by the Dobbs committee which Brandon said would be put into effect:

1. Choose all employés of the school, with the exception of the managing officer, by civil service examinations from specifications as to education and ability prepared by the committee. The school has 225 employés.
2. Find a new managing officer who would be competent to coördinate the activities of the employé personnel. William T. Harmon is the present managing officer.
3. Establish a psychiatric department, with a staff composed of two psychiatrists, one psychologist, one sociologist, and one physician.
4. Add counselors to the school's staff, who would direct the training of the boys and assist the psychiatric division. They will be college graduates with training in sociology.

It was recommended that four be hired as soon as possible.

Shift of Incorrigibles.

Prof. Dobbs, who is a member of the state board of public welfare commissioners, said the committee also recommended that 50 or 60 of the most incorrigible boys in the school be segregated and sent to the state's new institution at Sheridan in La Salle county as soon as that place is completed.

Brandon said he would request the state civil service commission to call examinations for the various classifications of employment, including the psychiatric staff and counselors. Brandon also announced that the department would not permit any parolees from the St. Charles school to be paroled to rooming house operators. It was disclosed with the arrest of Sawicki last week that two of his companions had been living in a west side rooming house.

Members of Committee.

The committee expressed the belief that Sawicki or other inmates of his type would not have been recommended for parole had the school been operated properly.

Members of the committee who served with Prof. Dobbs are the Rev. Elmer Barton, dean of Loyola school for social work; Francis Scully of the Juvenile court; Edward Stullken, principal of the Montefiore school, and Mrs. T. H. Ludlow of the League of Women Voters.

ST. CHARLES INMATES ORDERED TO PRISON FOR ATTACK ON GUARD

Two Chicagoans, inmates of St. Charles School for Boys, were sentenced to from 1 to 14 years in the penitentiary yesterday by Judge Charles D. Page in the Kane county Circuit court at Geneva when they pleaded guilty of slugging a school guard in an attempt to escape May 28. The court fixed the minimum term they must serve at three years, and the maximum at seven.

The defendants, Raymond Raducke, 18 years old, of 2028 19th street, and Alfred McCann, 16, of 1246 Race street, with a third inmate, Joseph Bracewell, 17, of Kankakee, were helping Lyle Elliott, 52, a mechanic and welder, to repair a water tank at Wilson farm cottage at St. Charles the day of the planned escape.

McCann struck Elliott on the head with a hammer, and Raducke hit him with a length of pipe. Elliott, however, resisted their attempts to get his car keys, and they were seized. Bracewell was not brought to trial. McCann and Raducke were charged with assault with intent to murder.

Butter and Egg Building Burns; Damage Is $20,000

Fire yesterday attacked the five story building of Dittmann & Co., 125 North Union avenue, butter, eggs, and cheese merchants, and wrecked the top two floors, which were used for storage. First Deputy Fire Marshal Anthony J. Mullaney estimated the damage at $20,000.

MAJOR LEAGUE STARS MEET TODAY IN DETROIT

HARRISON, BASSLER LEAD IN PGA QUALIFYING TRIALS

SHOOT 68S FOR FIRST ROUND; SNEAD GETS 69

Hogan Slips to 71 After 33 Start.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Denver, Colo., July 7.—Ernie [Dutch] Harrison of Chicago and Harry Bassler of Los Altos, Cal., who are not exactly freshmen in this league, today took over the first round lead in the qualifying round of the National Professional golf tournament at the Cherry Hills club.

Harrison and Bassler had 68s, three under par, while Sam Snead of Hot Springs, Va., came thru with a 69 that included a trio of three putt greens. Harrison, who holds the Illinois PGA title and who was making his third appearance in the annual reunion of the pros, had a pair of 34s which he climaxed with the best finish of the day, a pair of birdies and a par on Cherry Hills' three difficult final holes. Bassler welded his 68 from a smashing first nine of 31, four under par.

Goes to Semi-Finals in 1939.

The likeable Harrison, in his national PGA debut in 1939, tied for the medal and went to the semi-finals. Bassler, a brother of baseball's famed catcher, Johnny, made his best showing in the 1938 tourney, where he qualified easily and then went to the third round before encountering a red hot Byron Nelson. Nelson was exempt from qualifying because of his possession of the title he won in Hershey, Pa., last year. He went out for the exercise and practice, however, and will do likewise in tomorrow's final 18 holes of medal play. The low 63 scorers for the 36 hole qualifying round will join Nelson in the match play struggle, opening Wednesday with two 18 hole bouts, and continuing at 36 holes thru Sunday's championship match.

Snead hardly needs an introduction. The young man from the Virginia hills was runner-up for the PGA in 1938 and last year carried Nelson to the 36th green before yielding by a 1 up margin. Snead, who has been troubled with a back injury for months, said it gave him no trouble today, and Lloyd Mangrum, one of his playing partners of the day, said he never has seen Snead hit the ball so well.

Back of Harrison, Bassler, and Snead came two gents who might be called dark horses, except that they, too, have been around this toughest of fairway competitions for a few years. They are two Pennsylvanians, George Fazio of Philadelphia and William [Red] Francis of Hollidaysburg. Each had a brace of 35s for their 70s.

Hogan Starts with 33.

Ben Hogan, the Texan who has been larruping the Cherry Hills leas for all of a week, was off to a rapid 33 on the front nine, but slowed down to a 38 coming home for his 71. The 140 pounder from Hershey, Pa., was satisfied with his performance and averred he'll get back to slapping par tomorrow. His 71 was matched by Henry Ransom, hero of that startling nine of 31 in last month's National Open in his home town of Fort Worth. Ransom's card included a seven on the par 5 fifth. Another who might have done well except for the finishing holes was George Schneiter of Ogden, Utah, who was bound for a 69 until he finished 8-6 for a 74.

Seventy-three of the 99 starters in the field scored better than 80 today. Most crowded bracket of the day was the 72 sector. This included two former champions, Denny Shute of Chicago and Gene Sarazen of Brookfield Center, Conn.; Dick Metz of Oak Park, Ill., last year's 140 shooting medalist; Ralph Guldahl of Chicago, who won the 1938 National Open on this course; Jimmy Demaret of Noroton, Conn., and Horton Smith of

In the Wake of the News

BY ARCH WARD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DETROIT, Mich., July 7.—Baseball's midsummer madness, the annual All-Star game, conceived as a spectacle—a parade of the greats—is growing up. . . . It will be presented for the ninth time at Briggs stadium tomorrow afternoon before a crowd which is expected to exceed 57,000. . . . All reserved seats were sold weeks ago. . . . While the enterprise has deviated from its original pattern, when it was the peepul's game, it still commands a nation's interest, for a day, at least. . . . As most of you know, the All-Star contest was originated in 1933 as a sports feature of Chicago's Century of Progress Exposition, the one immortalized by Sally Rand, the Sky Ride, and amebic dysentery. . . . This department didn't know when it sold the idea to the club presidents and the chief executives of the two major leagues that it would become a yearly fixture on the baseball calendar. . . . Since the game was introduced at Comiskey park eight years ago yesterday it has been presented in New York twice, Cleveland, Boston, Washington, Cincinnati, and St. Louis. . . . As far as any one can see, it will continue to have a place on the major league program as long as baseball endures. . . . The fans want it. . . . The owners recognize that it is a shot in the arm at a time when the pennant races frequently have become dull. . . . The players want it, too, because they accept appointment to the squad as the highest honor that can come to them. . . . Now and again you read of a player complaining that he would rather have a day of rest than to participate in a contest for which he draws no pay. . . . He is the exception, fortunately. . . . Athletes who begrudge a day's work for charity invariably are the ones who regard their occupations as sheer labor. . . . The rank and file of major league players are happy to have a hand in raising money for food, shelter, doctor bills, and all kindred embarrassments that beset washed-up old timers, who until this year have received all profits of the game. . . . The 1941 net proceeds will be donated to the United Service Organization. . . .

Babe Ruth.

Carl Hubbell.

We frequently are asked what is the greatest thrill we have received from the entire All-Star series. . . . Was it Babe Ruth's homer which won the original game for the American league? . . . Was it Carl Hubbell's brilliance in striking out five of the American league's greatest hitters in a row at the Polo Grounds in 1934? . . . Was it the record breaking attendance of 69,812 at Cleveland's Municipal stadium in 1935? . . . Was it the arrival of President Roosevelt and the attending ceremonies of the 1937 game in Washington? . . .

No, it was none of these. . . . Our greatest thrill was the cloudless day that greeted the first game of the series, July 6, 1933. . . . No provision had been made for a postponement. . . . The author, without consulting his superiors, pledged THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE to underwrite all expenses of the original contest. . . . It might have cost our paper $25,000 if the game had been washed away. . . . But this is as good a place as any to make known that never has any one in THE TRIBUNE organization ever suggested that our deal with President William Harridge of the American league and President John Heydler of the National league was a dangerous venture. . . . Maybe that's why the All-Star game was born.

Yep, You're Right.

After making the necessary mathematical checkup I am willing to accept the eastern baseball fan's statement that it would be possible to arrange 362,880 different batting orders from a lineup of nine players. Well, the football season is not so far away, so I thought it would be interesting to figure how many possible lineups could be arranged from a group of 11 players. By using each man in every possible position on the team, there could be 39,916,800 different lineups. I will accept this figure to be correct until it is proved that my calculations are erroneous.

GARRISON DOES LIGHT WORK FOR STADIUM BOUT

Battles Booker Beckwith Tomorrow Night.

Nash Garrison, San José, Cal., heavyweight, did light work yesterday in his semi-final drill in Trafton's gymnasium for a 10 round bout against Booker Beckwith in the Chicago Stadium outdoor arena tomorrow.

After the workout Garrison showed no signs of worry despite the fact he is meeting a lad who is undefeated since turning professional after winning a Golden Gloves international and intercity championship in 1938.

"Nash has fought better boys than Beckwith," Babe Griffin, his manager, said. "He beat Tony Musto in San José last month, and surely Musto is a more accomplished fighter than Beckwith."

There's Difference of Opinion.

Fans who saw Beckwith knock out Altus Allen in two rounds a few weeks ago in the Stadium think differently, however.

Garrison has a reputation for being able to change the complexion of a contest with one accurately placed left or right. He also is aggressive, and takes two punches to land one.

His manager said Garrison takes too many. In the belief his remark would be misinterpreted, he quickly added: "I mean takes too many chances."

Rallies After Knockdowns.

Griffin also recalled that Garrison has rallied to make a good showing after being knocked off his feet. He remembered that Nash came back to win after being floored by Frankie Simms a few years ago. He also recalled the time the 28 year old Californian returned to his feet after being floored by Domingo Valin to fight his way to a draw decision.

Beckwith ended boxing drills in the Stadium's new arena yesterday. The workout featured a preview of the place.

A. L. Removes Ban on Trades by Flag Winner

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., July 7.—American league owners in their summer meeting this afternoon, repealed the revolutionary rule adopted a year and a half ago which prohibited the league champion from making league player trades during the year subsequent to the winning of the championship.

The rule will remain effective for the Detroit Tigers until the close of this season, then will become a dead letter.

At the time the legislation was adopted at the winter meeting in December, 1939, it was hailed as a device to slow down the New York Yankees, who had won four consecutive world championships. The rule permitted trades only thru waivers.

A proposal that Hank Greenberg, star outfielder with the Tigers last year, be presented with his most valuable player award before tomorrow's All-Star game was rejected by Commissioner K. M. Landis.

That Simon-O'Gatty Bout Off Again; Rain This Time

New York, July 7 (AP).—The Abe Simon-Joe O'Gatty fight was postponed again tonight, but they're going to keep on trying. Rained out last Monday, the bout between the oversize New Yorker and the Newark, N. J., heavyweight was set back a day and then put off until tonight when some one forgot to procure a pair of boxing gloves big enough for Abe. When it rained again today, the bout was postponed until July 21.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., July 7.—Statistics and known skill combined this afternoon in the selection of the starting pitchers in the ninth annual all-star major league baseball game to be played before a crowd of at least 55,000 in Briggs stadium tomorrow. It will be Whit Wyatt of the Brooklyn Dodgers for the Nationals, and Bob Feller of the Cleveland Indians for the Americans.

The two game managers, Bill McKechnie of the Reds and Del Baker of the Tigers, in charge by virtue of being the rival pilots in the 1940 world series, were busy hemming and hawing about their starting lineups this afternoon. But neither stuttered in the least in the matter of naming the leadoff pitchers for tomorrow.

Wyatt Is on Edge.

Pitchers with the best statistics have not always received the starting call in the past. Wyatt and Feller, however, are the most victorious hurlers in their respective circuits. Wyatt has won 13 and lost 4; Feller has won 16 and lost 4. While Feller has the most impressive numbers for his record, he has not been as effective as has Wyatt in the last ten days or so. As late as Saturday Wyatt socked a home run to clinch his thirteenth victory, 2 to 1.

When Manager Baker of the Americans gets around to deciding on his actual lineup it is certain to include some of the game's most ruthless sluggers, including the rampant Joe DiMaggio, Ted Williams, who has been above .400 all season; Jeff Heath, who is runner-up to Williams as the league batting leader, and other gents distinguished for power. McKechnie can't compete in the mathematics league so far as batting averages are concerned, but will count on pitching and other defensive artistry, and just enough punch at the right time.

McKechnie Won in 1940.

McKechnie, you know, managed the Nationals in last summer's all-star game in St. Louis and was supposed to be terrified by American power before that one. The Nationals won, 4 to 0, three of their runs resulting from a first inning homer by Max West of Boston, who didn't even make this year's squad.

For the first time since the first all-star game was originated and sponsored by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE in 1933, there is some anxiety about the weather for tomorrow's big show. There were several heavy showers this afternoon, but the sun broke out immediately after the precipitation stopped. The weather man, too, promised to do better tomorrow, predicting fair skies. If the game should be rained out tomorrow it will be played Wednesday, starting at 10 a. m.

Lee to Follow Feller.

If the weather is as good tomorrow as expected by those willing to throw out today's showers, the attendance may touch 60,000. Detroit is a sports minded city in the heart of a sports loving territory. As residents of a one-league city some of the fans are down a bit because their Tigers have been hanging around in the second division. But they will be out in force tomorrow to holler for the American leaguers and take a look at the National leaguers, several of whom never have played here.

With all his uncertainty in matters other than pitching, Manager Baker said he was pretty sure about the Americans' second pitcher. He said late this afternoon he had just about decided on Chicago's own Thornton Lee, most victorious lefty in the majors. He has won 10 and lost 5.

Elson and Barber Will Air All-Star Game Over W-G-N

A play by play description of the ninth annual All-Star baseball game will be broadcast at 1:15 p. m., Chicago daylight time today by W-G-N and the coast to coast Mutual network from Briggs' stadium, Detroit. Bob Elson and Red Barber, veteran sports announcing team, will alternate at the microphone.

DOGPATCH SHOWS HE IS READY FOR BEST OF COMPANY

Wins Arlington's Norwood Purse in First Start.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

The Milky Way Farm stable brought out a strong, long striding colt named Dogpatch yesterday for the first start of his career. Mrs. Ethel V. Mars paid $12,000 for him at the Saratoga sales last August. Trainer Roy Waldron, who had put the youngster thru some mighty nice workouts, was waiting to see what he'd do in yesterday's five and a half furlong Norwood purse at Arlington Park before deciding whether or not he'd send him into next Saturday's rich futurity.

After the race was over, there was no doubt about it. Running against horses which already had proved their speed, Dogpatch performed like a veteran instead of a novice, leading the way home a length and a half in front of Butch Covington's Kirwin, while At Liberty was taking third money.

Held at 9-2 Odds.

Despite the fact that he was making his first start, Dogpatch's prestige had preceded him to such an extent that he was held to 9 to 2 odds. He is a full brother of Bull Lea, the Calumet farm's former handicap star. The bettors established Ahamo as the 7 to 2 favorite in a wide open race.

Memphis and Kirwin went out from the gate with a rush and engaged in a prolonged duel down the back stretch and around the turn, with At Liberty running in third position and Dogpatch striding along easily in fourth.

As they came into the stretch, Kirwin and Memphis were still running side by side but the latter soon began to tire and dropped back steadily thereafter. Meanwhile Jockey Bobby Vedder had straightened Dogpatch out and was letting him come on fast on the outside. Under only light urging, Dogpatch caught his rivals and was drawing away swiftly as he went over the line. Dogpatch's time for the five and a half furlongs was 1:06.

Swain, Valdina Groom Claimed.

Just after Dogpatch had showed so much promise as a candidate for juvenile honors, Cleaveland Putnam's Swain, winner of last season's Arlington futurity, came out on the track to run for the first time in a claiming race after repeated failures ranging from low class allowance events to the Kentucky Derby. In this mile dash he failed again, finishing in seventh place, and after it was over Euall Wyatt put a halter on him and took him away. This young westerner, who knows a bargain when he sees one, had decided that he could do something with this 3 year old son of Ladysman so he claimed him for $4,000.

Another contestant in this race, Valdina Groom, was being demoted to the claiming class for the first time. He also was snapped up, Bennie Creech taking him away for $4,000.

It's Mucho Gusto Again.

Valdina Groom seemed on the verge of scoring one of his rare victories on this occasion. After getting a lucky break in squeezing thru on the rail at the head of the stretch, he engaged Mucho Gusto in a long struggle thru the stretch, but at the finish it was Mucho Gusto by a nose. Creech's Bo Fiddle was third.

It was the 57th victory for this 9 year old campaigner in the course of 189 attempts. As usual he was popular in the betting, returning $6.60, $4.00 and $2.60.

FAY WILL HEAD BOARD OF RELIEF FOR HORSEMEN

Clement Nance, secretary of the Illinois racing board, yesterday announced the appointment of a new board of relief for horsemen at a meeting of the turf officials in headquarters at 506 South Wabash avenue. The board of relief is headed by William Fay, chairman, and includes Jimmy Jones, son of Trainer Ben Jones; Monte Weil, Illinois horseman; George Foster, former secretary of the Illinois racing commission, and Mr. Nance.

All jockeys, trainers, and apprentices employed on Illinois tracks pay a $5 fee yearly, $3 of which goes to the state and $2 to the board of relief. All fines levied also go to the fund for needy horsemen.

UNCLE JOCK WINS.

Detroit, Mich., July 7 (AP).—Uncle Jock, racing for A. L. Ferguson, defeated six other 2 year olds in the Equipoise purse before 6,104 at Fairgrounds Park today.

Colan Knocks Out Trotter in Ninth Round

Johnny Colan, hard hitting New York middleweight, scored his 26th straight pro victory by knocking out Johnny Trotter of Chicago in the ninth round of a scheduled 10 round main event last night in the Marigold outdoor arena. The knockout, which came after 1 minute 12 seconds of the ninth, was witnessed by a crowd of 2,054. Receipts were $2,386.

It was Colan's 35th triumph in 38 contests since turning professional two years ago after competing in the New York Golden Gloves tournament.

Trotter Rallies in Vain.

A hard right hook to the jaw in the closing seconds of the eighth round softened Trotter after he had made a stirring rally to even up an early lead on points assumed by Colan. Trotter came out for the ninth still shaken from the blow, and when Colan shot home a jolting left and right he careened into the ropes and fell to the floor, getting up at a count of nine. A series of punches sent him down for the count. Trotter weighed 170 and Colan 162.

Leonard Bennett, Detroit, Mich., welterweight, scored a first round knockout over Chuck Vickers of Indianapolis, Ind., in the scheduled six round semi-final.

Oma Knocks Out Campbell.

In the preliminaries, Lee Oma, Detroit, Mich., heavyweight, knocked out Lou Campbell of Chicago in the second round; Johnny Rozina, Milwaukee, Wis., 150 pounder, defeated Mike Sopko, Indiana Harbor, Ind., in four rounds, and Frank Pintero, Milwaukee, Wis., junior welter, knocked out Ray Carmes, Indianapolis, Ind., in the second round.

Solly Stark, Minneapolis middleweight, yesterday was substituted for Andre Jessurun in a 10 round encounter against Milt Aron in Marigold outdoor arena next Monday. Jessurun was removed from the card by Matchmaker Jack Begun when he learned Andre had a bout with Bobby Britton in Albany, N. Y., tomorrow. . . . Joe Louis, heavyweight champion, yesterday delayed conferring with Mrs. Louis' attorneys about a divorce she filed recently because business kept him in Detroit.

DEADLINE NEARS FOR ENTRIES IN TRIBUNE SWIM

Four Preliminaries Set for Next Week.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

One hundred and four gold medals have been awarded the swimming champions of Chicagoland since the 100 yard free style races were founded in 1930 by The Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc. Ten more of these awards, the highest prize in this type of competition, will be presented the 1941 champions at the finals in California park July 27.

To qualify for the finals, however, all boys and girls must submit their entries this week for one of the four preliminaries. Entries will not be accepted after midnight Sunday. Team entries may be made by coach, instructor, or manager and submitted in groups if the home addresses, as well as ages, of contestants are given.

All Amateurs Eligible.

The four sectional meets will be held a week from Saturday and Sunday. On July 19 qualifying races will be held in Cermak pool, 7600 Ogden avenue, Lyons, Ill., and at Sherman park, 52d street and Racine avenue. On July 20 trials will be held in Whealan pool, Milwaukee and Devon avenues, and at California park, 3901 North California avenue.

Any amateur swimmer is eligible to enter any one of the four qualifying sectionals. Those 16 years of age and over will be registered by the Central association of the AAU, under whose sanction the meets are held, but the fee will be paid by the Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.

Compete in 10 Divisions.

In 1930 there were only four age classes, two for boys and two for girls, but the number of contestants indicated that more age classes were needed. In 1931 the present system was inaugurated which provided for five divisions for boys and as many more for girls.

Last year the Chicagoland champions were:

Class A, Riley Rogers and Shirley Schweger.
Class B, Joe Durkin and Lois Wenzel.
Class C, Arthur Boblish and Jane Cloyd.
Class D, Robert Amundson and Betty Harrison.
Class E, Otto Jaretz Jr., and Irene Burke.

Under the rules of competition Jaretz and Miss Burke are ineligible to defend their titles.

Silver Medals for Second.

Swimmers finishing second in the championships July 27 will receive silver medals. Those finishing third receive bronze medals. More important is the list of prizes for the sectional meets July 19 and 20. Each contestant winning a preliminary race receives a gold qualifying medal. Approximately 120 of these will be awarded. Finally, all swimmers reporting for their 100 yard tests will be given bronze souvenir badges emblematic of their ability.

Eight Futurity Candidates in Race Today

Candidates for Saturday's Futurity will tune up today in the 5½ furlong Brookfield purse at Arlington Park. Eight of the ten entries are eligible for the rich stake, which will gross about $50,000. These are Calumet farm's pair of stake winners, Sun Again and Some Chance; Motor City stable's America Fore; Barrington Stable's Bison; Milky Way Farm's Son Forever; Millsdale Stable's Gray Dream; Cleveland Putnam's Man's Man and the Valdina Farm's Valdina Alpha. Zig Zag and K Dorko are the two noneligibles for the Futurity.

Thomas Piatt's Bold Chance turned in the best work of a dozen Arlington Futurity candidates out for preps on the main track Sunday and yesterday morning. The Chance Sun colt breezed five furlongs in 1:01 3-5.

Son Forever went nicely in a six furlong work, breezing the Futurity distance in 1:14 4-5.

HOUSEWIFE WINS MEDAL IN COOK COUNTY TOURNEY

Mrs. Kuehnle Shoots 82 in Jackson Park.

Mrs. Joseph Kuehnle, a housewife from Flossmoor, Ill., who last year entered a playoff for a place in the championship flight, only to lose out in the first round, earned the most coveted place in the championship bracket yesterday by winning the medal in the qualifying round of the 27th annual Cook County Women's golf tournament in Jackson park.

Registering from Linconshire Country club, Mrs. Kuehnle led a field of more than 100, which included representation from San Francisco, Minneapolis, and from leading Chicago district private clubs, with a round of 38—44—82. This card dislodged Miss Elaine Sorensen of Twin Orchard, who earlier posted a 42—41—83 from medal competition. Miss Dorothy Voorhees of Mid-City, daughter of Professional Lloyd Voorhees, was third among qualifiers with 43—41—84.

She Has a Busy Day.

Mrs. Kuehnle made yesterday's trial under somewhat straining circumstances. She had played a successful 18 hole match earlier in the day as a member of Linconshire's women's team against Woodmar Country club. Altho slowed up by five bogies on the front nine, Mrs. Kuehnle was out in 38, two over par. A canvass of the traps and two penalty strokes accounted for five more extra blows on the back nine and an eight over par 44.

Among the qualifiers for the 16 places in the title division was Miss Florence McCoy of Lincolnshire and last year's medalist. In yesterday's test run, Miss McCoy encountered difficulty on her approach shots to the green and settled for a 42—44—86 which forced her into a two way tie for fourth place with Mrs. Harper Leahey, another Lincolnshire entrant.

Mrs. Sick Defends Title.

Mrs. Bernie Sick of Crystal Lawn, who won last year's tournament from Miss Evelyn Moore of Navajo Fields, was exempt from qualifying and will meet Mrs. Beulah Hurst of Longwood in the first round of match play, which will continue thru Friday. Miss Moore, who won the 1939 title, qualified handily with a round of 44—45—89, which was one stroke more than the card of Kay Hand of Illinois Country club, who had a 42—46—88.

Pairings for today's championship flight:

UPPER BRACKET.

9:00 — Bernice Sick, Joliet [exempt] vs. Beulah Wright, Longwood [90].
9:10—Florence McCoy, Lincolnshire [86] vs. Mildred Wright, Jackson [93].
9:20 — Elaine Sorensen, Twin Orchards [83] vs. Jean de Vries, South shore [92].
9:30—Kay Hand, Illinois [88] vs. Rhea Garmon, Jackson Park [94].

Lower half.

9:05—Lois Kuehnle, Lincolnshire [82 vs. Mrs. Harper Leahy, Lincolnshire [90].
9:15—Evelyn Hime, Lincoln Park [87] vs. Florence Strunk, Jackson Park [94].
9:25—Dorothy Voorhees, Mid-City [83] vs. Belle Meany, Green Diamond [93].
9:35—Evelyn Moore, Navajo Fields [89] vs. Corinne Woodard, Minneapolis [94].

HOLD CYO TRACK MEET ON SUNDAY IN OGDEN PARK

More than 75 Catholic trackmen, representing parishes thruout the city, will compete in the 10th annual Catholic Youth Organization track meet in Ogden park, 65th street and Racine avenue, at 1 p. m. Sunday.

An innovation this year will be the open events featuring boys of all faiths competing in the 100 yard dash, the 440 and the mile run. Besides the open events there will be the Catholic Grade school and junior and senior events.

Team trophies will be awarded to each grade school and junior and senior teams scoring the most points, with individual medals to the winners of first, second, and third places in all events.

Entries for the meet close Friday, July 11.

HENRICH, YANKEE PLAYER, WEDS FORMER NURSE

New York, July 7 (AP).—Tommy Henrich, New York Yankee outfielder, and Eileen O'Reilly of New York were married today at the Paulist Fathers' church, climaxing a romance that started last year in St. Elizabeth's hospital, where Henrich was recuperating from an injured knee, and the bride was his nurse.

The nuptial mass was celebrated by the Rev. Father John Tarrant. The couple was attended by Ed Henrich of Mansfield, brother of Tommy, and Margaret O'Reilly, sister of the bride.

BEARS SIGN TWO GUARDS, LAHAR AND HOPTOWIT

Two guards, Harold Lahar, and Al Hoptowit, were added to the growing training roster of the Chicago Bears, Owner-Coach George Halas announced yesterday.

Lahar, 6 feet tall and weighing 220 pounds, is 21 years old and is from the University of Oklahoma. He is highly recommended by Tom Stidham, his coach last year but now at Marquette.

Gene Ronzani, former Bear who is coach of the Newark club, the Bears' farm, was lavish in his praise of Hoptowit, who was with Newark the latter part of last season. Hoptowit played with the Philadelphia Eagles two years ago. He weighs 212 pounds and is a graduate of Washington State.

ROCKNE JR. WEDS MICHIGAN GIRL IN SOUTH BEND

Benton Harbor, Mich., July 7 (AP).—Miss Margaret Siewert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Siewert of Stevensville, Mich., and Knute Rockne Jr., son of the late Notre Dame coach, were married Saturday in the rectory of St. Joseph's Catholic church in South Bend, Ind., according to an announcement today by the groom's mother, Mrs. Bonnie S. Rockne.

The Rocknes have a summer estate on Lake Michigan near Stevensville. The couple will live in South Bend.

BBYO SOFTBALL TOURNAMENT AGE LIMITS REVISED

Revised age divisions were announced yesterday by Chairman Isadore Baskin for the sixth annual B'nai B'rith Youth organization city-wide softball tournament, starting July 20.

The girls' division will have no age limitations. In the boys' groups, the midget division will include those of 9, 10, and 11 with four allowed to be 12 years of age provided all are in the elementary schools.

Eye Hurt by Scaffold; Derringer Sues for $65,000

Tampa, Fla., July 7 (AP).—Paul Derringer, ace pitcher for the Cincinnati Reds, alleged in a damage suit today that his playing efficiency had been "greatly reduced" as a result of an eye injury suffered when he struck his head against a scaffolding in a Tampa electrical supply store here last November. Derringer is suing the firm for $65,000.

Big Increases in Game Birds Are Reported

BY BOB BECKER.

A big increase in the wild duck crop in the Canadian marshes. One of the largest crops of pheasants ever known in South Dakota [according to a report from Barney Weir of Huron]. More partridges [ruffed grouse] in Wisconsin than last year. The peak year for Hungarian partridges on the Canadian prairies. These are the cheerful reports that come to us from the game fields and hold every promise for a wonderful shooting season this fall. Combining all the good news for hunters it looks as if this were the year of years for the shotgun enthusiasts who can hardly wait until autumn and the huting season to move into the outdoor program.

Plenty of Breeding Water.

For years both snow and rainfall in the Canadian provinces have been far from normal. The lack of water always has kept the ducks from raising a bumper crop of ducklings. This season it's a different story. Instead of myriads of duck nesting marshes going dry on the prairies, with tremendous losses of tiny ducklings, a mid-June report issued by the Searle Grain Co., Ltd., shows precipitation in Manitoba 127 per cent of normal. In Saskatchewan the rains have been 86 per cent of normal, as compared with only 68 per cent last year. Alberta moisture conditions are 80 per cent of normal—only 9 per cent less than 1940.

Despite the slightly less water in Alberta, Tom Main, general manager of Ducks Unlimited [Canada], reports from Edmonton, Alta., that fully three-quarters of the duck breeding marshes and sloughs in that province have sufficient water to carry the 1941 duck crop thru to maturity. In some parts of South Manitoba rains were so severe in the last few weeks that country roads were almost impassable.

Loosening of Restrictions Seen.

The improved prospects for this year's crop of wild ducks, which already is being estimated as the biggest in 10 years, are further bolstering a feeling among sportsmen about the country that there should be some loosening up on duck hunting restrictions for next fall. In Texas, according to the Houston press, duck hunters seek to increase the present daily bag limit of 10 ducks. Many of the Texas-Colorado dust bowl sections have been inundated this year by serious floods.

Petitions are reported in circulation in Iowa, Michigan, and other states asking Secretary Harold Ickes to modify federal hunting regulations and opposing reports that bag limit cuts are being considered.

Jeanne Cline Wins Western Junior Medal

Four Illinois girls, one of them 17 year old Jeanne Cline of Bloomington, who led the field of 48 qualifiers with an 81, will start match play today in the championship flight of the 22d Woman's Western Junior open golf tournament at St. Charles Country club. Miss Cline's first round opponent will be Helen Olson, 14, of Ridgemoor Country club, who qualified with an 89.

The two other Illinois entrants qualifying for top flight play are Marjorie Lindsay, 16, of Decatur, who shot an 85, and Gerry O'Neill, 17, of Barrington, who qualified with a 90. Marjorie plays Barbara Bathke of St. Paul, and Gerry meets Betty Haemerle of St. Louis, whose 82, was second low in the qualifying and stamps her a standout threat to Miss Cline, the favorite.

Other first round matches involve two more standouts, Phyllis Otto of Omaha, Neb., who two years ago won the Trans-Mississippi championship when she was only 14, and Jane Whitmore of Little Rock, Ark., a three handicap player who slipped to an 87 yesterday. Miss Otto plays Carolyn Pickering of Anderson, Ind. and Miss Whitmore meets Eileen Quinlan of St. Paul, who defeated Miss Cline in the semi-finals last year at South Bend.

Sixteen other Illinois girls, all but a few of them from the Chicago area, are scattered among the 32 who entered two lower flights.

First round pairings with qualifying scores:

Jeanne Cline, Bloomington, Ill., [81] vs. Helen Olson, Chicago, [89].
Phyllis Otto, Atlantic, Ia., [88] vs. Carolyn Pickering, Anderson, Ind., [91].
Marjorie Lindsay, Decatur, Ill., [85] vs. Barbara Bathke, St. Paul, [90].
Betty Brown, Texarkana, Ark., [88] vs. Nancy Johnson, Whitewater, Wis., [95].
Betty Jane Haemerle, St. Louis, [82] vs. Gerry O'Neill, Barrington, Ill., [90].
Arleen Tweet, Green Bay, Wis., [88] vs. Mary Ann Finch, Des Moines, Ia. [9].
Jane Whitmore, Little Rock, Ark., [87] vs. Eileen Quinlan, St. Paul, [90].
Dorothy Campbell, St. Louis, [89] vs. Suzanne Snively, Janesville, Wis., [95].

Cubs Win, 3 to 1, from Syracuse in Tenth Inning

Syracuse, N. Y., July 7 [Special].—Two walks, a sacrifice, an intentional pass, and Charley George's single to right scored two runs in the 10th inning to give the Chicago Cubs a 3 to 1 victory over Syracuse of the International league in an exhibition game tonight.

The Chiefs, who had tied the score on Bill Nagel's homer in the seventh off Paul Erickson, threatened in the last of the 10th, but were stopped with two men on the bases.

A crowd of 5,000 braved a threatening rain to watch the Cubs and saw them get a run in the sixth to break a scoreless tie on John Hudson's infield hit, two errors and a missed double play.

Syracuse reached Bill Lee and Larry French for four hits in six innings without scoring.

In the 10th Herman Rehbein lost control and walked Phil Cavarretta and Augie Galan. Bob Scheffing bunted them along and Dom Dallessandro was purposely passed. George then banged one to right to drive in the winning runs. Score:

Chicago Open Draws a Field of Champions

Craig Wood of New York, National Open champion, and six former National Open titleholders, will be in the field of 200 golfers who tee off July 18 in the fourth $5,000 Chicago Open tournament, a review of the entries revealed yesterday. The Chicago Open will be played over the Elmhurst Country club course in Addison on July 18, 19, and 20.

Former national champions who have entered are Lawson Little, who won the title last year; Ralph Guldahl, who was on top in 1937 and 1938; Gene Sarazen, who won in 1922 and repeated in 1932; Billy Burke, who won in 1931; Tommy Armour, the 1927 winner, and Chick Evans, who won away back in 1916.

The Chicago Open field is also spotted with golfers who won runner-up honors in the National Open meets. Among these stars are Dick Metz, 1938; Sam Snead, 1937; Harry Cooper, 1927; Jimmy Thomson, 1935; Abe Espinosa, 1929, and Jock Hutchison Sr., who was runner-up to Evans in 1916 and who shared runner-up honors in 1920 with Harry Vardon, Jack Burke, and Leo Diegel, the year Ted Ray of England won.

MRS. COOKE TOPS MISS WOLFENDEN IN EASTERN MEET

New York, July 7 [Special].—Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Cooke, veteran internationalist, today stroked her way to a surprisingly one sided victory in the finals of the women's eastern clay courts tournament at the Jackson Heights Tennis club. She swept aside the defending champion, Virginia Wolfeenden of San Francisco, 6-1, 6-1, in only 35 minutes.

The men's final between Frankie Parker and Gene Mako, veteran Davis cup players, was rained out. It will be played tomorrow, but the women's doubles will not be played. Mrs. Louise Raymond Ganzenmuller, paired with Mrs. Millicent Hirsh Lang, defaulted to Mrs. Cooke and Miss Margaret Osborne because she is slated to play in another tournament.

The men's doubles, which will bring together Parker and Charley Mattmann against Ted Schroeder and Jackie Kramer, the national champions, will follow the Parker-Mako clash tomorrow.

WOMEN'S TENNIS HELD UP.

Philadelphia, Pa., July 7 (AP).—Wet courts caused the postponement today of the opening of the middle states' women's lawn tennis meet until tomorrow.

SENATE PUTS O.K. ON JACKSON FOR SUPREME COURT

Tydings' Violent Protests Are Voted Down.

Washington, July 7 (AP).—President Roosevelt's seventh appointee to the Supreme court, Robert H. Jackson, was confirmed by the senate today after Senator Millard Tydings [D., Md.] had sharply criticized the 49 year old attorney general in a futile attempt to block approval.

The nomination of Jackson, who came to Washington from Jamestown, N. Y., in the early days of the New Deal, was confirmed on a voice vote, with Tydings dissenting.

The Marylander charged Jackson was "unfit" for the court because he had refused to prosecute Drew Pearson and Robert S. Allen, columnists, for criminal libel.

Jackson "set aside the libel law by administrative fiat," Tdyings asserted, in failing to press charges against the columnists for a 1939 radio broadcast in which they accused Tydings of having had the WPA improve the senator's properties in Maryland. The commentators' accusations were denied by the WPA.

Cries for Impeachment.

"We should be trying Jackson for impeachment instead of confirming him for the Supreme court," Tydings told the senate. He went on to say that Jackson lacked "the character, integrity, and judicial temperament" for the court, and has "neglected" his duty as head of the justice department.

When Tydings asked Jackson in 1939 to prosecute Pearson and Allen, the attorney general told him the case should be filed by the senator as a civil action because the justice department did not wish to enter into disputes between newspapers and men in public life. Jackson also said the department had not pressed a criminal libel action in more than 40 years and did not believe Pearson and Allen could be convicted.

Two Others Confirmed.

Jackson was nominated for the court, along with Senator James F. Byrnes of South Carolina, by President Roosevelt last month at the time the chief executive named Harlan F. Stone, a member of the tribunal since 1925, to be chief justice in succession to Charles Evans Hughes, who resigned.

Byrnes was confirmed by the senate immediately, and Stone also was approved without opposition. The new chief justice took his oath of office in Colorado last week. Byrnes is to take the oath at the White House tomorrow.

Jackson's confirmation brings the court to its full strength of nine members. Only Chief Justice Stone and Justice Owen J. Roberts were not named by Mr. Roosevelt.

WHEAT GROWERS PLAN COURT FIGHT ON CROP QUOTAS

Indianapolis, Ind., July 7 [Special].—Delegates representing more than 10,000 Indiana wheat growers will meet here tomorrow night to form the National Wheat Quota Protest association for the purpose of seeking a court injunction to prohibit the government from putting quota penalties into effect.

The meeting will climax a series of gatherings which have been held thruout the state during the last two weeks. Farmers have protested the government's penalty of 49 cents a bushel on all wheat raised over given allotment.

Lamont O'Harra of Newcastle, temporary chairman of the new association, said that petitions bearing more than 10,000 names have been sent to President Roosevelt and Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard, protesting the wheat penalties.

"More petitions are being sent every day," O'Harra said, "and within a week or 10 days we hope to hold a state-wide meeting at the Indianapolis fair grounds. That meeting will bring together the thousands of farmers in this state who are being denied their democratic rights thru the wheat quota penalties."

Ingleside Driver Gets 15 Days in Jail After Crash

Arthur Kistenmacher of Ingleside, Lake county, was sentenced to serve 15 days in the county jail yesterday by Judge Perry L. Persons of the Lake county court on pleas of guilty to charges of drunken and reckless driving. He also was deprived of his driving privileges for six months. He was arrested June 22 after his car collided in Grand avenue two miles east of Fox Lake. Driver of the second car was Mrs. Lenora Fisher of Long Lake, wife of Mark Fisher, orchestra leader.

Gale Causes Heavy Damage at Akron, O.; 4,000 Are Idle

Akron, O., July 7 (AP).—An 80 mile gale, accompanied by the heaviest rain in Akron's history, caused widespread property damage tonight and threw 4,000 persons out of work temporarily. Three persons were killed by lightning. Hundreds of homes in nearby Barberton were without telephone and light facilities. The three hour rainfall measured 3.2 inches. A power house serving two Firestone Tire and Rubber company plants was flooded and a night shift of 3,000 had to halt work.

CHICAGOAN KILLED IN PLANE ACCIDENT AT HAWAIIAN FIELD

Mrs. Lillian Baring Rochester, 647 Roscoe street, was notified by the war department yesterday that her son, Sergt. Harry B. Rochester of the 17th air base squadron, army air corps, was killed in an airplane accident at Wheeler field, Hawaii. The accident occurred Sunday. No details were given.

Harry B. Rochester.

Sergt. Rochester was 27 years old. He was a graduate of Lake View High school. He enlisted in the army two years ago. At the time of his death he was an instructor in the code school at Wheeler field.

TAMMANY CHIEF GETS 4-10 YEARS IN BRIBERY CASE

Same Term Also Given N.Y. Ex-Official.

New York, July 7 [Special].—William Solomon, one of Tammany's most powerful leaders, and Charles H. Mullens, former assistant state controller and long active in Republican politics in Albany, today were sentenced to serve four to 10 years in Sing Sing prison by Judge Jacob Gould Schurman Jr. They were convicted June 25 of bribery on six counts in connection with the letting of state printing contracts to the now defunct Burland Printing company.

Judge Schurman granted a 48 hour stay of sentence, and the defense announced an appeal would be filed.

Linked to Dutch Schultz.

Solomon is the second Tammany leader convicted by District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey and his office in the last two years. James J. Hines, former Manhattan patronage dispenser for the Roosevelt administration, now is serving a four to eight year sentence in Sing Sing as the protector of a 20 million dollar a year policy racket directed by Dutch Schultz, slain gangster.

Schultz's name and that of Frankie Costello, slot machine czar, also were linked with Solomon in a probation report submitted to Judge Schurman. It also was asserted that prior to 1934 Solomon's Owasco Democratic club was run by professional gamblers "who, in return for the privilege of running gambling games, paid the rent and purchased furniture."

May Follow Hines' Example.

It was expected that Solomon, following Hines' example, would resign from the Tammany leadership he has held since 1926 only if his appeal from the conviction fails. Solomon bossed a Harlem district but lived at a fashionable Central Park West address.

Solomon and Mullens were found guilty of accepting $28,000 in bribes from Charles C. Walsey, president of the Burland company, and his son, Jack Walsey, for helping them obtain $750,000 in state printing contracts in 1935, 1936, and 1937 by means of a system of collusive bidding.

HILDEGARDE GETS INVOLVED IN NEW W-G-N COMEDY

Hildegarde, one of the favorite songstresses of radio, came over from the Camellia house of the Drake hotel last night to sing several songs on W-G-N-Mutual's new comedy show, "The Affairs of Tom, Dick, and Harry," and she found herself involved in their footloose antics: She played the part of a French hill billy's daughter in a slightly lunatic adaptation of "Tobacco Road" as conceived by Tom, Dick, and Harry. Hildegarde sang the nostalgic "The Last Time I Saw Paris," which she popularized, and the new comedy song, "I Yi, Yi, Yi, Love You." Another highlight of the show was a parody, "The Village Pianist," directed against Bob Trendler, the musical director of the show.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

VAN ZANDT RAPS SEAWAY PROJECT AS PERIL TO JOBS

Wants Energy Devoted to Task of Aiding Britain.

Washington, D. C., July 7 (AP).—The St. Lawrence seaway and hydroelectric power project was described tonight in radio debate as a "political and economic monstrosity" and as a vast program for the "common defense" of the United States and Canada.

Representative James E. Van Zandt [R., Pa.] asserted:

"In joining us in defeating this political and economic monstrosity, you are enlisting in a cause that will repeal an invasion of the rights of the American workingman and contribute to the general welfare of every American citizen."

Thousands of Jobs Periled.

Van Zandt said the jobs of thousands of coal miners and railroaders of his state "will be seriously menaced" by the project.

"We are being asked," he said, "to construct this project at a time when the American people, thru the lend-lease act, are pledged to give Great Britain the necessary implements of war to continue her heroic resistance against the Nazi government. Why should we be asked . . . to divert our manpower, materials, and financial resources to a project that cannot possibly be completed before 1947?"

Representative Clyde T. Ellis [D., Ark.], endorsing the project, said hearings "have epitomized a struggle now going on in this country that will determine whether we are serious in our fight against Naziism and to preserve democracy by the utilization of every resource at our command."

Assails "Special Privilege."

Ellis added that "we in this country, where our philosophy of government centers in the welfare of all our citizens, must fight at every hand the crippling effect of those who measure every defense activity in terms of its ultimate effect on their invested capital or special privilege."

Both lawmakers spoke on a forum broadcast over a national hookup. The house rivers and harbors committee is considering a bill to legalize the proposed project.

FALLS IN COMA AFTER AN AUTO ACCIDENT; DIES

Tony Gaura, 61 years old, an elevator operator who received first aid in Holy Cross hospital Saturday after walking against the side of a moving automobile at 49th street and Ashland avenue, died yesterday in County hospital of a fractured skull. He had collapsed in front of 4537 Wood street.

Joseph Gurka, 25, of 1741 19th street, a delivery messenger, whose motorcycle upset when it hit a hole at 15th street and Blue Island avenue last Wednesday, died in the Norwegian-American hospital of his injuries.

Samuel Parrish, 43, colored, 3251 Rhodes avenue, a butcher injured in a collision near Dyer, Ind., Sunday, died in St. James hospital, Chicago Heights.

Thomas Jones, 17, of 540 North Western avenue, was fatally injured when an automobile in which he was riding struck a culvert near Sycamore, in De Kalb county. Eugene Schoo, De Kalb, was killed in the same accident.

Sam Cample, 22, of Medaryville, Ind., was killed when he was struck near Momence by an automobile.

Ursel Pertekel, 15, of 9128 Mackinaw avenue, injured Saturday when his bicycle and an automobile collided at 90th street and Houston avenue, died in South Chicago hospital.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday, 483 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these, 346 were killed in Chicago, where 12,456 were injured.

STUDY COUNCILS OF DEFENSE FOR CITIES OVER 10,000

Plans for defense councils in Illinois cities of over 10,00 population were discussed yesterday by members of the new state council of defense, meeting in the La Salle hotel with Gov. Green.

Letters to mayors of these cities are being mailed this week, Representative Elmer Schnackenberg told the council. These civic heads are being asked, he said, to establish the councils to coöperate with the central body and the national defense council. Local councils will consist of representatives of the public, labor, churches, and fraternal and women's groups.

State defense council offices are at 120 South La Salle street. Murray W. Baker of Peoria, former chairman of the board of the Caterpillar Tractor company, is vice chairman and executive head of the group. Gov. Green is honorary chairman.

OBITUARIES

Mrs. Hannah Goldblatt.

Services for Mrs. Hannah Goldblatt, mother of the founders of Goldblatt Brothers, Inc., will be held at 10:30 a. m. today in the Humboldt Boulevard temple, 1908 Humboldt boulevard. Burial will be in Rosemont. Mrs. Goldblatt died Sunday in the home of her son, Nathan, president of the department store concern, at 612 Sheridan road, Wilmette. She was 76 years old.

Mrs. Hannah Goldblatt.

In recent years Mrs. Goldblatt had traveled widely. She lived at the Windermere East hotel, 1642 East 56th street. She was the widow of Simon Goldblatt, retired merchant who died in 1934. A native of Poland, she had lived in Chicago for the last 38 years.

In addition to Nathan Goldblatt, she leaves four other sons, Maurice, Alex, Louis, and Joel; three daughters, Mrs. Sarah Handelsman, Mrs. Anna Handelsman, and Mrs. Rose Gordon; 18 grandchildren, 8 great-grandchildren, and a sister, Mrs. Esther Terry.

Charles A. Butler.

Services for Charles A. Butler, known to many Chicagoans as the dining car steward on the Dixie Limited of the Chicago and Eastern Illinois railroad, were held yesterday in St. Kilian's church, 8725 South May street. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery. Butler died Thursday in his home at 8749 South Elizabeth street, at the age of 61. He served for more than 20 years as steward on the run between Chicago and Florida. Surviving are his widow, Grace; a daughter, Mrs. Marjorie Murray, and a son, Charles.

2 BOYS, 12, HELD FOR MURDER OF DROWNED LAD, 11

Chester, Ill., July 7 [Special].—Matthew Voudrie and Barney Byram, each 12 years old, were held for grand jury action today on a charge of murder. Justice of the Peace Frank P. Hight committed the boys to the county jail without bail after refusing a request of counsel to reduce the charge to manslaughter.

The boys confessed last June 26 that they beat Harry Knoke Jr., 11, and pushed him into the Mississippi river June 24. His body was found 50 miles downstream the next day.

According to the confession of the pair, they fought with Knoke for possession of a file. They said they wrestled the file from Knoke's grasp and beat him on his head with it before pushing him into the river. An autopsy showed the boy still was alive when he was pushed into the water and that he drowned.

DAIRYMEN CO-OP REFUSES TO JOIN N. Y. MILK TIEUP

Utica, N. Y., July 7 (AP).—Leaders of the 30,000 member Dairymen's League Coöperative association withheld support today from a three-state mile blockade of New York City, pending efforts tomorrow to revise federal-state price fixing orders.

But the Dairy Farmers union, whose estimated 23,000 members completed the first week of their milk stoppage campaign, expressed determination to carry on in quest of a uniform price of $3 a hundredweight [47 quarts]. This month's estimated price is $2.15.

Meantime, the union disputed a report by New York City Health Commissioner John L. Rice that 25,000 to 100,000 quarts of additional milk had been received today at country plants, indicating, he said, a slight increase in the city's fluid milk supply tomorrow.

UNIFIED TRANSIT PLAN RECEIVES A NEW SETBACK

Holders of Car Lines Bonds Oppose It.

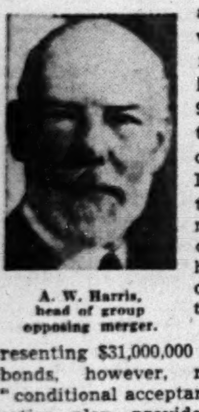
BY LAURENCE BURD.

Chicago's hopes for a unified transportation system were jolted once again yesterday when committees representing holders of $98,950,000 of securities of the Chicago Surface Lines reported they would not recommend acceptance by bondholders of the city's unified traction ordinance.



A. W. Harris, head of group opposing merger.

One group, representing $31,000,000 of surface lines' bonds, however, recommended a "conditional acceptance" of the unification plan—provided a substantial loan is first promised for transit improvements.

The committees' reports were filed in the federal District court in response to Judge Michael L. Igoe's request for suggestions or objections to the city's ordinance. The ordinance, providing for a merger of the surface and elevated lines, operation of the city owned subway and the undertaking of a 102 million dollar transit modernization program by the new system, was passed by the city council June 19 by a vote of 40 to 6.

Harris Group Opposes Plan.

Among the committees which found the ordinance unacceptable was the largest single securities group, which is headed by Albert W. Harris, the banker, and represents $41,700,000 of first mortgage bonds of the Chicago Railways company—the north side lines.

The committee's report, signed by Harris, raised no specific objections to the ordinance, but asserted that the proposed unified company would have insufficient earnings to borrow funds with which to carry out the improvement program.

Harris said a consolidation of the surface lines with the money losing elevated lines would produce a "bankrupt corporation," and pointed out that other cities have subsidized their rapid transit systems. Chicago, on the other hand, expects its transit company to make payments to the city for a franchise, he added.

Favors Separate Revamping.

The Harris report repeated a stand he has taken previously—that the first step toward ultimate transit unification should be a separate court reorganization of the surface lines apart from the "L."

The group which proposed a conditional acceptance of the city's traction plan controls the second largest surface lines' interest and represents the remaining first mortgage bonds—covering the south side lines, which are operated by the Chicago City Railway company and the Calumet and South Chicago Railways.

This group said that the "ordinance is a step forward in the solution of the traction problem and affords a reasonably satisfactory contract, if sufficient credit can be procured to enable the company to function."

If a loan can be obtained under terms whereby the surface lines' first mortgage bondholders will receive 50 cents on the dollar in cash and 50 cents in new bonds for their present holdings the unified ordinance should be accepted, the group urged. If such a loan cannot be obtained the surface lines' reorganization should be completed, apart from the elevated lines.

Doubt RFC Will Make Loan.

A loan on the terms suggested has been discussed by city and transit representatives with officials of the federal Reconstruction Finance corporation, but the RFC has made no definite commitment. The Harris group's report declared "the indications are that the RFC will not now make such a loan."

Several of the nine different groups which filed suggestions declared that additional revenues will have to be produced by boosting rates of fare before any unification plan can be launched on a sound basis. The surface lines' management board, at Judge Igoe's direction, is preparing an application for an increase in street car fares from 7 to 8 cents.

No suggestions were filed by elevated lines' securities groups. Judge Igoe has set a hearing for Friday on the entire transit unification dispute.

A Year's Increase in Employment

Hold Furniture Price Hikes to 5%, U. S. Rules

A ceiling of 5 per cent on price boosts was imposed on the furniture industry yesterday by governmental price fixers. The limit was announced as thousands in the industry gathered in Chicago for the summer home furnishings market, which will be held for two weeks at the American Furniture Mart and the Merchandise Mart.

Leo Karpen predicts business will expand.

The price stabilizing order by the Office of Price Administration and Civilian Supply was described as a temporary measure in response to requests of furniture makers for permission to increase wholesale prices. The markups were made necessary by increasing material and labor costs, manufacturers said.

Boosts Subject to Inquiry.

The furniture market was reported to have been unsettled by the recent order of Leon Henderson, federal price administrator, that furniture prices should not be raised without permission of his office.

Altho blanket permission was granted furniture makers by the OPACS to raise prices as much as 5 per cent over the May market, Dr. James F. Bogardus, acting associate price executive for home furnishings, declared that each increase will have to be justified.

He explained that the manufacturer may raise his prices the permissible limit without obtaining specific approval from the price fixing agency. This was done to save time. However, at a later date, the manufacturer will have to permit government accountants to examine his costs and profit statements to determine whether he was justified in raising his prices.

Establishes Office at Mart.

Dr. Bogardus told the American Furniture Mart Press club at a luncheon that his staff will maintain an office at the mart during the present summer market and that permanent offices may be established later. He said that manufacturers desiring to raise their prices above the 5 per cent limit must first obtain approval from his office.

Commenting on an expected future shortage of mahogany for home furnishings, Dr. Bogardus asserted it is possible that a priority order may be imposed on future imports of mahogany to conserve shipping space and to supply the navy and the aircraft industry with mahogany they need.

Leo Karpen, president of S. Karpen and Brothers, told the press club that he expects expanded demand for home furnishings in the lower and medium price brackets from families with increased purchasing power. Purchases of expensive goods by families in the $5,000 to $25,000 annual income class will be curtailed by higher income taxes, he predicted.

Registrations on the first day of the summer National Home Furnishings market in the Furniture Mart totaled 4,900, an opening day record.

Lawrence H. Whiting, president, said he expected a total attendance of approximately 13,000 manufacturers, buyers, dealers, and retailers in the two week session, representing about 94 per cent of the industry.

Percy Wilson, managing director of the Merchandise Mart, announced that attendance on the first day of the International Home Furnishings market at the mart broke all records for any opening day with 2,584 registered.

LEARN U. S. BUYS ALL BRAZIL'S OUTPUT OF 11 ITEMS FOR 2 YEARS

RIO DE JANEIRO, July 7 (AP).—The United States has agreed to take all Brazil's production of 11 specified materials needed in arms production for the next two years, it was learned tonight.

The agreement, signed May 14 by United States Ambassador Jefferson Caffery and Brazilian Foreign Minister Oswaldo Aranha, calls for purchase by the United States of all Brazil's rubber, manganese, industrial diamonds, mica, quartz crystal, rutile [a titanium ore], ferro-nickel, zirconium, bauxite, chromite, and beryl ores.

RAIL WORKERS PICKET CIO IN CHARTER FIGHT

Detroit, Mich., July 7 (AP).—A line of pickets, whose spokesman said they were members of the Independent Railway Workers of America seeking CIO affiliation, surrounded the regional offices of the CIO here today.

"We have 10,000 members in the various railroad trades," Thomas Lang, secretary of the independent group, said. "We have been refused a CIO charter because of the CIO agreement with the AFL not to invade the Railroad Brotherhood's field. So we decided to picket CIO offices in Detroit and, if necessary, Washington in order to get a charter."

"This is all a surprise to us," a CIO spokesman declared. "Imagine us being picketed."

Richard Whitney to Face Sing Sing Parole Board

New York, July 7 [Special].—Richard Whitney, one-time president of the New York Stock exchange and now prisoner No. 94835 at Sing Sing, will be given a hearing tomorrow by the state parole board. Whitney, serving a 5 to 10 year sentence for first degree grand larceny, automatically becomes eligible for parole Aug. 11, when he will have served three years and four months of his sentence.

Unions Asked to Help Ease Labor Upsets

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

The government asked organized labor yesterday to help ease the dislocations of workers resulting from the vast shift of American industry from production of consumer goods to armaments.

The Office of Production Management announced that labor committees would be appointed soon for every major industry. They would be expected, among other things, to advise concerning threatening unemployment due to the priorities program.

Some consumer goods industries already are confronted with the prospect of having to reduce working forces because of inability to get raw materials.

Places Idle at 21,210.

The appointment of the labor committees, it was learned, will be part of an intensive government effort to meet this situation and to place workers forced out of consumer industries in jobs on armament work.

The OPM said the total of idle armament workers at present was 21,210, and that there was not a single strike in any aircraft, shipbuilding, or machine tool manufacturing plant.

An OPM spokesman said this total included about 10,000 workers of the Caterpillar Tractor company at Peoria, Ill. Press advices from Peoria developed subsequently, however, that the OPM was mistaken in listing a strike there. An estimated 2,000 to 5,000 CIO workers, it was explained, quit work July 2, but returned the next day.

Will Resume Parleys.

Representatives of the Western Cartridge company at Alton, Ill., and the AFL Chemical Workers' union last night agreed to a resumption of contract negotiations at the request of the national defense mediation board. The negotiations, broken off Saturday when the union appealed to the defense board to take over supervision of the bargaining, will be renewed at 2 p. m. today. A strike call, originally set for Sunday midnight, has been held in abeyance at the defense board's request.

At Cleveland a strike of production workers at the White Motor company has been postponed indefinitely pending wage negotiations in Washington, Richard E. Reisinger, regional director of the CIO United Automobile Workers, reported tonight.

Banks Expected to Handle Tax Notes Free of Charge

Washington, D. C., July 7 [Special].—Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr. indicated today that banks will receive no kind of compensation for handling the new tax anticipation notes.

RADIO MAKERS LACKING METAL FACE IDLENESS

Aluminum Shortage Cited by Fly.

BY JOHN FISHER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 7.—Approximately 85 per cent of the radio set manufacturers will be idle unless they can obtain sufficient supplies of aluminum to keep their plants operating, James L. Fly, chairman of the Federal Communications commission, said today.

He told a press conference that the radio manufacturers—particularly the little ones—are in a vulnerable position because only a small part of the industry has armament contracts and the shortage of aluminum threatens the extinction of the remainder.

> CHROMIUM TO BE RATIONED.
> The government took control yesterday over the uses to which chromium will be put and directed that armament industries be given preference. It was the 15th metal to be given a priority rating. The metal is required for hardening steel and the production of high-speed cutting tools.

Fly predicted that at any rate there will be a substantial cut in production of radio sets because of the critical situation in aluminum, virtually all of which has been reserved for armament industries, particularly the production of warplanes.

Seeks Continued Operations.

The radio industry does not require much aluminum to keep it operating, said Fly, but steps should be taken to assure continued operations in what he termed an "essential industry." If the manufacturers cannot obtain aluminum in July they cannot be kept operating in October, he said.

Reporting on the progress of the defense communications board, which has been charged with maintaining national and international communications in event of war, Fly said that several potential supply bottlenecks have been uncovered.

"At the head of the list," he said, "is fabricated aluminum, which is vital for the shielding of important radio parts because it has a low conductivity. While aluminum is essential in communications work, the quantity needed is fortunately not large, and will be kept at a minimum."

He said that he was seriously concerned over the matter of priorities for radio and other communications materials and has been coöperating with James S. Knowlson, president of the Radio Manufacturers' association, in attempts to obtain supplies of aluminum for this work. Knowlson is president of the Stewart-Warner corporation, Chicago.

One of Many Threats.

This is the latest in a series of many industries which are threatened by the priorities imposed on raw materials by the Office of Production Management. A serious mistake is being made, critics claim, in shutting down civilian industries and cutting off the livelihood of small business men by diverting all resources to arms production. An attempt should be made, it is contended, to maintain a healthy economy by keeping civilian supply routes open.

Fly also disclosed that the defense communications board has devised a plan for message priorities under which messages of military importance will be granted immediate precedence.

Hogs Soar to 45 Month Peak; Soy Beans Carried Up 6 Cents

Fresh Pork Advances

Hog prices soared yesterday to the highest levels in 45 months, and to the third highest position for July since 1929. A large share of the day's offerings sold 25 cents a hundred pounds above last week's close, with a few sales up as much as 35 cents.

A drop in shipments, coupled with continued government buying of pork products for shipment to England, stimulated the markets. Some cuts of fresh pork rose $2 a hundred pounds, one of the sharpest advances in many months. Top light loins reached $22.

Report Week's Purchases.

The department of agriculture disclosed that last week's federal buying of lard amounted to 2,800,000 pounds. None was bought the week before. Government buyers also purchased 1,775,000 pounds of cured and frozen pork during the week, as well as 1,854,000 pounds of canned pork.

Packers paid an average of $10.55 for hogs, against $10.35 at the close of last week and $6.35 a year ago. Top loads jumped 20 cents to $11.05, the highest price since October, 1937. A year ago the top was $7. Farmers sold 64,000 hogs at 11 markets, a decrease of 11,000 from a week earlier and 10,000 less than a year ago.

Many Bring $10.90 to $11.

A large share of good 190 to 250 pound hogs brought $10.90 to $11, and most 260 to 325 pounders $10.50 to $10.90. Most smooth 300 to 500 pound sows sold at $9.25 to $10.15.

Steady prices were paid for slaughter lambs, which sold mostly within a range of $10.50 to $11.50. Top loads reached $11.60. Yearling wethers averaging 81 pounds brought $9.50.

Light and mediumweight steers and yearlings held steady, with heavy stock off 10 to 25 cents. Steady prices were paid for most beef cows, heifers, canners, cutters, and calves.

Wheat Prices Higher

Reports that the government was seeking to purchase 60,000 bushels of soy beans for shipment to England touched off market fireworks yesterday. Prices advanced as much as 6 cents a bushel and closed with gains of 4¼ to 5⅝ cents.

Strength in soy beans, cottonseed oil and hogs reacted favorably on grains with wheat rising a maximum of 2½ cents and closing 1⅜ to 1⅞ cents higher. Corn futures advanced ½ cent, oats ⅜ to ½ cent, and rye ⅞ to 1¼ cents. Lard was 27½ to 37½ cents a hundred pounds higher, with commission houses aggressive buyers.

Report Supplies Limited.

Supplies of old crop soy beans available for delivery on July contracts or for sale in the open market were reported limited, and according to brokers accounted for the sensitiveness of the market.

There was a broad commission house and professional trade in soy beans with relatively little selling pressure on the way up despite continued favorable weather and crop reports. At the closing price of the October delivery cash handlers figured that farmers could obtain about $1.30 a bushel at country elevators for new crop beans if they hedged by selling the future.

Weather Favors Harvesting.

Weather conditions over the week-end were generally favorable for harvesting of winter wheat, and grain has again started to move to markets in volume.

Despite primary receipts of 6,667,000 bushels of cash wheat there was no hedging pressure of consequence on the market, a large part of the grain being ordered into storage for government loans. The loans are about 10¼ cents a bushel above the closing price on the July delivery.

U. S. TAKES OVER 7 MORE DANISH CARGO VESSELS

Washington, D. C., July 7 (AP).—The maritime commission announced today the taking over of seven more Danish cargo vessels, under the ship requisition act, and their assignment to American operators for use in the Pacific trade.

Eight Danish vessels previously had been requisitioned.

Congress Gives Maritime Board Ship Priority Rule

Washington, D. C., July 7 (AP).—The senate completed congressional action today on legislation which would authorize the maritime commission to fix priorities for shipping. To obtain preference in use of dock facilities and purchase of fuel, ships would be required to carry cargoes and follow routes designated by the commission.

STOCKS PUSHED AHEAD AS MUCH AS FOUR POINTS

Volume 3d Largest for This Year.

WESTERN STOCKS RISE

San Francisco, Cal., July 7 (AP).—Western stocks sold at their best marks of the day and closed strong after news of the occupation of Iceland by United States naval forces reached the market place. Whether the market's added bullish punch was attributable to the Iceland move, or was merely growing momentum in a bullish market session was something seasoned observers preferred to leave unanswered.

New York, July 7 (AP).—Financial markets swung upward today under the stimulus of a slightly brighter war situation and a mild touch of inflationary fever.

Gains in stocks ranged from 1 to about 4 points at the best, centering principally in industrials. The trend was higher from the start and activity pronounced at intervals. Closing quotations were at or near the day's tops, with dealings brisk in the last half hour.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks held an advance of .7 of a point at 42.6, widest upturn in this barometer since Feb. 20. Volume was 896,510 shares, against 463,770 last Friday, and was the third largest for the year to date.

Cheered by Russ Action.

Wall street found some bullish inspiration in the Russian opposition to the Nazi invasion.

Business developments were on the side of recovery proponents. A sharp sprint of several commodities, apparently based on the thought congress might object to price ceilings on farm staples, tended to stress recent inflationary tendencies, brokers said.

Pepsi-Cola again was the fastest mover in the share list. It closed up 2⅛ at 28½, a new high. Others prominent on the forward slant included United States Steel, Bethlehem, Crucible Steel, du Pont, Eastman Kodak, United States Gypsum, Westinghouse Electric, Johns-Manville, J. I. Case.

CHICAGO TRADE EXPANDS.

Trading expanded on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday with turnover of 30,000 shares, the largest since Feb. 14.

Trading in Chicago Corporation common and preferred shares topped all other issues. Sales of the common amounted to 3,000 shares, the market closing at ⅞, up ⅛ point.

Planning Ahead

The key to a satisfactory investment and estate program

You want your investments to provide as many benefits as possible both for you, while you are living—and for your family, later. To help accomplish these ends—especially in this period of economic change—it is prudent to consider investment and estate plans today, instead of waiting for an indefinite tomorrow.

In checking the present outlook for each security you own, you can obtain the judgment of the trust investment organization of The First National Bank by opening a Supervised Agency account. Other men and women have long found our investment advisory facilities extremely helpful in keeping their investments in step with the times.

A review of your will with your lawyer in the immediate future should consider such factors as these: the advisability of making gifts now, rather than later; the impact of taxes upon your estate structure; the place of life insurance in your financial provision for your family; the application of modern trust clauses; and the need for alert, experienced management of your estate under future conditions. In addition, the wife's point of view should be considered, since the heads of a family contribute valuable suggestions toward creating an estate program most likely to meet a family's needs.

Our estate planning and administrative experience can be of value to you. Officers of the Trust Department will be glad to talk with you and your lawyer about the application of trust service to your own problem, without placing you under any obligation.

ORGANIZE GROUP TO SEEK CUTS IN NON-ARMS FUNDS

Wriston Heads Committee of Educators.

New York, July 7 (AP).—Formation of a committee to work for a reduction of nonessential spending of federal, state, and local governments was announced today.

Henry M. Wriston, president of Brown university, Providence, R. I., said the group, to be known as the Citizens Emergency committee on nondefense expenditures, would "make recommendations concerning vitally needed reductions in nondefense spending as a partial offset to huge defense requirements." He is chairman of the committee.

A group of research experts will be selected to work in the committee's headquarters, to be set up in Washington, combing every appropriation bill for unnecessary spending, Wriston said, and would make specific recommendations for reductions.

Wriston listed 75 members, mostly college presidents and educators.

Wilbur and Smith Members.

Among them were Ray Lyman Wilbur, president of Leland Stanford university; Tom K. Smith, president of the Boatmen's National bank, St. Louis, Mo.; F. H. Stinchfield, Minneapolis, Minn., former president of the American Bar association; Louis J. Taber, Columbus, O., master of the National Grange; Robert L. Flowers, president of Duke university, and Olin Gleen Saxon, professor of business administration, Yale university.

"Thru their government, the American people are being asked to curtail their standard of living," Wriston said. "Direct taxes on all groups will increase many fold and excise taxes will carry the burden and sacrifice to every wage earner. Business is told that it cannot continue as usual and its profits are being regulated and limited.

"In a democracy if there is a need for individual sacrifice there is, in the same degree, need for sacrifice by the nation as a whole, by the government which is the people.

Economy Demanded by Group.

"Government must set the example. Administration and congressional leaders have recognized this and have called upon congress to trim nonessential items.

"Yet despite these pleas nondefense appropriations of the federal government were increased almost 90 million dollars over last year.

"The citizens emergency committee believes that economizing to afford defense now and insure internal stability after the emergency is the responsibility of the people and that congress will reduce the inflated nondefense expenses of government if so instructed by public opinion."

INTERLAKE IRON.

Has the Interlake Iron corporation paid any dividends recently? I recall the company was losing money a few years ago. —K. D.

Answer: The Interlake Iron corporation, Chicago, paid a dividend of 25 cents a common share last May 16, the first since 1937. Altho the payment followed the resumption of profitable operations in 1940, the management indicated that it was not to be interpreted as a precedent. Earnings results in the last five years follow:

| | Net sales. | Net income. | Earned per com. |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1936 | $19,265,000 | $ 581,143 | $0.29 |
| 1937 | 25,529,000 | 2,406,553 | 1.20 |
| 1938 | 11,346,000 | •1,021,655 | •0.51 |
| 1939 | 17,022,000 | •553,978 | •0.28 |
| 1940 | 22,720,000 | 829,450 | 0.41 |

•Loss.

The growing demand for pig iron and coke, generated by the armament program, has sustained the company's improvement. Net sales in the first quarter this year amounted to $9,067,137 and net income was $774,855, equal to 38 cents a common share. This compared with sales of $4,370,624 and net loss of $108,322 in the first quarter of 1940.

Interlake Iron is a major independent producer of merchant pig iron, commercial coke and coal by-products. The pig iron is used mainly by foundries; the coke by metallurgical companies and for domestic heating; the coke oven gases by municipalities and public utilities, including the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company, and other coal by-products by chemical companies.

The company has outstanding $6,639,000 in funded debt and 2,000,000 shares of no par common stock. Before the resumption of dividends this year, the company had paid 65 cents a share in 1937, the only payment since 1931. From 1908 to 1932 dividends were disbursed each year, except from 1922 thru 1925.

ESTONIA.

In your report June 20 on the study of 1940 debt service on foreign dollar bonds by the Institute of International Finance of New York university, it was stated that Estonia continued full service on her bonds. I understand she defaulted recently. —A. N.

Answer: The institute's analysis covered only 1940. The republic of Estonia, which was annexed by Russia last August, had maintained service on her dollar loans thru 1940, but defaulted on the January 1, 1941, coupon of its 7 per cent dollar bonds due 1967. Estonia enjoyed a good credit record before the annexation.

Commodities

Inspired by reports of growing congressional opposition to price fixing cottonseed oil futures prices advanced 0.41 to 0.48 cent a pound yesterday. Strength in cotton and relative staples also were supporting factors in the rise, it was said.

Wool led other advancing commodity futures with net gains of ½ to 1 cent a pound. Record consumption in May and a more active demand in the Boston market supported the advance, traders reported. Cuban buying orders brought gains of 0.01 to 0.01½ cent a pound in sugar futures. Cocoa closed 0.03 to 0.04 cent a pound higher.

Coffee futures ended a shade lower, rubber was unchanged to 0.10 cent a pound lower, and hides declined 0.08 cent to 0.12 cent a pound. Lead, tin, and copper were unchanged.

NET ASSET VALUE OF CHICAGO CORP. ABOVE JUNE, 1940

Investing Company Asks Tenders of Stock.

Net asset values of the Chicago corporation, largest investment company in the middle west, were larger on June 30 than a year earlier, altho smaller than on Dec. 31, 1940, Richard Wagner, president, informed stockholders yesterday.

Wagner, in his report covering the six months ended with June, disclosed that the company has increased its investment in a Texas oil enterprise and announced that the corporation has invited tenders of convertible preference stock from all holders at a price of $32 a share.

The report showed that at the end of last month net assets of the corporation were $26,778,765, equal to $52.73 a share on the outstanding convertible preference stock and to 11 cents a share on the common.

Higher than a Year Ago.

A year earlier the preference share net asset value was $49.79, and no asset value was shown for the common. The respective figures at the end of 1940 were $54.41 and 46 cents.

The oil enterprise in which the corporation increased its investment is Corpus Christi corporation, which owns oil, gas, and other mineral leases in Nueces, Kleberg, and Jim Wells counties in Texas, and operates a distillate recovery plant.

"In May," Wagner said, "Chicago corporation increased its investment in this enterprise by a purchase of stock involving payment of $450,000 to other stockholders, and by a loan to the company in the amount of $400,000. Chicago corporation also undertook to develop the property. Contracts have been let to double the capacity of the distillate plant.

"Since June 30 a plan of liquidation for Corpus Christi corporation has been completed, resulting in acquisition by Chicago corporation of all the Corpus assets."

Cut Dividend Requirements.

In announcing that tenders of the convertible preference stock were being invited, Wagner said:

"The annual rate of income from interest and dividends continues to be insufficient to cover the full annual dividend requirements of $3 a share on the convertible preference stock. It is believed desirable to increase such purchases for retirement to reduce the total preference dividend requirements."

The offered price of $32 compares with a range of about $27.50 to $29 over the last several months, Wagner said. [The preferred stock closed on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday at 31, up 2⅛ points.]

Changes which the company made in its holdings of various stocks between the end of 1940 and June 30 included several additions to investments in common stocks of automobile parts and tire companies, nonferrous metals producers and steel and iron makers.

List Increased Holdings.

Among the common stocks in which holdings were increased were the following:

| | Shares added. |
|---|---|
| Bohn Aluminum and Brass | 1,500 |
| Borg-Warner | 2,000 |
| Firestone Tire and Rubber | 300 |
| United States Rubber | 4,000 |

| Bethlehem Steel | 1,000 |
| United States Steel | 1,800 |
| Wheeling Steel | 1,000 |
| North American Co. | 20,000 |

Common stocks in which holdings were reduced included:

| | Shares sold. |
|---|---|
| United Aircraft | 300 |
| Bendix Aviation | 5,800 |
| Timken-Detroit Axle | 1,100 |
| Borden company | 6,000 |

| General American Transportation | 2,200 |
| Pullman, Inc. | 2,958 |
| American Tobacco B | 2,200 |
| Philip Morris | 1,000 |

The corporation's net income from interest and dividends for the six months was $513,812, compared with $456,789 in the corresponding 1940 period.

People and Events

Allan Jackson.

Allan Jackson, vice president of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, retired yesterday at the age of 65. He has been in the service of the company for 45 years. As head of the company's sales organization for many years, Jackson played an important part in the development of new marketing techniques.

Frederic G. Donner has been elected vice president in charge of finance of General Motors corporation, with headquarters in New York, and Henry M. Hogan has been elected a vice president in addition to his assignment as assistant general counsel, with headquarters at Detroit.

The stoker industry's sales so far this year have been 60 per cent larger than in the corresponding 1940 period, C. T. Burg, general sales manager of the Iron Fireman Manufacturing company, told the company's dealers yesterday at their district convention in the Palmer House.

President Roosevelt yesterday sent to the senate the renomination of Garland S. Ferguson as a member of the federal trade commission.

MAY LET WIVES CONTINUE FILING OWN TAX RETURN

Committee Expects Fight on Joint Levy Plan.

Washington, D. C., July 7 [Special]. —The house ways and means committee is considering the removal from the new tax bill the proposal to require married couples to file joint income tax returns, it was disclosed today.

One committee member admitted privately that much pressure had been turned on the committee in opposition to this proposal. He said that it and the 10 per cent added excess profits tax on corporations probably would precipitate heated fights on the floors of both house and senate when they consider the measure.

Some Doubt Constitutionality.

Aside from the protests arising over the proposed tax, the committee was said to have run into difficulties over phrasing the law so as to provide an equitable basis for payment of the tax liability.

Several committee members were said to believe the requirement to be unconstitutional. They cited a Supreme court decision in an appeal from a Wisconsin law that the state had no right to measure the tax on one person's property or income by reference to the property or income of another.

Deletion to Create Problem.

Committee members said they would be hard pressed to find revenue from other sources if the joint return provision was deleted. It had been estimated the yield from this particular provision would approximate $323,000,000.

Increased taxes on cigarets, gasoline, and beer, which would have yielded increased revenue estimated at $177,000,000, $255,000,000, and $52,000,000, respectively, were decisively defeated in committee balloting.

Members opposed to striking out the joint return provision declare that the only way the "lost" revenue could be raised would be an upward revision of the individual income surtax rates.

WOMEN FIGHT PLAN

The newly organized Committee to Keep Joint Income Tax Returns Optional yesterday decided to invite men's organizations as well as women's groups to join its fight against legislation pending in congress to make joint income tax returns for husbands and wives mandatory.

A score of business and professional women and housewives, meeting for luncheon at the Chicago Bar association, agreed that the proposal should be of as much concern to husbands as to wives.

"This legislation is a direct attack on marriage," said Anna Svatik, attorney. "People won't marry—they'll have to live apart to save taxes."

B. Fain Tucker, chairman of the group, urged that each member of the committee start a chain of letters to congressmen protesting against the legislation. She is president of the Women's Bar Association of Illinois.

BANKS' COMMERCIAL LOANS EXPANDED TO 70 MILLIONS IN WEEK

Banks made one of the largest increases in business loans last week that has been recorded since the armament program stimulated this form of credit, the Federal Reserve board reported yesterday. Banks in the Chicago reserve area alone expanded these loans by $16,000,000.

The board reported that as of July 2, all member banks had $5,895,000,000 in commercial, agricultural and industrial loans outstanding. Figures from member banks in 101 cities indicated a $70,000,000 increase in these loans since June 25 and a $1,457,000,000 increase since July 3, 1940.

New York reserve area bank loans were up $33,000,000, and San Francisco district loans $9,000,000.

Following are the principal assets and liabilities of member banks of the Federal Reserve system in 101 cities as of last Wednesday [last six ciphers omitted]:

HOLIDAY CASH NEEDS STEP UP CHECK VOLUME

Withdrawal of funds to pay holiday expenses and first of the month bills boosted the total of checks charged to bank accounts in federal reserve system member banks to $12,565,000,000 in the week ended July 2, the federal reserve board reported yesterday. Debits to checking accounts in member banks in 274 cities in the preceding week had totaled $9,997,000,000. A year ago the total was $10,063,000,000.

Debits by member banks in the Chicago reserve area increased 20.1 per cent over the preceding week and 30.7 per cent over the corresponding 1940 week. A total of $1,844,310,000 was withdrawn by check from district banks against $1,536,277,000 a week earlier and $1,411,440,000 a year ago. Business done by check increased 24 per cent for the last 13 weeks in comparison with the corresponding 1940 period, the bank said.

Withdrawals from accounts in Chicago banks totaled $1,021,174,000 last week, against $770,479,000 a year ago.

GEN. ELECTRIC'S 6 MONTH ORDER TOTAL IS RECORD

General Electric company booked $521,139,000 of orders in the first half of 1941, an alltime record for any six month period and more than double the $212,653,000 of orders received in the corresponding 1940 period, Charles E. Wilson, president, announced yesterday.

A record also was established in the three months ended June 30, when orders received totaled $263,757,000, compared with $115,163,000 in the 1940 June quarter. About 216 million dollars of the six month volume this year covered equipment definitely known to be for armament use.

The United States army has placed an order with the company for 12,000 electrically heated flying suits, it was disclosed yesterday.

Seaboard Air Line railroad has ordered 13 Diesel-electric locomotives, the magazine Railway Age reported.

TANK CAR OWNERS ACT TO PROVIDE FULL UTILIZATION

Seek to Increase Number Available in East.

Railroad tank car owners and lessees voted yesterday to form a voluntary organization to promote the maximum utilization of all tank cars available during the armament period. At a meeting in the Stevens hotel, their representatives named an executive committee of 15 to work out details and head the organization.

The meeting was called by Fayette B. Dow, consultant to Ralph Budd, transportation commissioner of the federal Office of Emergency Management. Budd attended the conference, but Dow presided and took charge of preliminary committee and group discussions and reports.

Raise Membership to 15.

Representatives of the petroleum industry were in the majority, altho the conference included members of other industries which ship by tank car. One of the primary purposes of the organization, as outlined previously by Dow, was to learn how many cars could be put into service to alleviate the threatened oil shortage in the east, caused by the transfer of American tankers to British service.

The representatives passed unanimously and without discussion the resolution of organization, which a "working" committee adopted earlier with the resolution to form the executive committee. The new group will include any tank car owner having 25 or more cars.

Confer on Eastern Needs.

The proposal for the executive committee was approved after the original nine members were increased to 15 on the motion of John S. Wood, traffic manager of the Pan American Petroleum and Transport company. Wood and others urged larger representation for the petroleum industry.

The executive body, as provided in the resolution, will appoint a permanent secretary to act as consultant to Budd with his approval.

The committee comprises four representatives of the petroleum industry tank car owner-shippers, four of companies which lease tank cars to various manufacturers and refiners, two of those companies in the petroleum field who lease but do not own cars, and one each of railroads, chemical, edible and nonedible oils, molasses and alcohol industries.

BUILD TANKER RAPIDLY.

Chester, Pa., July 7 (AP).—Launching of the 19,205 ton Atlantic Refining company tanker W. C. Yeager today marked a record construction job prompted by the war emergency shortage of tank ships. Sliding down the ways less than four months after laying of the keel at the Sun Shipbuilding and Drydock company, the vessel is expected to enter service between Philadelphia and Texas ports within a month to help relieve a threatened shortage of oil in the east.

Public Fooled on Synthetic Rubber Output, Says Expert

Baltimore, Md., July 7 (AP).—A charge that the American public has been fooled about synthetic rubber was made in an address here today by Dr. Ernst A. Hauser of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, one of the world's foremost scientific rubber authorities.

"Published articles in recent months, partly instigated by men in responsible positions in our rubber industry, have played up the possibilities of synthetic rubber to an extent which I hope to prove entirely unwarranted," he said.

The nation's need for rubber this year, Hauser figures at about 800,000 long tons. But he asserted the country's present production of synthetic rubber, from all sources, is only 6½ per cent of this year's needs.

Still Far Short of Needs.

Furthermore, estimating the production possible from synthetic plants still in the blueprint stage, the artificial rubber prospect reaches only 12 per cent of the needs, he said.

"What sense is there," he asked, "in a statement such as the one issued only two weeks ago by a man prominent in research that our petroleum industry, given 18 to 24 months, could supply synthetic rubber so that our needs of 600,000 long tons annually could largely be taken care of? [Six hundred thousand long tons is the normal United States annual rubber consumption.]

"Even if this were possible—and we know it is not—what about processing difficulties, etc.?"

Nearly All from Far East.

Hauser said appreciable amounts of South American rubber could not be counted upon before 10 years, at the earliest. Nearly all America's rubber now comes from the far east, via the Pacific ocean.

He advocated stimulation of guayule rubber as an immediate stopgap. This rubber comes from a bush common in the American southwest and in Mexico. Altho, he said, it is not yet as good as the standard rubber, and altho it now takes five years to put a guayule bush into rubber production, both obstacles can be met.

He declared that, in emergency, guayule bushes can be raised to a limited but useful rubber producing stage in one year. Research, he held, will bring this native rubber up to standard.

COTTON FUTURES RISE ⅓ CENT TO NEAR 11 YEAR TOP

General buying by domestic mills and Bombay interests lifted cotton prices to within about .10 cent a pound of the highest level in 11 years yesterday. Closing sales were at net gains of .31 to .37 cent a pound. Heavy rains fell in parts of the southeastern states, increasing fears of insect damage.

Cotton closed .29 to .32 cent higher in the cash markets, with New York at 15.77 cents; New Orleans, 14.75 cents; Houston, 14.64 cents and Galveston at 14.59 cents. Range of futures prices follows:

LARGE GOVERNMENT BUYING SENDS EGGS TO NEW PRICE PEAKS

Disclosure of large government purchases of egg products on Saturday sent egg futures soaring 0.85 to 0.95 cent a dozen to new seasonal peaks on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday. October eggs closed at 29.60 cents a dozen and the November contract at 29.65 cents after setting a five year high earlier in the trading. Cash prices were generally unchanged.

The Federal Surplus Commodities corporation bought 13,810,220 pounds of frozen eggs and 1,583,000 pounds of dried eggs for shipment to England, the largest of these types since the program was started. In addition the FSCC bought 5,980 cases of eggs in the shell, the first reported since June 17.

November butter closed with a gain of 0.60 cent at 37.45 cents a pound, an 11 year peak reached last month. The cash market was steady. The FSCC announced purchases of 38,000 cases of evaporated milk and 380,250 pounds of dry skim milk.

WARD AND SEARS JUNE SALES SET ALL-TIME PEAKS

Five Month Volumes Also Largest in History.

Montgomery Ward & Co. and Sears, Roebuck & Co. reported yesterday that their sales in June and in the first five months of their fiscal years had set new records for the periods. Besides mail order business, both of these Chicago companies operate extensive retail store systems thruout the United States.

June sales of Montgomery Ward & Co. totaled $52,871,545, an increase of 22.66 per cent over the peak of $43,104,316 set in 1940. Five months' sales aggregated $249,784,642, or 22.30 per cent more than last year's record trade for the period of $204,237,361.

Sears Total up 24 Per Cent.

Sears, Roebuck & Co. announced gross sales in June of $78,567,676, up 24.1 per cent from $63,312,911 in 1940. Five months' business of the company exceeded net sales for each of the entire years of 1931, 1932, 1933, 1934, and 1935. Gross sales for the five months were $355,498,055, a gain of 28.2 per cent over the 1940 volume of $277,398,030.

F. W. Woolworth company disclosed that sales for the first six months of this year were the largest in its history. June volume of $27,652,730 topped that of June, 1940, by 6.3 per cent. Six months' sales reached $159,034,956, a gain of 8.9 per cent over the first half of last year when sales totaled $146,035,415.

Our Friend the Tree.

July 7, 1941.

IF the dog is man's best animate friend, then the tree ranks first as his greatest inanimate friend. Trees are one of the most important crops raised at the Du Page county farm, and they receive as much attention and care as the corn, oats, or hay.

Most of the farm workers are as familiar with the different types of trees as they are with the different varieties of grain. Each has his favorite tree and will argue its merits against any other. Probably the most popular among the farm residents is the oak. Six different varieties have been found on the farm—white, bur, swamp, northern pin, red, and black oak.

One of the last to come into leaf in the spring, the oaks are one of the most beautiful of forest trees. They are tall and straight and their heavy branches and smooth trunks form a graceful picture the year around. In summer they throw a dappled, air conditioned shade that is welcomed by the men as well as the animals. In the fall they present a wonderful variety of foliage color, and the flaming leaves of the red oak can be seen for a great distance.

The Elm Is Popular.

Contesting for the position of the favorite shade tree at the farm is the elm. Planted where they are not crowded, the elms throw out wide crowns, and when set in opposite rows they meet together at the top, forming lofty Gothic arches. Chinese, American, and slippery elms are common on the farm. Their spreading fan-shaped form offers abundant shade to the hot and weary. They are an excellent tree for planting in avenues.

One of the earliest bits of color to appear in the spring is the yellow of the willows that grow about the edges of the pond. As the season advances the yellow turns to a brilliant green and the low swinging branches droop over the water in a graceful arc. Following the willows the soft maples and poplars generally begin to bud, adding to the color of the season. One of the latest to flower this year was the catalpa tree. Many of the men do not care for the catalpa because it litters the ground with its long pods and blossoms.

The farm has a large variety of trees, and in the woods and pasture lots one can find almost every type indigenous to this region. There are shagbark hickories, locusts, mulberry, horse chestnut, hawthorn, crab apple, sycamore, and many others.

The Osage Orange.

The farm also has a row of osage orange trees that each year are loaded with bright orange hedge apples. The osage once was one of the most common trees in this part of the country and spread for miles over the prairie lands as living fences. Farmers used them in place of stone or rail fences to hold their cattle and separate the fields. Because of the large amount of work needed to keep them trimmed and cut back so they would not encroach on the fields, the farmers gradually began to tear them out. They now are becoming fairly scarce, and it is a difficult task to get them started again.

No farm would be complete without trees, and for the valuable service they render to the farmer they deserve the best attention. The cattle are grateful for their shade, and the men for the serviceable material they offer. Aside from this they are one of the most magnificent and beautiful of all growing things.

FARMERS BOOST BORROWINGS TO INCREASE OUTPUT

Washington, D. C., July 7 [Special]. —Farmers and stockmen borrowed $200,000,000 of short term credit from their 525 production credit associations during the first six months of 1941 to finance crop and live stock operations, the agricultural department announced today. This was 19 per cent more than during the corresponding period last year.

The increase was attributed by C. R. Arnold, production credit commissioner of the Farm Credit administration, to the fact that many farmers are increasing production under governmental stimulus, to risng costs, and the necessity of hiring men to replace those entering army service.

FREIGHT TRAFFIC THRU SOO LOCKS SETS JUNE PEAK

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., July 7 [Special].—Already nearly ten million tons ahead of last year, freight traffic at the Sault locks continued its wartime pace with 14,673,432 tons passing thru in June to bring the total for the year to 37,692,093 tons.

June tonnage was a half million below the all time record of 15,153,378 tons moved in May, but was second only to that month.

Last year tonnage for the first three months totaled 26,983,872. At the present rate, paced by iron ore, tonnage in 1941 is expected to exceed 100 million tons, which would be an all time record for the Sault locks.

FIXING OF PRICES IS CHARGED IN LAW BOOK FIELD

The Federal Trade commission announced yesterday that 28 publishers and distributors of law books and publications, including two Chicago companies, have been charged in a commission complaint with engaging in a combination to suppress and restrain competition by price fixing and other practices.

The Chicago companies named are Burdette Smith company, 111 West Washington street, and Callaghan & Co., 401 East Ohio street.

The American Association of Law Book Publishers, Rochester, N. Y., was included in the complaint for aiding the respondents in their sales practices, according to the announcement. Among the effects of the practices, the complaint charged, was maintenance of arbitrary discounts and conditions of sale.

INSURANCE FIRMS GET BIGGEST AAA BENEFIT CHECKS

Payment to Prudential Is Largest at $133,191.

Washington, D. C., July 7 (AP).—Insurance companies and federal land banks topped a list of big benefit payments which the department of agriculture reported today it had made to farm operators for complying with major phases of 1939 crop control programs.

The largest single payment—$133,191—went to the Prudential Insurance Company of America at Newark, N. J. The second biggest was $96,332, paid the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company of New York. The Federal Land bank of Omaha, Neb., was close behind with $92,963.

Includes 43,454 Names.

Officials explained these large payments reflected immense holdings of farmland the insurance companies and banks had acquired thru investments and foreclosures.

The department said that less than 1 per cent of the operators who cooperated with the farm programs received more than $1,000. It said there were 5,756,240 payees under the conservation program. They received a total of approximately 500 million dollars. There were 5,467,000 payees under the price adjustment program. They received about 212 millions.
